CITY GOES TO POLLS TODAY

GREAT MEDICAL CENTER HERE LEADS WORLD

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago's humanitarian work is typified in the Cook County hospital. With its 3,300 beds, tax maintained for the free medical and surgical treatment of the needy, the hospital is rated the largest single institution of its kind in the world. Here the sick and the maimed with little of this world's goods receive the ministrations of highly trained specialists.

Other great cities with larger indigent populations may have more free medical units than Chicago—London and New York, for example—but not in one group. For purposes of comparison, to indicate the size of Cook County hospital, New York's Bellevue hospital has 2,069 beds; Los Angeles county hospital has a capacity of 2,800; London's Middlesex hospital, 3,000; Vienna general hospital, 2,800.

67,824 Bed Patients in Year.

Last year 67,824 patients were admitted to the hospital here and 93,523 were given dispensary care. Applicants for treatment totaled 191,888. In addition 5,600 cases went through the psychopathic department, at the rate of 100 a week. Expenditures for 1934 at Cook County hospital were $2,807,000, and the average daily cost was $2.76 per patient.

Cook County hospital had its origin in a hospital opened in Tippecanoe hall at Kinzie and State streets, by the county March 30, 1847. A city hospital was opened in 1857, and after use as a military hospital during the civil war was bought by the county in 1866. The present site bounded by Harrison, Wood, Polk and Lincoln streets was bought in 1874, and here, a year later, were built the two first medical pavilions.

In the heart of Chicago's west side medical center, the hospital has expanded until its plant now embraces seven divisions: General, children's, psychopathic, pathological laboratory, tuberculosis, contagious diseases, and men's medical.

Great Staf of 130 Physicians.

The attending staf consists of 130 physicians who serve for six years without compensation. They are under civil service, and there is great competition to get on the staf. There are 99 interns who serve 18 months. They are so grouped that 33 senior interns leave every six months and 33 new juniors come in. The examinations are highly competitive; last January 200 entered the tests. It is one institution in which politics has no place. In addition there are 33 specialized residents.

Nursing service at the hospital is operated by the Cook county school of nursing, an independent nonprofit organization. It makes yearly contracts with the county board to carry on the nursing service, the special diet service, the social service, occupational therapy, and physiotherapy departments. In 1934 its daily average personnel numbered 1,136 nurses and orderlies who gave 1,004,316 total days of care to the hospital's patients.

The hospital, in addition to its relief of suffering, serves an educational purpose for interns and nurses and medical students. Its clinics have long been known the country over. Wards are open to undergraduate medical students subject to regulation so as to provide bedside training in medicine and surgery.

Zimmer Expands Clinics.

Warden Michael Zimmer, who has served eighteen years and once was sherif and before that an alderman of prominence in the city council, points to the prenatal clinic as an instance of how the service is expanding. In this clinic a prospective mother without funds is given advice and guidance with a view of avoiding crippling of the infant at birth. Years ago Warden Zimmer had much to do in developing the schools for crippled children.

For heart disease cases, of which there are many, the hospital has a follow up system, a periodical check-up of discharged patients. The children's hospital, which has 250 to 300 patients, in addition to medical care also has the services of three teachers from the board of education to keep the hours from getting dull. The dental clinic for children has grown until it has several branches on the edge of the city.

All told, in Chicago there are 79 hospitals of which 62 are approved. They have about 14,000 beds and represent an investment of 80 million dollars. There are five class A medical schools of international reputation and no city seems better equipped with medical facilities than Chicago

'JUST A BOOB,' BARRY PLEADS TO FRAUD JURY

Blames Baiata for Banking Troubles.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

David Henry [Long Count] Barry, noted principally as the referee of the second Dempsey-Tunney fight, took the witness stand in his own behalf yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg and attempted to convince a jury that he was an unsuspecting victim of a gang of sharpers, who used his name and reputation in shady promotions.

Barry is co-defendant with Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul attorney, in a trial charging them with embezzling $54,473.28 from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, for promotion schemes which had as their ultimate aim the acquisition of the $13,000,000 Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, Ill. Otto Van Derck, 23 year old bank clerk, and Joseph Baiata, former convict, also indicted in the case, are not on trial.

Barry Gives His Version.

Baiata, who has pleaded guilty to the charge and who will be sentenced after the Barry trial, was blamed by Barry as the man responsible for all his troubles. Barry told the jury he was a "boob" for Baiata.

Under examination by Attorney W. W. Smith, Barry testified in great detail on his career as a lightweight pugilist and a referee, but he carefully skipped over the fact that he was the third man in the ring at the now famous long count fight between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. From this contest Barry derived his nickname.

Van Derck, who turned state's evidence, did not have the many intimate conversations with Barry which he said he had, according to Barry's general denial from the witness stand yesterday. Barry asserted he was barely acquainted with the bank clerk, and knew him only as "Van." He could only remember one brief conversation with Van Derck, that being when he was introduced to him by Baiata.

Keep Baiata Off Stand.

The defense was caught by surprise just at the noon recess of court when the state suddenly closed its case. It had been expected that Baiata would be a state's witness. It is reported, however, that Assistant State's Attorneys Thomas Dodd Healy and Vernon Thompson decided not to take a chance with the ex-convict by vouching for his credibility.

The defense attorneys then forced the state to elect on which of the seven counts in the indictment it would proceed. The embezzlement charge was selected and the larceny counts were dismissed. A motion was then made for a directed verdict of not guilty.

"The court is satisfied that the prosecution has made out a prima facie case against both defendants as accessory before the fact to embezzlement," said the judge in denying the motion. "Under the law an accessory before the fact is as guilty as the principal. The court is satisfied also that Barry was in this conspiracy if there was a conspiracy from the beginning."

Denies Knowing of Plot.

Almost immediately after the trial was resumed after the noon recess Barry, who is 48 years old, was called to the witness stand. He was obviously ill at ease as he tried to explain to the jury that he knew nothing of the conspiracy through which young Van Derck was holding out "N. S. F." [not sufficient funds] checks of various enterprises operating under Barry's name.

Barry related that he was merely a manager at the start for Baiata in the

Walker Broke; Admits Living on Betty's Cash

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Dapper Jimmy Walker, former mayor of New York, who has been a resident of England for the last year, is broke. He says so himself, and he ought to know. He was summoned into chancery court today to answer two judgments against him for bills alleged to have been run up by his former wife in New York.

The hearing brought out the fact that Walker had neglected to heed the annoying British regulation requiring all aliens in England longer than three months to register with the police. Confronted with this offense, the ex-mayor said he did not know he had to register.

"I am willing to do anything except give up my citizenship," he pleaded.

The penalties for failure to register include fines, imprisonments and deportation. Any, all or none of them may be assessed.

$45 Slippers Mentioned.

The first of the two creditors' suits against Walker was by Sommers, Inc., for $2,445. The bills mentioned such things as bedroom slippers at $45 a pair. Walker pleaded he had no income, was living with his mother-in-law and could make no offer of payment.

Questioned by lawyers, Walker said that when he was mayor of New York he received a salary of $25,000, of which $15,000 went to his former wife.

"She caused these debts," he said.

The second suit was instituted by the 60 East 65th Street corporation for a hotel bill of $7,413.80. Walker disputed this bill, and said the hotel owed him money.

Articles Netted $105 a Week.

Questioned about his income he admitted he had been getting $105 a week for twelve weeks for newspaper articles, but that this income now had stopped. He declared he had to give up 40 per cent of the money to an assistant who collected his data.

The former mayor said that his wedding trip and a recent trip to Spain with the present Mrs. Walker, the former Betty Compton, were paid by her out of her savings.

"For a period of 10 or 12 years," he said, "she earned $250 to $1,000 a week on the stage and screen, working an average of 40 weeks a year.

"Good Time Charlie Days" Over.

"I'm through being a good time Charlie. I didn't mind being a good time Charlie when I had money. When I went out to California on behalf of Tom Mooney I got a swell surprise when I found I had been charged with just about everybody's expenses at the hotel. It was that way everywhere I went. But those days are over now."

Cyril Strong, attorney for Walker, talked at length about the suits.

"They could never have got those judgments in New York if Mr. Walker had not been sick and detained on the French Riviera at the time," he said. "Nor could the judgments be obtained here if we are allowed to go into the merits of the case. Everybody in New York knew the Walkers were separated at the time those bills were run up."

Justice Luxmore adjourned the hearing on the suits until March 18 and suggested to the creditors to consider taking bankruptcy proceedings.

Denies She Ran Up Bills.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The former wife of the one time mayor of New York, James J. Walker, broke a two year silence today to deny a statement by Jimmy's English attorney that she had saddled Walker with debts after their separation.

"I want to say," she said, "that never in my life have I done anything to jeopardize Mr. Walker's position in any way and when I say that I include his credit."

STEALS LOCOMOTIVE AND STARTS FOR PARIS TO GET HIMSELF A JOB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LILLE, France, Feb. 25.—Annoyed because he was without a job, Armand Loncle, 27, decided to go to Paris to find work. He climbed into a switchyard locomotive, turned on the steam, and sailed merrily backward for the capital.

Three miles further on a suburban station master saw the locomotive moving along the track at 25 miles an hour. As the locomotive was about to enter the main line the railway employé jumped aboard, pushed Loncle aside, and stopped the engine just before a train was due.

Loncle is being held for mental examination.

'MAMMA COLD,' BOY, 4, WITH AX HUNTS FOR FUEL

Wandering about with a tiny ax and a sack, a small boy about 4 or 5 years old was found early today by Sheffield avenue police near Belmont avenue and Robey street. He explained to policemen that "mamma was cold—awfully cold," and he wanted to get some wood to make a fire for her. The child couldn't tell where he lived, and a request for his name was answered by something interpreted as "Junior Macheski."

Lieut. John Buckley, fearing that "mamma" might be an impoverished woman, perhaps actually freezing to death, toured the neighborhood, but could find no trace of the boy's parents, so "Junior" was put to bed in the station, covered by the lieutenant's uniform coat.

Paris Patriot to Reward Men in Stiff Shirts

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 25.—Beginning tonight, every patriotic Parisian who contributes to the restoration of the long lost elegance and gayety of France's capital by appearing at the smart downtown Theater Michel in evening clothes will be handed a gift.

Not only tails but also dinner jackets will be rewarded. That even the dinner jacket needs encouragement is taken by some impartial observers to indicate to what low estate the town has fallen.

Stiff Shirt Conscious.

Nearby London's recent resurgence of gayety has made the Parisians stiff shirt conscious, although there are some Parisians who are aware that New York, Chicago, and Hollywood never did quit dressing for the better seats in any smart theater. The thing has reached such a pass here that, whereas before the war evening clothes for most seats were compulsory on any night, now swallow tails are worn only for a première.

It is not due to the depression, say those who ought to know. They point out that the Frenchmen always have been less smart than Americans, Englishmen, Italians, and Spaniards and their own women—at least ever since they forsook the monarchy for the republic.

Tourists Go Elsewhere.

They and most of the post-war Paris gayety and sartorial elegance were prompted by the presence of great numbers of these same foreigners. Since the depression, whatever tourists remain go mostly elsewhere, to the increasing discomfiture of Frenchmen.

The Paris sartorial patriot is Robert Trebor—he is the theater manager who some time ago was chosen to stage ocean plays on the huge liner Normandie now under construction. Trebor, after a furious newspaper campaign to get the men to snap into it, despaired of that method, and today announced that his theater will reward white and black ties.

Boy Swallows Tack as He Sings; Doctor Removes It

Fred George, 8 years old, 6319 South Sangamon street, raised his voice in song with other pupils in the Beale Elementary school at 6031 South Sangamon street yesterday and accidentally swallowed a large tack he had just placed in his mouth. He was hurried to the Englewood hospital, where Dr. Elmer W. Hagens removed the tack, which had lodged in the esophagus. The boy is expected to leave the hospital today.

'Prince Mike' Called Bait in Divorce Trap

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Prince Michael Romanoff, nee Harry Gerguson of Hillsboro, Ill., and Ellis Island, popped into the news again today.

This time, however, the immigration authorities were not involved, as they so frequently have been whenever "Prince Mike" got into trouble.

He is involved in a lawsuit being brought by Mrs. Wilma E. Gould, wife of a retired pump manufacturer of Seneca Falls, N. Y., who charges that her husband and her husband's relatives, in their desire to get her divorced, set a trap and that Prince Mike was the bait.

Imagination Brings Fame.

The prince, who has gained much of his fame by using his imagination to graduate himself from an ordinary orphan of Russian parentage to a cultured graduate of Oxford and Heidelberg, thence to a member of Russia's proudest nobility, was in the Supreme court today to hear Mrs. Gould's charges.

And Mrs. Gould gave it. She told of having dinner in an East 35th street restaurant with "Prince Mike."

The prince, she explained, had been hired by members of her husband's family, and toward the end of the meal he slipped some sort of narcotic into her coffee.

"I began to feel sick and faint," she said, "and almost lost consciousness."

She said Prince Mike then bundled her into a taxicab and took her to a hotel room.

Room Full of People.

The next thing that Mrs. Gould knew, she heard a great clatter and knocking and to-do of one sort and another, and into the room burst her husband, Edward B. Gould, and ——

"—— Well, the room seemed full of people."

Furthermore, she charged that Mike had carefully wound the bedclothing around her semi-clad form so that she could not move, and the prince was only a few steps from nudism.

"They pulled the clothes [presumably the bed clothes] off me," went on Mrs. Gould, "and I heard a man say: 'Do you recognize this woman as your wife?'"

That man, she added, was Gerald Luisi, a private investigator in the pay of the Gould family, and also one of the defendants in the present suit.

Mike Plays Injured Rôle.

But the final touch of the drama was furnished by the prince, who immediately assumed the rôle of the injured party, and began to upbraid Mrs. Gould for "bringing him into this compromising position."

Even in her anger at the prince, Mrs. Gould could not refrain from a few admiring comments on Mike's histrionic abilities. Mike now is employed as a night club entertainer.

The prince took it all quietly, and left all talking to his lawyer, who, oddly enough, happens to be named Leon Prince. He looked tired and worn, and agreed that this was because of nights of intensive study. He did not mention the subject.

Also in court were the four defendants in the suit: Luisi, the detective; Norman J. Gould, former state representative and brother-in-law of the complainant; Mrs. Anna Gould, his wife, and Elwood Kemp Jr., a lawyer.

Husband in Sanitarium.

The husband, Edward B. Gould, is in a sanitarium.

The episode described by Mrs. Gould is said to have taken place on Feb. 10, 1931, which was while Prince Mike still was playing tag with United

PICK ALDERMEN AND CANDIDATES FOR MAYORALTY

Campaign Quietest in Many Years.

Election Facts

TO BE NOMINATED — Democratic and Republican candidates for mayor, city clerk and city treasurer.

TO BE ELECTED—Members of the city council. In wards in which no candidate receives a majority today the two high candidates go into a supplemental election on April 2, the day of the mayoralty election.

POLLS OPEN—From 6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

PRECINCTS IN CITY—3,127.

WEATHER FORECAST — Fair and rather cold.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chicago's quadrennial municipal primaries will be held today, but the usual element of suspense in connection with the major contests is lacking.

Strong indications last night were that Emil C. Wetten will win the Republican mayoralty nomination by a substantial margin. It has been known for months that Mayor Kelly would be the choice of the Democrats. Because of these two facts, the normal excitement of an election day has disappeared.

Ward Fights Offer Only Thrill.

The remainder of the Democratic city slate will ride to victory with Mayor Kelly. There will be some little interest concerning the Republican nominations for city clerk and treasurer. But the chances for anything like a real thrill has dwindled to the few wards in which there are really heated aldermanic contests.

Until yesterday the Republican slow motion race between Mr. Wetten and Mortimer B. Flynn was considered a close one. Then came tricklings of news that Republican ward committeemen who had indorsed Flynn had begun to swing over to Wetten. On top of these developments came word that Mr. Flynn had determined to stop putting up any further funds for ward committeemen until the returns are in.

This not only disappointed an undesignated number of Republican ward leaders but angered them to such an extent that they immediately began switching their instructions to their precinct committeemen. Some thousands of sample ballots marked for Flynn were destroyed.

Flynn Blames Democrats.

Mr. Flynn was inclined to hold the Democratic organization responsible for this series of shifts, but observers recognized it as the climax of a trend that had been under way for two weeks. It persisted in spite of Wetten's failure to conduct a campaign and his illness. If his dream of having the G. O. P. nomination handed to him on a silver platter is realized, he will receive word of it in a sickroom.

Two other election eve developments aroused some comment. The petition to place the Newton Jenkins "third party" ticket on the April election ballot was filed with approximately 66,000 signatures or only about 8,000 above the minimum required.

The Cook county Socialist party leaders announced they had given up hope of obtaining enough signatures to obtain their usual column on the April ballot and proclaimed that there would be no Socialist fusion with any third party movement.

Mayor Kelly's running mates today are City Clerk Peter J. Brady, unopposed candidate for renomination, and Gustave A. Brand, the organization choice for county treasurer.

Eight Republican Contenders.

There are four Republicans running for each of these two places in their party column but all have made personal campaigns entirely separate from the mayoralty candidates' races and there are no positive indications of the outcome of these relatively minor battles.

Otto M. Webb and Sigfrid L. Blomgren are considered strong contenders for the clerkship, and George J. McKerr and Charles W. Swanson are said to be leading the treasurership race.

POLICE TO GUARD POLLS

Police and election officials will be on duty all day today to protect polling places during the quadrennial aldermanic election and municipal primary but anticipate no violence or frauds. Police predicted last night that it will be the most quiet election in years.

A combination of bad weather, lack of interest in the primary election and the absence of aldermanic fights in the normally troublesome wards was the basis for the prediction of Fred V. Maguire, chairman of the board of election commissioners, that there would be no disturbance.

With its force augmented by 170 patrolmen borrowed from the Chicago Park district, the police department nevertheless prepared to man virtually all of the 3,127 precinct polling places. In some wards, where there are no aldermanic contests, a single policeman will guard adjoining polling places, allowing a full detail for the coal strike.

In addition to men at polling places, 800 patrolmen will be on duty to take the places of other patrolmen while they vote. Every detective squad will be on duty. Credentials have been issued for 60,000 watchers.

Extra police details will also be on duty at the election board offices in the city hall. In compliance with the state law, taverns will be closed during polling hours, from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m.

FIVE SUBURBAN PRIMARIES

Voters in five Chicago suburbs and seven other northern Illinois communities will hold primary elections today. With the exception of Waukegan and Kankakee, which use the aldermanic form of government, all operate under the commission form, which is nonpartisan. Candidates selected today for all offices except aldermen and commissioners will be voted on at the election April 16.

The suburbs voting are Highland Park, Chicago Heights, Forest Park, Harvey, and Palos Park. One of the most heated contests is that in Harvey, centering on the question of leasing the city water department to a private corporation. This plan is favored by Mayor Frank Bruggeman, who is seeking reëlection, and is opposed by Einar B. Bloom, his principal opponent.

The other towns voting under the commission plan are Wheaton, Downers Grove, and Glen Ellyn in Du Page county, Elgin in Kane county, and Joliet in Will county. Elgin will also vote on institution of summer daylight saving time.

In Waukegan there are nine candidates of the two major political parties seeking the nomination for mayor and fifty other candidates for aldermen, city clerk, city treasurer, and police magistrate. In several of the other communities nominations will also be made for city clerk, city treasurer, and police magistrate.

SALE OF LIQUOR IS ISSUE TODAY IN ONE PRECINCT

Interest in today's primary may lag in some parts of Chicago, but in the 44th precinct of the Seventh ward it is at fever pitch. Nearly all of the precinct's 517 registered voters are expected to turn out to express their stand on the sale of liquor in the area.

One tavern now is operating in this small residential district, which is bounded by 75th and 77th streets and Jeffery and Paxton avenues. Another tavern is temporarily closed, pending the outcome of the balloting, and a third, which provoked the dissension, closed on Feb. 1.

"We're not opposed to liquor," said Mrs. Paul H. Hahn, 7520 Merrill avenue, one of the leaders of the anti-tavern faction, "but we don't want saloons at our doorsteps. This has been a quiet residential destrict for twenty years, and we want it to remain that way."

This is the only precinct in which the liquor question will be raised at today's election.

MADRID POLICE FIRE ON RED MOB; 1 KILLED, 7 HURT

MADRID, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Madrid heard the rattle of gunfire tonight in the first serious clash since the October revolt when police killed one civilian and wounded seven during a communist demonstration in the heart of the city. Communists gathered to protest death sentences imposed for revolutionary activity were scattered by the gunfire. A small boy was among the seven wounded.

Rumors were circulated that leftists, who had issued a call for disorders to force the government's hand in the death penalty controversy, planned a major demonstration within a few hours. The government had expected disorders for 48 hours and was ready. Extra assault guards were placed at the telephone exchange and emergency troops were scattered throughout the city.

Martial law has been extended here and in several other provinces. A state of alarm exists elsewhere in Spain.

Catches Bass on Roof 14 Stories Above Street

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 25.—(AP)—L. M. Crow, an engineer, caught a six inch, striped, small mouthed bass on the roof of a downtown 14 story building. The live fish dropped out when he opened a bottom valve on the building's water tank. He theorized that it slipped through fish screens high in the Sierra mountains, was carried through conduit and aqueduct the 250 or 300 miles to Los Angeles and pumped into the tank.

Native Princes to Fight Sections of India Bill

BOMBAY, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The British government's new constitution for India, now going through parliament in London, received a severe jolt today as a result of a conference between the princes of the native states and their ministers. During a secret session a resolution was adopted by a large majority opposing certain provisions of the bill, which is designed to grant further self government with safeguards.

COUNCILELECTION INTEREST PIVOTS ON 6 WARD FIGHTS

36 Incumbents Believed Certain of Victory.

Interest in today's aldermanic election, in which council representatives from fifty wards will be elected for the first time to four year terms, centers largely on six scattered wards, where there appear to be genuine contests. Thirty-six incumbents appear certain of reëlection.

In four of the six wards, the 19th, 41st, 47th, and 49th, there are more than two candidates, and as a result contests in these wards appear likely to be settled in the run-off election on April 2. The run-off is necessary when no candidate gets a majority of all the votes cast in the February election. In the other two wards, the 9th and the 43d, only two candidates are running.

A Hot Battle in the 19th.

Warmest of the fights is in the 19th, where Ald. O. E. Northrup is engaging John J. Duffy and Robert Rohn. A run-off election will be necessary to settle the issue, campaign workers in the ward agree.

In the 49th the contest between Ald. George A. Williston and Frank Keenan is likely to require a run-off vote, although Keenan is believed to have a slight edge.

Ald. James C. Moreland is offering a stiff battle to William J. Cowhey, former fireman, in the 41st ward, and this area is quite likely to be the scene of a run-off contest, although Cowhey may top Moreland by a fair sized margin in the first vote.

Predict Run-off in 47th.

In the 47th, former Ald. John J. Hoellen is conceded a chance to defeat Ald. Albert F. Schulz, but most observers believe that a second election will be necessary to accomplish it. In the 6th, former City Clerk Patrick S. Smith is making a hard fight against Ald. John F. Healy, but a run-off seems unlikely.

Two other contests that contrast with the one sided aspect of most of the wards is the 9th, where Leslie V. Beck is seeking to unseat Ald. Arthur G. Lindell, and the 43d, where Irving Stevens opposes Ald. Mathias [Paddy] Bauler.

In sixteen wards there is no contest, withdrawals or election board rulings having reduced the field to a single candidate. Fourteen sitting aldermen and two other candidates, Hugh B. Connelly in the 11th and former Ald. James B. Bowler in the 25th, benefit from this situation.

Newcomers Given Good Chance.

Nine newcomers are given a good chance to win council places. These include Michael F. Mulcahy, seeking the seat of Ald. David L. Sutton [8th], who declined to run; William T. Murphy, opposing Asa Davidson for the place of the late Frank J. Corr in the 17th; Joseph Kacena Jr., out ahead for the post held by John Toman in the 23d; Edward J. Upton, sure of Assessor John S. Clark's old post in the 30th, and P. J. Cullerton and H. L. Brody, who seem certain to win seats to be vacated by Aldermen Henry J. Weiland and James J. Hurley in the 38th and 39th.

Bowler, a certain winner, and Hoellen, who is given a chance, are former aldermen.

UPHOLD VERDICT GIVEN CUTTEN'S "GHOST WRITER"

The $10,000 verdict awarded a year ago by a jury in the Circuit court to John R. Mauff against Arthur W. Cutten was affirmed by the Appellate court yesterday. Mauff was press agent and "ghost writer" for Cutten, wealthy grain speculator.

Judge John Prystalski entered the $10,000 judgment last March 17. Mauff had sought $50,000 allegedly due for his services as the writer of many articles that appeared under Cutten's signature. The appeal was based on the plea that the verdict was excessive, pointing out that experts at the trial set $2,500 as a fair price for the services rendered.

The majority opinion, written by Justice David F. Matchett and concurred in by two of the other justices, held that the jury had the right to be influenced by the fact that Cutten while on the stand was not asked his estimate of Mauff's worth. Presiding Justice John M. O'Connor wrote a dissenting opinion holding the verdict to be "manifestly against the evidence."

Mauff was a former official of the Chicago Board of Trade.

SEARCH RENEWED FOR COUPLE LOST ON ICE IN LAKE

While coast guards last night waited a break in the frozen ice floes believed to conceal the bodies of a young couple who disappeared Feb. 18 on the lake ice off Douglas, Mich., it was learned some hope was still held that they may be alive. Relatives believe they may have eloped.

The missing young persons, both former students at Oak Park High school, are Alan Donley, 21 years old, and Betty Harlan, 20 years old. The youth moved to Douglas six months ago with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Donley. Miss Harlan was visiting a sister there.

Last night Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan revealed he received a letter four days ago from Sherif Fred W. Miller of Allegan county asking that inquiries be made here for young Donley, who was said to have a brother and brother-in-law living in Chicago. Neither of the relatives could be located, Chief Sullivan said.

The young couple were reported missing after their skates were found beside a crack in the ice floe several hundred yards off the Douglas shore. At the time it was reported only their footprints leading onto the ice were found, but the sherif's letter stated that returning footprints had been found.

ARMY CADETS HURL CHALLENGE AT "MATHLETES"

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—(AP)—West Point's "mathletes"—a word coined by the cadets—are ready to meet those of any educational institution in a mathematical contest.

The challenge to all comers has been posted with congress by Maj. Gen. William D. Connor, superintendent of the military academy, who initiated a mathematical contest with Harvard in 1933, which the cadets won.

Gen. Connor said it created as much enthusiasm at "the Point" as Army winning an annual football classic from the Navy. He is endeavoring to arrange another "math" contest with Harvard this year.

WOMAN KILLED PUTTING PISTOL IN HER HANDBAG

Mrs. Eugenia Borsch, 39 years old, 8545 Vincennes avenue, was fatally wounded yesterday when a revolver which she was about to put in her handbag was accidentally discharged. Shot through the chest, she died several hours later in the Englewood hospital. Her son, James Borsch Jr., 18 years old, told the police that his mother was about to purchase a new automobile and was on her way to a neighborhood bank to withdraw $800. She intended to carry the pistol to protect the money, he said. The shooting occurred in her home.

REDS RAISE DIN AGAINST CABINET IN BRITISH HOUSE

Routed from Gallery, but Return to Lobby.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The strangers' gallery in the house of commons and later the lobby were the scenes of two noisy disturbances tonight when bands of communists persistently shouted "Down with the national government," "Smash the unemployment act," and "Down with slave camps." The Reds showered hundreds of leaflets on the heads of the members of parliament.

The gallery guards, recently reinforced by plain clothes men because of previous disorders of similar character, immediately pounced on two young ring leaders who got to their feet and began yelling and shooting pamphlets over the rails. The Reds were bundled outside to the police room, where they were detained until the session ended.

Maxton Letter on Leaflets.

Other disturbers put up vigorous resistance, but they were no match for the burly policemen. The disturbance lasted only a few seconds, and Minister of Agriculture Maj. Walter Elliot was able to resume his speech after a brief pause.

The leaflets, which were scooped up from the floor by several members of parliament, appealed vigorously for a united front "to smash the unemployment act and the national government."

Reproduced on the leaflets was a letter signed by James Maxton and Fenner Brockway of the Independent Labor party and Harry Pollitt and William Gallacher, on behalf of the communists, appealing to the Labor party to join them against the government and the Laborites' reply turning down the proposals.

Gather in Lobby.

Later on groups of Reds gathered in the central lobby of the house, trying to get interviews with local members of parliament. By 11 p. m. more than 100 communists, including many young women, were present.

Shortly before the house was due to rise, they began their shouts. Lobby police and plain clothes men swiftly hustled the disturbers outside. There they joined the crowd of between 400 and 500 supporters standing around the public entrance. Mounted and foot police reinforcements hastily were summoned and they cleared the mob from the sidewalks.

The demonstration was broken up at the main gates, but a section of the crowd, mainly the younger hot-heads, out of bravado dashed shouting through nearby Scotland Yard yelling. Not until midnight was all quiet.

FIRST ITALIAN TROOPS ARRIVE AT AFRICAN BASE

ROME, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The first large formation of Italian troops arrived today at Massaua, capital of Eritrea, Italian colony on the Red Sea, while more than 4,000 soldiers and workmen left Italian ports tonight for East Africa.

A telegram from Massaua announced the arrival of the S. S. Argentina with 1,000 Black Shirts from Naples. The Conte Biancamano left Messina with 2,700 officers and men and 3,000 tons of war materials. The Leonardo da Vinci sailed from Naples with several hundred soldiers and workmen and large quantities of war materials. Also putting out from Naples was the Nazario Saura, carrying 1,500 soldiers and workmen. She will pick up more troops at Messina, as will the Leonardo da Vinci.

A government spokesman announced no preliminary accord with Ethiopia was in sight, but confirmed yesterday's announcement from Addis Ababa of an agreement to establish a four mile wide neutral zone around important wells.

AUSTRIAN NAZI FRONT CAVES IN; VIENNA IS UNEASY OVER MOVE

VIENNA, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Reports from official sources that wide sections of the Austrian Nazi front were caving in and voluntarily dissolving evoked many expressions of alarm today in the government camp. An official announcement said voluntary dissolution of all Nazi organizations—both military and political—in upper Austria was in progress.

The government's communique said upper Austrian Nazi leaders and subordinate leaders were accepting a suggestion of the provincial director of public security and renouncing all illegal activity. It said they had submitted themselves voluntarily to the police.

There was an uneasy feeling in strongly anti-Nazi quarters that the move was merely a new piece of strategy and that the Hitlerites plan to enter the government's fatherland

One Nazi was seriously wounded and four others arrested today near Salzburg when an Austrian border guard exchanged shots with the five Nazis who were trying to escape into Germany.

CRIPPLE MAKERS OF "AGGRESSIVE" WARS, REDS URGE

Russia Would Prohibit Sale of Arms.

GENEVA, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Russian delegation to the arms trafic conference moved today to cripple nations making "aggressive" wars.

It proposed an amendment to the American draft for arms control whereby signatories of the convention would undertake to sell no armament whatsoever to countries in conflict unless it was to help a victim of aggression.

This prohibition would apply also to the transit of arms. Aggression and the victim of it would be determined under criteria already proposed by the league of nations.

Urges Control Over Arms.

America's delegation approved Russia's proposal to give the same control and publicity to private arms plants as to government arsenals.

Hugh R. Wilson, head of the Washington delegation, said he would amend the American draft so as to authorize inspection committees to examine in each country arms produced by private establishments.

Wilson defended this proposal and, apparently chiding Great Britain and Italy for their hostility to it, said:

"The desire to inaugurate inspection on the spot is so universal that I cannot conceive of any treaty dealing with armaments which could be found generally acceptable unless it creates a comprehensive inspection system."

Praise for British Firms.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, former teacher, today gave British arms manufacturing firms a perfect mark in deportment.

With an eye to the forthcoming royal commission inquiry into the arms business, a member of the house of commons inquired of the prime minister whether the government had any information that in the last ten years "any British arms manufacturing firm had sought improperly to influence the policy of the British or foreign governments."

The prime minister replied:

"I have caused inquiries to be made and, as a result, I am able to answer in the negative."

Decrees Hitler's Birthday as Chief German Holiday

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—Reichfuehrer Hitler's birthday on April 20 henceforth will be for the third reich what the former kaiser's birthday used to be for the former empire. It will be the most important national holiday on which honors, appointments, promotions, titles, and pay increases are to be bestowed on worthy servants of the state and national Socialist movement. This was decreed today by Minister of the Interior Frick "in order to emphasize the officials' attachment to the fuehrer."

WE'LL PROTECT YOU, BRITISH ASSURE AUSTRIA

Schuschnigg Sees Premier on London Visit.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 25.—No approval by Great Britain of the return of the Hapsburgs in Austria and no new British loan to Austria. These were the two negative results of the visit of Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria and his foreign minister, Dr. Egon-Berger-Waldenegg, to London.

On the positive side they have received assurances that Britain is all for maintaining the independence of Austria and supports the Rome agreement. Incidentally, the Austrian ministers were given a hint that Austria would be more popular in Britain if it were a little less rough with the Socialists and trade unionists. The Austrians took the hint and gave a half promise to be a little gentler in the future.

Call on MacDonald.

Schuschnigg and Berger-Waldenegg began the day by calling on Sir John Simon at the foreign office. After a half hour's talk they went across Downing street and called on Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald. Then they rushed back to the Ritz where they found Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, waiting for them. Norman has a little bill against them for the last Austrian loan, and it is believed he wanted to know when he would get something on account.

It was all very friendly, but there was no new handout.

Little effort has been made here to conceal the fact that the Austrians came here of their own accord, and were not invited. The British have been perfectly polite, but would rather that they had stayed at home.

Simon to Go to Berlin.

The Austrians visited the house of commons this afternoon. They heard Foreign Secretary Simon answer an agreed question put to him by George Lansbury, Labor leader, on his forthcoming visit to Berlin, which is likely to have far more effect on the future of Austria than anything Schuschnigg and Berger-Waldenegg can do here.

Simon said he had received a reply from Berlin to the British government's queries about the scope of further conversations on the Anglo-French proposals for European peace. The foreign secretary said Hitler informed him that Germany is ready to discuss the whole European situation, and invited him to go to Berlin for the discussion. He is arranging to go very soon, but the date has not been arranged. Simon also said he was considering whether to visit Moscow and other European capitals, meaning Warsaw.

Deputies Wait Till Act Ends to Serve Singer

Deputy sheriffs waited in the wings of a loop theater stage yesterday until Hiram Burch, a singer, finished his act. Then they served him with a court citation ordering him to explain why he is $864 in arrears in support money to Mrs. Loretta Burch, 4732 North avenue. The court order was issued earlier in the day by Superior Judge Allegretti when Mrs. Burch, through her attorney, Harry X. Cole, explained that she had seen her husband performing in the theater after looking for him for the past two years. Mrs. Burch was granted a separate maintenance decree in 1932.

RUSSIA STIRRED BY NAZI RAID ON OFFICIAL'S ROOM

Police Search Bed of Dying Man.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—Jacob Suritz, Russian ambassador in Berlin, today was instructed by Moscow to launch an energetic protest against the GSP's [German secret police] treatment of a soviet official named Orlowski, who is ill in a sanatorium at Sankt Blasien in the Black Forest.

Orlowski, who is not expected to live, has been bedridden in the sanatorium for the past six months. His wife came from Russia to nurse him in his dying days.

Search Patient's Room.

The Russian embassy charges that GSP men came to the sanatorium yesterday and insisted upon searching Orlowski's room although physicians assured them the patient had been too ill to be moved in the last half year.

The secret police compelled the doctors to remove Orlowski from his bed, which was also searched. Then they searched Mrs. Orlowski. The soviet embassy declares the patient's condition was aggravated as a result of the invasion by the police.

Retaliation Threatened.

The Moscow government has threatened to forbid Russian citizens to come to Germany in the future because of the incident.

It is understood that the central office of the GSP received an anonymous communication which said that Orlowski had been smuggling communist pamphlets into Germany from Switzerland. Nothing was found by the police in their search.

U. S. REFUSES GOLD COIN FOR PANAMA AS CANAL LANDLORD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Our government will not pay the $250,000 annual rental for the Panama canal, due Panama tomorrow, in gold coin of the United States, as stipulated in the treaty of 1904, Dr. Ricardo J. Alfaro, minister of Panama, was informed today by the state department. He had submitted a memorandum requesting payment in accordance with the treaty terms.

Payment will be tendered by check, representing dollars on their present devalued basis, and this check will be promptly returned by Sullivan and Cromwell, fiscal agents of Panama in New York, it was announced. The same course was followed last February when the United States tendered a check in payment.

The treaty of 1904 provided for an immediate payment by us to Panama of $10,000,000 "in gold coin of the United States" and later for annual rentals of $250,000 to be paid in "like coin."

CELEBRATE LAST BLAST IN 11 MILE WATER TUNNEL

$13,600,000 Chicago Av. Project Nearly Complete

One hundred and sixty-five feet below Central Park avenue in a dimly lighted cavern, a buzzer sounded a warning. A small group of engineers, newspaper reporters, and radio men, eerily dressed in long black rubber coats, miners' helmets, and hip boots, pressed back against the rocky walls. Water dripped steadily from the walls and ceiling.

It was exactly 12:15 p. m. yesterday and in three minutes Mayor Kelly, after appropriate ceremonies in the city hall office 4½ miles away, would push an electric button. The lights dimmed and went out. There was a moment of silence, and the roar of an explosion, a surge of choking smoke punctuated by light flashes, and a rush of air rocking the microphones and making ears ring.

Observers to the Scene.

The lights flashed on. The last mining operation was completed in Chicago's newest engineering feat—a water tunnel, 11⅛ miles long, bored through solid rock 165 feet below the surface. The eery group rushed to an electric train and, with an eye open for loosened rock, pushed to the end of the tunnel some eight hundred feet away, directly under Fillmore street and Central Park avenue.

Here, far below the new Central Park avenue pumping station, a huge pile of shattered limestone cluttered the floor of the tunnel. Smoke and dust filled the air. Workmen with pneumatic hammers already were breaking up the larger stones.

The toilers answered reporters' questions courteously, but evinced a desire to hasten the completion of their task, which has been to bore one of the world's greatest tunnels.

Great Engineering Operation.

A hundred and sixty feet overhead, watchers could see daylight through the concrete lined shaft. That daylight meant that a six year job was almost over. Up that shaft by July 1 water will be forced to the new pumping station from the new William E. Dever intake crib two and five-eighths miles off Chicago avenue in Lake Michigan.

At the Dever crib a shaft drops 185 feet below the water level. The lake there is 35 feet deep. From that spot the tunnel, 16 feet in diameter, runs due west under Chicago avenue to Central Park avenue. At Chicago and Central Park avenues the tunnel branches. A 10 foot bore runs north under Central park, Grand, and Springfield avenues to the Springfield avenue pumping station at Wabansia avenue. A 13 foot bore turns south to the Central Park avenue pumping station at Fillmore street.

The completed portions of the tunnel smooth lined with concrete, are as clean as a drawing room. All debris and muck having been washed away. The newer portions, too, will be processed in this manner.

The Start of the Expedition.

Under the supervision of James Versluis, chief mining engineer, the newspaper party left the surface at Lake street and Central Park avenue. In an elevator almost identical with that used in apartment buildings the party descended straight down to tunnel level. There in a rough walled room, cluttered with machinery, tools, and damp from water oozing through the sides the party assembled.

Then electric trains, running at a speed of from ten to twenty miles an hour took the party on an inspection tour. Engineers explained columns and reams of statistics to the inquiring newspaper men.

When completed the tunnel will provide Chicago with an additional water supply of 155 million gallons a day, twice the amount consumed daily by Baltimore.

Benefits to Populace.

In the city hall ceremonies Mayor Kelly, speaking to the radio audience over a national hookup, stressed the importance of the new tunnel. The total cost of the project, he said, would be $13,600,000, but the tunnel would serve Chicago for a hundred years.

"The completion of this water tunnel," he asserted, "should add measurably to the comfort and convenience, and consequently to the enjoyment of life of a million residents of Chicago. It will increase the capacity of the waterworks by 155 million gallons of water a day. I am certain that people living within the central portion of the city will be pleased next summer when the water from Lake Michigan comes rushing through this new tunnel, adding to their home facilities in a much needed manner."

ARKANSAS DRY LAWS ARE KILLED BY LEGISLATURE

Votes to Legalize Sale of Package Liquor.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Arkansas legislature voted today to end nineteen years of state prohibition.

Spurred by a demand from Gov. J. M. Futrell to repeal the dry laws or appropriate $250,000 to enforce them, both the senate and house passed bills to legalize package liquor sales.

What prohibition has meant to Arkansas, a point of sharp division—was debated furiously at both ends of the capitol, the house having taken up the Thorn package sale bill during the morning. The senate limited debate on its bill to five minutes to a member.

Expect $1,800,000 Revenue.

Senator Edward B. Cillon of Little Rock, author of the measure, estimated it would raise $1,800,000 a year in new revenues for old age pensions, other state charities and the general fund.

The bill would authorize sales in packages only of "all liquors above 3.2 per cent alcoholic content," that percentage having been legalized for beer in 1933 when Arkansas made the first move toward liberalizing her 1916 bone dry law.

Under the senate measure, private dealers would be licensed at fees ranging from $150 to $500 a year, depending upon the size of the county, and would pay a 40 cents a gallon tax to the state.

Retain Local Option.

All counties would become wet if the bill became law, but would have the privilege of exercising local option to outlaw sales by majority vote of the electors.

The house bill carries virtually the same provisions.

The senate adopted the emergency clause to the Dillon measure which would make it effective immediately if passed by the house and signed by Gov. Futrell, who has indicated his approval of it, but a near riot occurred in the house as a howling, shouting membership refused by three votes to adopt the emergency clause to the Thorn bill.

Failures of the emergency clause in either house would permit 6 per cent of the voters to prevent a liquor law going into effect until approved at the 1936 general election.

Move for Repeal in Texas.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A proposed constitutional amendment to eliminate Texas' 16 year old liquor prohibition clause gained the senate floor on a favorable committee recommendation today without dissent. The amendment would authorize the legislature to regulate manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor. Counties could conduct local option elections on both control and alcoholic content.

Georgia House Goes Wet.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The house of representatives moved to sweep Georgia's 28 year old prohibition law off the books tonight by passing, 112 to 52, a local option referendum bill and transmitting it to the senate.

BOY'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accident yesterday in the death of Walter Buckowski, 17 years old, 4636 South Francisco avenue, who was fatally wounded Sunday evening while examining a shotgun.

HUNDREDS IN WILD STAMPEDE AS POLICE RAID A STAG SHOW

There was a wild stampede last night among several hundred guests at a stag party in the North Shore ballroom, 2648 Hampden court, when two policemen interrupted the entertainment being presented by seven young women hired for the affair.

The policemen, Dennis Parkinson and James Hackett, from the office of Commissioner James P. Allman, were about to be overwhelmed by the stampeding guests and a radio call that "two policemen are in trouble" was sent out.

Squads answering the alarm, and not knowing the circumstances, assumed the officers were in a gun battle with hoodlums and stormed the hall with drawn pistols, tear bombs, and machine guns. Fortunately the true state of affairs was seen at once and no shots were fired.

Policemen Parkinson and Hackett were sent to the party when a complaint was made to the commissioner's office that an indecent performance was to be given. Two men and seven girls were arrested.

MILLION BUDGET RISE FAILS TO EVOKE PROTEST

Although the county budget for 1935 is more than a million dollars larger than the 1934 budget, not one protest was made yesterday when the commissioners held a public hearing in accordance with the law to allow interested citizens to object. The 1935 budget as now planned calls for expenditures of $19,104,000. In 1934 the commissioners appropriated $18,108,528 for county offices and $1,021,875 for election expenses. The latter item cannot be compared with this year, however, since there will be no county election expense during the next twelve months.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., head of the Chicago Community fund; Wilfred S. Reynolds, secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and others appeared before the board to ask for an additional appropriation of approximately $200,000 for the care of dependent children. The children now are under the care of the community fund and the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, but both these organizations charge that responsibility for the children lies with the county.

FIRE DESTROYS FOUR STORES.

Oilton, Okla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Fire believed to have started in a grocery destroyed four stores here tonight with an estimated loss of $50,000.

QUAKES AND GALE BESET EUROPE; 8 KILLED IN CRETE

France Has Worst Storm in Many Years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 25. — Storms and earthquakes, gales and high seas struck Europe, the North Atlantic, and the Mediterranean sea with renewed force today. The quakes rocked the island of Crete with a toll of eight dead and five injured. There were shocks felt also in Cairo and in Malta.

France surveyed the damage of its worst storm in years. Communications were interrupted and trains delayed in central France. Trees were blown down, roofs ripped off houses, and sculptures shattered in church yards.

The 2,190 ton German freighter Europa sent out an S O S call tonight from off the coast of Spain.

With 15 vessels already in distress, giving rise to the term "Black Monday" at Lloyds, a flurry of near panic hit marine underwriters in London when it was reported the Europa sent out an appeal for aid, but a check revealed the endangered vessel is not the giant trans-Atlantic liner. The Danish Svithold was rushing to the aid of the Europa.

Distress Calls Unceasing.

The distress reports and calls of ocean vessels were unceasing. The Italian S. S. Caterina Madre and the Greek S. S. Eftychia Vergotti sent S O S calls. The Italian ship said she had lost her propeller and pleaded: "Need urgent salvage. Position about 40 miles west of Ile d'Yeu. Dangerous situation. Save us." The 2,993 ton Greek ship, bound from Stettin to Istanbul, said her steering gear was damaged and she needed assistance.

The British S. S. San Melio, from Tuxpan, Mexico, to Tyne, Scotland, reported: "Sustained serious structural damage while hove to 800 miles east of Fayal [Azores] Sunday in a whole gale with mountainous seas. The American S. S. Liberty was standing by.

The British S. S. Ottinge, without a rudder, was taken in tow for Brest by the French tug Abeille.

U. S. Ship Loses Rudder.

The Italian S. S. San Pietro, in the Mediterranean, reported to the German S. S. Schlesien: "Have repaired, but very bad weather. Probably we will be broken again. Come near as possible." The Schlesien was about 50 miles away.

The Belgian S. S. Syrie, from Antwerp to the near east, sent an S O S asking immediate assistance at 46.18 north, 8.52 west. The British S. S. Alca was nearest.

The United States shipping board freighter Oakman lost her rudder 700 miles north of the Azores, but the S. S. Newport News was standing by and the Oakman was in no danger.

The French steamer Auvergne, which sent an S O S two days ago, was believed still anchored at sea, but with her radio silenced.

Japanese Ship in Tow.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The tug Salvage King today took in tow the Japanese motorship Taihei Maru 250 miles north of Cape Flattery. The Taihei Maru, 6,200 ton Mitsui company boat carrying a cargo of lumber, was helpless after breaking a crank arm en route from Grays harbor to Puget sound. The coast guard boat Chelan is escorting the ship and tug to Esquimalt, B. C.

U. S., SCHOOLS IN GRIP 'OF DOUBLE CRISIS', ASSERTS DR. FRANK

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, today told leaders in public school education that a "double crisis—on the one hand a crisis in external support and the other a crisis in internal policy—has caught the schools in its vise-like grip."

His plea for public support of schools was tempered by warning to 8,000 school superintendents and principals of the department of superintendence of the National Education association that they must face a situation which "cannot be met by the mere reshuffling of cards of curriculum."

The schools, he said, have produced a "generation of specialists."

Hitting indirectly at the New Deal he said: "Desperation, rather than a sense of confident grasp, has driven us to the ambitious ventures in national planning upon which we lately have entered."

BLIZZARD SKIPS CHICAGO; WARMER FORECAST TODAY

Snow Ties Up Roads; Cold Nips South.

Although the weather today will still be nippy, as it normally should be at this time of year, Chicago's brief snowstorm and cold snap will be over, according to the official forecast last night.

The strong northerly winds which swept through Chicago yesterday are expected to abate today and the sky will be clear, according to Forecaster C. A. Donnel. This will make the cold much less noticeable, he said. The low of 10 above zero expected early this morning will be followed by a 10 degree rise in temperature, Mr. Donnel added, with the expectancy of warmer weather tomorrow.

Swinging around Chicago, the western blizzard yesterday left a few snow flurries here and passed on northeastward to Lake Erie. Deep snow in Wisconsin, Iowa, and Michigan blocked highways and hindered rail and air travel. Northwestern Illinois communities were the only towns to feel the full force of the storm. Westward the country was recovering from a seige of blizzards, deep snow, biting dust storms, and tornadoes.

A cold wave was invading the deep south last night, with temperatures of 20 to 30 degrees above zero in northern Louisiana and Mississippi. New Orleans is expecting the temperature to drop to the 30s today.

NEW WEST SIDE SEWERS OPENED FOR INSPECTION

Six thousand feet of the new sanitary district 17 foot sewer, running 35 feet below Jefferson street from Taylor street to Fulton, was inspected yesterday by engineers and employés of the sanitary district. The sewer will be open for public inspection from 4 o'clock until 8 o'clock today and tomorrow.

W. C. Miller, senior engineer in charge of the construction of the tunnel, said that throughout the year of construction no surface traffic has been interfered with and no accidents or caveins occurred. He said that an average of 300 men were employed every day. The sewer cost about $1,000,000.

The intercepting sewer is a section of the sanitary district's $42,000,000 sewage treatment and disposal project being constructed with PWA funds. It will ultimately drain into the treatment works now under construction at Stickney. When completed no sewage will be dumped into the Chicago river from the loop district but will enter the 17 foot drain.

WIFE TESTIFIES IN 'QUADRANGLE' ALIENATION SUIT

Tells of Extortion Note Suspicions.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Leah Clampitt Sewell, attractive Beverly Hills matron, testified today that, while the alleged "perfect quadrangle" was taking form last November, one side of it suspected the other side of writing extortion notes.

She said her husband, Barton Sewell, wealthy sportsman, had received threats.

"We suspected everybody," she testified, adding, under questioning, Walter Emerson was one person they suspected.

So, she told the court, the Emersons were invited to live in the Sewell home temporarily, "for company." She said samples of Emerson's handwriting were taken during this time by a representative of the district attorney's office.

Thus the two families, long standing friends, came to live under the same roof.

"Love Quadrangle" Develops.

With this beginning, other witnesses had said, came the asserted "love quadrangle," in which Sewell and Mrs. Jane Scholtz Emerson consorted together, while Emerson and Mrs. Sewell concluded a liaison.

The "quadrangle," Mrs. Emerson said, at one time reached a point where, during a beach party, the couples paired off with each other, occupying adjoining bedrooms for the night.

Mrs. Emerson, well known in Denver and Beverly Hills social circles, said she had known Mrs. Sewell since they were students at an exclusive girls' school.

The "quadrangle" split suddenly when Emerson, actor and writer, and claimant to relationship with Ralph Waldo Emerson, the poet, sued for divorce, naming Sewell as co-respondent.

$100,000 Asked in Suit.

Mrs. Sewell quickly replied with a suit for $100,000 for alienation of affections.

Barton Sewell replied to Emerson's suit, declaring the romance between himself and Mrs. Emerson was accomplished with Emerson's knowledge and consent. Mrs. Emerson buttressed Sewell's contention.

Custody of the three Emerson children, all boys, is one of the points in the complicated case.

Today two women, one a former maid, the other a next door neighbor, testified to the good character of Mrs. Emerson as a mother. Each said they had never seen Sewell around the Emerson home, and painted Mrs. Emerson as an affectionate and devoted mother.

REPORT ARIZONA CATTLE BUYER IS SLAIN IN MEXICO

Douglas, Ariz., Feb. 26 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Relatives of James Regan, cattle buyer, were notified today by telegram from Las Vargas, Chihuahua, Mexico, that he had been "assassinated."

Regan checked through the port gates here Friday and told friends he was going to the ranch of Gordie Boyd, another American, at Carrettas, Chihuahua.

The terse telegram, in Spanish, was signed by Hilario Gabinlondo, Mexican cattle buyer and one of the prominent men of the Carrettas district.

No additional word regarding the tragedy could be learned here. Although Douglas is the port of entry for Carrettas, the distance is about 125 miles over a rugged mountain road, and it was believed a day or two might pass before any one would arrive from the scene of the reported slaying.

GRACE BONUSES OVER 14 MILLION IN LAST 18 YEARS

Steel Man Opposes Draft of Industry in War.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—A universal draft of men and industry in time of war, suggested today before the senate munitions committee, was vigorously opposed by Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel company, who was a witness at the day's session.

After he had presented his stand, the committee produced records to show that Grace had received bonuses totaling $14,282,000 in the last eighteen years, in addition to his salary.

During the three war years beginning with 1917, Grace received $3,669,000 in bonuses. He was head of both the steel corporation and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation during that time. Since the war he has received bonuses of $8,613,000.

Salary $12,000 a Yaer.

From 1917 to 1930 Grace received a salary of $12,000 a year. In 1930 his bonus was reduced but his salary was increased to $101,000 a year. Corporation earnings in the eighteen year period were about 40 million dollars.

Before these figures were produced Grace told the committee that in his opinion war time did justify a change in the relative pay received by individuals in industry and in the army and that he was very much opposed to any plan to tax away all profits of munitions manufactured in time of war.

"The company couldn't operate with a 100 per cent tax on profits," he declared.

Questioned by Nye.

"Can you see the difference between that and drafting a man for $1.25 a day to go out against bullets and gas?" asked Chairman Gerald P. Nye [Rad., N. D].

"I wonder if it wouldn't be right to pay the soldier more, say $5 a day or even more." Grace countered.

"Have you ever protested that this was not done?" snapped Nye.

"No. I am not a student of war," the witness calmly replied.

"Do you see why a skilled mechanic should be drafted and capital left to operate at a profit?" asked Senator Bennett Champ Clark [Dem., Mo.].

"What is the difference between capital and man power?"

Difference, Grace Says.

"There is a difference," said the steel company president. "I think we should be fairly compensated for use of privately invested capital."

He added that to compel an industrial executive to take an army officer's pay for operating a shipbuilding plant would "disjoint the whole system."

"Greatest efficiency comes from having the individual interested in the results of the work he performs," Grace said.

"Did the corporation or the government get additional service from you because of that bonus during the war that it would not have received otherwise?" asked Chairman Nye.

"Certainly not," Grace said. "I never gave it a thought."

Against U. S. Ownership.

The witness asserted that government ownership of munition manufacturing plants would not be efficient.

"But suppose an officer walked into your plant and told you you were drafted, and told you the trains were still running out to Leavenworth, what would you do?" asked Senator Clark.

"I would do the very best I could," Grace answered.

CHIEF OF COUNTY RELIEF SHELTERS QUITS UNDER FIRE

A. R. Carpenter Takes Blame for "Leakage."

Allan R. Carpenter, director of the twenty-two relief shelters in Cook county, announced yesterday his resignation, effective on March 1. He accepted responsibility for the "leakage" of relief supplies which investigators discovered in that division of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and for conditions in the shelters, which he denied, were inefficiently operated.

A. R. CARPENTER.

Carpenter has been prominent in the social service field for 15 years and formerly was a Boy Scout leader.

Charges that Carpenter "improperly" used relief labor to make repairs on his home were revealed yesterday by H. A. Pearson, chief investigator for the IERC. Carpenter had $350 worth of work done on his house at 208 North Washington street in Wheaton at a cost to him of about $80, Pearson said.

Although the workers were paid by Carpenter at the relief rates of from 60 cents to $1 a day, Pearson asserted the IERC was paying for their support in the shelters, thus giving Carpenter the advantage of the cheap rates at the expense of the taxpayers.

Case to State's Attorney.

"Commission trucks were used in transporting the men to Carpenter's home from the shelters or from the relief farm at Wheaton," the investigator said. "The workers also used the commission's tools on the job. As a routine procedure, the statements taken in the matter will be submitted to the state's attorney's office."

"These are things that were done before I took charge, as well as after," Carpenter said. "Use of a truck for an occasional personal matter was considered part of the 'living' due an employé in private charity organizations, and I thought the same held true here. Now that I have learned what I did was wrong I am resigning.

"As to the house repairs, I wanted to give the men a chance to earn a little money. As to efficiency, let me point out that it costs only $8 to support a man for a month in the shelters—half as much as in any other section of the IERC."

SENATORS DENY RESPONSIBILITY FOR WORKS BILL

Public Reaction Fails to Revive Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Supporters of the McCarran prevailing wage amendment to President Roosevelt's 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief bill denied responsibility for wrecking the public works program as debates continued in the senate without any bill before it today.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] declared that if the bill is killed it will not be the responsibility of those who voted for the McCarran amendment, but rather those who sent it back to the appropriation committee. Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], apostle of the 30 hour week, said nobody would be fooled by the administration's "gesture in sending this bill back to committee."

Say Bill Can Be Passed.

Both senators insisted that the bill could be passed, if the administration wanted it to pass, but nevertheless indicated no willingness to back down in their support of the McCarran amendment.

Meanwhile the much heralded public reaction expected by the administration leaders when they sent the bill back to committee upon adoption of the McCarran amendment last week failed to materialize. The strategy, as interpreted by Senator Black, was to place the McCarran followers in the position of wrecking the works program in the hope that they would be overwhelmed with a volume of protests as they received in the world court fight.

But senators said today that their mail had shown no material increase. Public indifference was the rule, both on the McCarran amendment and the supposed wrecking of the works program.

Await Roosevelt's Return.

No action was taken by the appropriations committee and Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], the President's spokesman, said there were no plans for immediate consideration of the bill. Apparently the administration leaders were awaiting the return of President Roosevelt from Hyde Park later in the week, in the hope that some of the McCarran supporters could be induced to change their votes. Unless this can be done, the committee will have to draft a straight dole measure, which the Republicans and conservative Democrats are demanding.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] accused the administration of trying to deceive the public with claims that the prevailing wage on federal construction projects would add 2 billion dollars to the cost of a works program.

"If the purpose of this program is to put men to work, certainly it will not cost any more to pay them the established wages and let them work part time," said Senator Hastings.

ROOSEVELT DESERTING NRA TO SLAUGHTERING REVISION, SAYS SCHALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has deserted the NRA and is willing to see it "modified" to death, Senator Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.] said in the senate today.

Meanwhile, the senate was assured of a two ring investigation of the NRA when Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.] announced that his audit and control committee would allot $5,000 each to the senate judiciary and finance committee so that each one can proceed independently with its proposed NRA investigation.

The NRA would be killed by the revisions which President Roosevelt suggested should be made in it, according to Senator Schall, one of the NRA opponents. Quoting the President's message on the NRA, the senator sought to show how the White House recommendations would wipe out the recovery administration.

Senator Schall saw a retreat from the NRA in Mr. Roosevelt's demand for protection for small industries, in his suggestion anti-trust laws "be more adequately applied," in his denunciation of monopolies, and his suggestion that jail sentences for NRA violations be eliminated. To follow any of these suggestions would mean the end of NRA, Senator Schall insisted.

10,830,000 IDLE IN DECEMBER, ESTIMATE BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A New Deal estimate of the number of idle—the first such compilation since President Roosevelt took office—today placed at 10,830,000 the number out of work in December, 1934.

This disagreed by half a million with the conclusion by the American Federation of Labor that 11,329,000 persons were unemployed at that time.

The figures were released without public comment as part of a sixty-eight page report on the operation of the National Industrial Recovery act.

The council's statistics were that the peak of unemployment in the depression was 13,597,000 in March, 1933, and that a decrease of 2,767,000 has been made in the number of unemployed during the Roosevelt administration.

BRAKES FAIL; HITS TRAIN; DIES.

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—R. Earl Kemp was killed here early today when his automobile crashed into the side of a moving train. The brakes on his car failed when he tried to stop at a crossing.

ROOSEVELT PUTS FAITH IN CHANGED ACTION BY SENATE

Expects 5 Billion Work Bill Victory.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Confident that the country is behind him President Roosevelt tonight entrenched himself in his resolve not to yield to the senate bloc which is threatening to overthrow his 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief program.

The President was heartened in his attitude by a flood of messages, expressing approval of his stand, received at his home here and at the White House.

See Gain for President.

White House attachés, who reflect the views of their chief, said the senate incident has regained all of the ground lost by the administration since the opening of congress. They said the reversals of the last seven weeks had worried administration leaders, but the senate revolt has in their opinion returned the rosy glow to the New Deal in the public eye.

Maintaining his expressed policy of refraining from commenting on pending legislation, the President was silent although he eagerly followed every development. He was in constant communication with Washington.

Awaits Public's Reaction.

Informed observers said that he is waiting for public reaction to the senate bloc to assure success to his program to take employables from relief and set them to work. The situation is one of intense significance to the New Deal because the fate of the administration hangs upon its outcome. If the public forces abandonment of the senate position on payment of "prevailing wages" to those working under the relief program the President will regain control of congress, party leaders believe.

It was stated from the Hyde Park home that the President was not considering going to the people on his work relief program in a radio address. Such a course had been advocated by administration leaders.

Prepares Message on Ships.

While tension prevailed at Washington, the President relaxed into the calm country life of his estate here. He spent the day studying a mass of reports and working on the shipping message he hopes to send to congress on Wednesday or Thursday. He is also preparing a message on transportation for submission next week. The shipping message is expected to call for direct subsidies to American shipping.

Aids said the President is enjoying his brief escape from the grinding White House routine. He had no visitors and lounged about his study in comparative ease. He will return to Washington Thursday morning.

Late in the afternoon he went for a short auto ride. A thaw forced abandonment of a plan to repeat his sleigh ride of yesterday. He rode through the side roads of his estate.

In the morning he wired a message of congratulation to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins on the dedication of the New Labor building.

POSTAL OFFICIAL SENT TO PRISON FOR RIFLING MAIL; BLAMES ILLNESS

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—A gray haired man, old in appearance beyond his 57 years, today pleaded guilty of rifling the United States mails. He was Julius L. Barner, father of a Baptist clergyman. Until his betrayal of trust was discovered last November, he had been assistant superintendent of the Times Square station of the postoffice.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, who heard his confession, declined to give Barner his freedom, although the latter's attorney argued that he had been a trustworthy employé of the government for 34 years until ill health had caused this aberration.

The court sentenced Barner to serve a year and a day in prison. The charge was embodied in an indictment which accused him of having stolen a letter containing $5.25 in currency.

Policeman Reported Named in Extortion True Bill

Policeman Alfred Hammer of the Stanton avenue station, who is under suspension, was reported named in a true bill voted yesterday by the grand jury charging him with attempted extortion. Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney presented evidence to the jurors, it was reported, showing that Hammer attempted to extort $1,200 from Neil Duffy, 10600 Torrence avenue, a tavern owner. Hammer, who lives at 13147 Escanaba avenue, is said to have confessed. He is at liberty in bonds of $5,000.

NRA COSTS EACH PERSON IN U. S. 40 CENTS YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The NRA is costing 51 million dollars a year, or the equivalent of a tax of 40 cents per year on every person in the country, it was learned today.

The NRA reported it has a pay roll of $821,876 a month, or approximately 10 million dollars a year, which it is paying out of the public treasury. This money comes from the taxpayers.

In addition, 41 million dollars in "assessments" have been levied on coded industries by code authorities in order to pay for the enforcement of codes in those industries. This money never passes through the public treasury.

The aggregate direct cost of the NRA to business and industry is thus placed officially at 51 million dollars a year. It has imposed other indirect costs such as higher labor costs.

The official NRA staf in Washington and the field has grown steadily from the original force of 556 workers costing $49,000 per month in June, 1933, to a huge bureau of 4,563 workers having a monthly pay roll of $821,876, the NRA personnel report showed.

Are you tired of EVERYthing, mister? Office give you a pain in the neck? Listen . . we've a rarebit that's sunk so deeply in hot and nippy cheese you'll dig and delve happily for some fifteen minutes . . this cockeyed world FORGOTTEN.

OFFICIAL DEPICTS GRACE KIDNAPING PLOT' AS TALK

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The "kidnap plot" against Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, was deflated today into "just talk."

"Nothing more than a conversation between two men," was the way the "plot" was described by an official high in investigation of the reported abduction scheme.

A proposal to "snatch" the steel magnate and hold him for $250,000 ransom was made in an underworld conversation "six or eight months ago," but was rejected "a few hours" after it was made, the spokesman said.

No "plot" was hatched, he added, and no threats were sent to Grace or the two public officials—Mayor Robert Pfeifle and Nicholas Costelucci, county court clerk—reported named to share the kidnap fate.

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion-gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralizing gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrefies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From the world's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer, than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-choked bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist. Advertisement.

G. O. P. FIGHTING ICKES' PROJECTS FOR HOME STATE

Horner Studies Plans Like the TVA'S.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner's expressed desire for legislation that would permit the blossoming in Illinois of New Deal socialistic ventures has found fruition, according to information available today, in the minds of members of the national administration.

No sooner, apparently, had Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, and public works administrator, and James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, discovered the governor's inclination toward placing the state and its units into competition with private business, as given utterance in his biennial message, than they ordered their legal staffs to prepare appropriate measures. Ickes offers 13 bills; Moffett 9. State Senator Searcy [Rep.] is leading the fight against them.

Horner to Study Bills.

Those bills have been dispatched to Springfield. It is likely that the governor will peruse them. Not until he has finished his study will it be definitly known which, among the many measures proposed, will be sent to the general assembly with a request for enactment.

Two of the bills that Mr. Ickes has proposed for his home state seem to follow the lines of the New Deal experiments, such as the Tennessee Valley Authority, more nearly than the others. One places municipalities in the public utility business. The other would permit the use of federal funds to electrify rural communities.

The first program is known as the "improvement authority law." It creates municipal improvement authorities without power to tax, but with power to issue bonds payable solely from revenue producing improvements such as water sewerage, gas or electric heat, light or power systems.

For State Electric Power.

The second program is embodied in three measures. They are known as the state rural electrification authority act, the power district law, and the electric membership corporation act. They encourage the fullest possible use in the state of electric energy produced by governmental agencies.

In submitting these bills to the governor, Mr. Ickes may have been moved by some prophetic instinct. He is reported to have said in a letter of transmissal:

"It may be necessary to test the constitutionality of some of these bills, if enacted into law, before loans can be made thereunder."

It is believed Mr. Ickes wrote those words before Federal Judge W. I. Grubb at Birmingham, Ala., held the TVA to be without legal right to sell surplus power, and at the same time enjoined 14 Alabama municipalities from borrowing funds from the PWA to construct municipal distributing systems to use TVA power.

The Ickes Illinois measure authorizes the issuance of bonds for these projects to be paid solely from revenue from such projects without resource to tax levies. The joker, if such, is that if a referendum is to be had it must be asked for by 20 per cent of the voters within 10 days after a bond ordinance is published.

Searcy Denounces Plan.

In another bill Mr. Ickes would give federal agencies, engaged on projects that would require the acquisition of real estate, the right to obtain it by exercising the power of eminent domain. Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield] has a resolution before the executive committee of the senate denouncing the purported intention of the national administration to take property without going through the usual judicial procedure.

The other Ickes' bills seek to clarify the powers of cities to engage in public works projects and issue bonds, validate past acts in coöperating with the PWA, and further empowers the state and its counties and municipalities to coöperate with Federal Housing authorities.

Mr. Moffett in submitting his bills calls attention to the fact that the legislatures of many states are contemplating mortgage moratorium laws, and his comment on this is:

"The program of the Federal Housing administration contemplates the encouragement of the construction of new homes, and the refinancing of many mortgages, the foreclosure of which is held in abeyance by mortgage moratoria laws. This would be accomplished by providing favorable terms of mortgage financing to the borrower, and by assuring unusual safety and liquidity of investment to the mortgagee.

Missionaries Missing in China

Alma Ruth Artibey (left) of Chicago and Ruby V. Thompson of Nevada, Ia., two missionaries reported missing in China.

CHICAGO WOMAN FEARED HELD BY CHINESE BANDITS

Search Started for 4 Missionaries.

SIAN, Shensi Province, China, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The capture and possible murder of a young Australian missionary at Ninkiang and the disappearance of his wife contributed today to fears for the safety of two American women missing since Feb. 18.

Unconfirmed rumors reached the China Inland mission here that the Rev. Mr. S. C. Frenchan had been killed by his bandit captors. Communications with Ninkiang were cut off and no confirmation could be obtained. Frenchan is an Australian from Melbourne and his wife is from London. Both are less than 30.

The two Americans, Miss Ruby Verne Thompson of Nevada, Ia., and Miss Alma Ruth Artibey of Chicago, were reported to have evacuated Fenghsien just a week ago.

Sent Back for Ransom.

News of the Frenchan couple sharply recalled the fate of the American missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stam, who were beheaded by communist rebels in southwest Kweichow province last December.

Information available at the Inland mission was that the Frenchans, who had been married less than a year, were captured together about two weeks ago at Ninkiang. Mrs. Frenchan was released and told to procure ransom.

Local missionaries have undertaken a search through the snowcovered and ice-laden mountains of western and southern Shensi for Mrs. Frenchan, who was said to be an expectant mother. It was feared that she had become lost while attempting to reach Fengsiang, a 10 day journey northward on foot.

Thirteen Others Located.

The British men missionaries, one of whom arrived here only Saturday, spent 12 days fleeing through the territory. They started out on foot again today, laden with food and medicines, to try and find Mrs. Frenchan and her husband.

Other reports indicated that 13 other missing missionaries have been located. A group of five British church workers, three women and two men, arrived with two children at Fengsiang after a perilous journey from Hanchung in South Shensi. Eight more from the same mission, four men and four women, with one child, escaped from South Shensi to Anking, many miles down the Han river.

AWAIT WORD OF FATE.

Relatives here of Miss Alma Ruth Artibey, 27 year old missionary, who has been reported missing in the bandit infested district of Shensi, China, waited word of her fate last night. Miss Artibey is the daughter of John H. Artibey, 6424 Eggleston avenue, an employé of the Southside laundry.

Miss Artibey and Ruby Thompson of Nevada, Ia., left their mission at Fenghsein on Feb. 18.

Miss Artibey was graduated from Moody Bible institute in April, 1932, and in September of that year left for China. Miss Thompson, now 42, has been a missionary in China since her graduation in 1916 from Moody institute. In a letter written before Feb. 18 she told her parents of having been advised to leave her post.

Harry T. Fultz to Direct Relief Education Work

The appointment of Harry T. Fultz as director of the educational program of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission was announced yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary. Mr. Fultz, a graduate of the University of Chicago, for eight years was an instructor at the University High school and for ten years director of the vocational school of the American Red Cross in Albania. Mr. Fultz's job, a new one, will be to coordinate the administration of the educational program. The salary is $300 a month.

They were Jimmie Montague, 27; his wife, Marie, 21, and his sister-in-law, Jeane Simmons, 19.

INJECT MORALS INTO HEARING ON CHANUTE FIELD

Six Million Is Sought for Modernization Work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The question of small town morals was injected today into the consideration of the ultimate fate of the army's Chanute Field at Rantoul, Ill.

Representative Donald C. Dobbins [Dem., Ill.], in whose district the flying field is located, appeared before a house military affairs subcommittee pleading for the expenditure of 6 millions dollars for rehabilitation and modernization of the establishment.

Little Town of 2,000.

"But I understand that Rantoul, a little town of 2,000, can't afford amusements and social life for army men," put in Representative Lister Hill [Dem., Ala.], chairman of the subcommittee.

"The surgeon general has reported that the morals there are very high," Dobbins said.

"Such talk is a lot of bunk," Representative R. Ewing Thomason [Dem., Tex.] insisted. "Morals are always better in a small town than in a large one."

Dobbins suggested that the fact that the University of Illinois at Urbana was only 14 miles from the field would act as an intellectual stimulus for the men.

Says Morale Is Low.

"It is true that the morale of the men is low," said Dobbins, "but this is because the housing conditions are so miserable. I have been through the barracks and seen men sitting on their bunks wearing overcoats and studying in midwinter. There are spots where you can poke your fist through the walls. In the officers' quarters doors are hanging from the hinges."

Dobbins said that there were 400 men at the field now and the normal quota is 1,000.

ONTARIO SEEKS RIGHT TO NAME QUINTS' GUARDIAN

TORONTO, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Seeking to end the controversy over control of the Dionne quintuplets, David Croll, Ontario, minister of welfare, introduced a motion in the legislature today asking that the guardianship of the babies be vested in his department. This would give the government the right to name guardians.

The Toronto Star says "This step is proposed by the government with a view to preventing any promoter from getting control of the babies, or exploiting them."

"When Chicago promoters attempted to take the babies down to the World's Fair to place them on exhibition, the attorney general took them from the immediate control of their parents and had them placed under the guardianship of W. H. Alderson, Red Cross official; Kenneth Morrison, Callander, general merchant; Dr. A. R. Dafoe, and Oliver Dionne, grandfather of the quintuplets."

The Star said the guardianship expires July 26, 1936, and that the quintuplets would be returned to the control of their parents, who are on a vaudeville tour in the United States.

Tests New 'De-Icer' Plane Equipment

Stewardess Hazel Root pouring water over tail surface of United Airlines Boeing plane to test new equipment being installed on all planes of line. The device, which weighs about 75 pounds for a plane the size of the Boeings, consists of rubberized shoes made of tubes of specialy knitted fabric and covered with high test wax finished rubber. The shoes are placed on the tail surfaces and air is pumped into them so that they inflate and deflate alternately, thus cracking any ice which forms. The wind stream then blows away the ice.

LIBRARY TO ASK $2,500,000 PWA BUILDING FUNDS

The Chicago Public Library board voted last night to ask the federal Public Works administration for $2,500,000 to add a west wing to the central library building and to erect 20 branch structures, provided there be no cost to the library board.

Chief Librarian Carl B. Roden said, "We've needed a west wing on our main building for 40 years and we're paying $30,000 a year rent on 20 branches." He related that C. M. Osborn, Illinois engineer for the PWA, asked him to list needed construction as a basis for employment.

Osborn announced yesterday the extension to March 1 of the period during which local governments may file lists of projects which they wish to be included in President Roosevelt's 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief program, now pending in congress. Osborn said Chicago and Illinois had failed to enter their programs.

Youth Taken to Kankakee for Trial as Armed Robber

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Eugene Malson, 23, of Decatur, Ill., was brought here today to stand trial for robbery with a gun in connection with a holdup last Dec. 23 which resulted in the death of Joseph Gliatta of Chicago, a district manager of the Walgreen Drug company.

POLICE WATCH ALL MOURNERS AT BIER OF RIO

Squads from the detective bureau kept watch yesterday on the visitors to Rago Brothers undertaking parlors at 624 North Western avenue, where lay the body of Frank Rio, public enemy, who died Saturday of heart disease.

A photographer who ventured inside was roughly handled. There were those present at the "wake" who had reasons for not wishing their pictures to be published, the detectives said.

Rio, former bodyguard and cellmate of Al Capone, was arrested with him and served a sentence with him in a Pennsylvania prison. When Capone was sent to a federal prison three years ago Rio advanced to leadership of the Capone "syndicate" and retained control over a number of gunmen.

Rio is to be buried in Mount Carmel cemetery tomorrow after funeral services at 11 a. m. in the Rago chapel.

WIDENED STREET IS EXPENSIVE AT 3D DEATH CORNER

24 Ashland and Chicago Casualties Cited.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago's No. 3 death corner, as rated by Leslie Sorenson, city trafic engineer, is Chicago and Ashland avenues, where automobiles killed one person and injured twenty-three others in twelve months.

At the only two other intersections in the city—at Western avenue and Roosevelt road and at 55th street and Cicero avenue—have there been a larger casualty lists. Six other intersections scored three deaths each, but these were in isolated accidents without the heavy toll of personal injuries.

Pedestrians Are Chief Victims.

Chicago and Ashland avenues is in a community business center. Pedestrians are numerous. In addition to shoppers there are many street car patrons transferring between the north and south and the east and west line.

Of the year's toll at this crossing, nineteen were pedestrians including the fatality, two were persons hurt in a headon collision and three were hurt in cross-trafic crashes. There are no pedestrians on an elevated highway; headon collisions are physically impossible because of central curbing, and there are no cross-trafic collisions because there is no cross-trafic.

Ashland avenue is a widened street, one of Chicago's main north and south thoroughfares. This widening, at a cost 645 per cent greater than the cost of elevated highway construction for the same additional trafic capacity, is proving to be excessively expensive in human lives and limbs as well as in tax dollars.

Hazard Called "Chinese Wall."

For example, at this intersection with Chicago avenue, which is a narrow street car track street, all but one of the nineteen pedestrians struck by automobiles on the corner were hit by Ashland avenue trafic. There are just as many or more folks crossing Chicago avenue because the narrow street has more merchandising activity.

"The hazards of Ashland avenue are a Chinese wall between the east and the west sides of the street," said George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, using a metaphor that is a favorite with local improvement groups who have opposed elevated highways.

The engineer also pointed out that of the nineteen pedestrians hit by automobiles, all were walking against a red light at the time they were struck, according to police reports. Some, doubtless, had started across the street and were caught in the middle by the change of lights.

Trafic Signal Hard to See.

Ten of the nineteen were walking in a direction that did not give them a direct view of the trafic signal. The red and green lamps are so designed that in walking counter clockwise around the four corners it is necessary to glance diagonally across the street to see the lights. Of the other nine pedestrians injured, three were walking where they had a good view of the lights, three were stepping off safety islands and two were standing on street car loading platforms when hit.

Eleven of the pedestrian casualties were after dark, one at dusk, and seven in daylight. The hour with the heaviest toll was between 8 and 9 p. m. when automobiles struck five.

CHICAGO'S NO. 3 DEATH CORNER

One pedestrian was killed and nineteen injured in twelve months at Chicago and Ashland avenues, Chicago's No. 3 death corner. All were walking against the red light when struck by motor cars. A photographer a few days ago caught this group walking across Ashland against the lights.

'PRINCE MIKE' CALLED BAIT IN DIVORCE TRAP

Hired by Husband's Kin, Wife Charges.

States authorities, who hadn't decided whether or not he ought to be deported.

Prince Mike's visits at Ellis Island, where he has spent so much time in the past, began in 1922, when he turned up among a shipload of belated world war veterans.

At that time he wasn't a prince, merely a graduate of Oxford and Heidelberg. At Heidelberg, he explained, he had been forced into a duel with a young German nobleman, and killed him, all of which resulted in ten years' confinement at an old fortress.

Title Changed Frequently.

This story went over so well that Mike began to develop royal blood. By 1923—the time of his next visit to Ellis Island—he was Prince Dmitri Obolenski. Subsequent visits found him Lord Wallingford, Dr. Waschoitel, and finally Prince Michael Alexandrovitch.

LONG WILL CALL SPECIAL SESSION ON TAX REBATE

Baton Rouge, La., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long, arriving today for the announced purpose of continuing hearing on his plan to force lower telephone rates, announced tonight a special one day session of the Louisiana legislature would be called to conform his oil tax rebate agreement with the Standard Oil company.

Long sidetracked the telephone hearing for a time after his arrival to confer with Gov. O. K. Allen on the legislative plans.

The special session will be called "within a week or ten days," Long said. There will be no new laws passed and no laws which set up his "dictatorship" will be repealed.

The conference is under the joint sponsorship of the City Club of Chicago and the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs.

TWO DIE AS TRAIN HITS SNOW PLOW NEAR DESPLAINES

Struck at Central Avenue Soo Line Crossing.

Ralph Tucker, 42 years old, 1418 Perry avenue, Des Plaines, and Henry Colby, 42 years old, 220 Graceland avenue, Des Plaines, were killed yesterday morning when the state highway snow plow truck they were manning was struck by a Chicago bound Soo Line passenger train at Central avenue, a mile north of Des Plaines. Tucker was driving the truck.

State Highway Policemen Frank Ruzzo and Edward Fox said there are no warning signals at the crossing. An inquest, which was opened a few hours after the accident, was continued until March 6 so members of the train crew may testify.

Says Train Was Late.

Richard Rosedale, 1102 Tucker street, Des Plaines, section foreman, said the train was an hour and a half late and was going 50 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

Colby, according to his brother, George, a Des Plaines garage owner, formerly was an orchestra leader in Milwaukee. He was married but had no children. Tucker's wife, Frances, and three children survive.

Three Other Victims in Day.

These deaths and three others yesterday brought the 1935 automobile toll for Cook county to 141. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday deaths for the year within the Chicago city limits totaled 113, and injuries 3,131. The other victims:

Mrs. Victoria Guzuasky, 36 years old, 701 West 31st street. Died in St. Paul's hospital, the victim of a freak accident, Saturday. She was walking on Union avenue between 31st and 32d streets when the rear wheel of a taxicab spun off, careened over the curb, and knocked her unconscious, causing internal injuries. Peter Janitos, 25 years old, 3604 Emerald avenue, was the driver of the cab.

Mary May Nelson, 10 years old, 15419 Lexington avenue, Harvey. Died at Ingalls Memorial hospital of injuries suffered Saturday night when she was struck near her home by the automobile of Mrs. Margaret McCullough, 15303 Ashland avenue, Harvey.

Mrs. Bella Nappi, 24 years old, 4453 Dover street. Died at American hospital early today of injuries suffered last Saturday night when she was struck at Clark street and Sunnyside avenue by a car driven by Carl Thornquist, 2018 Ainslie street.

Police Block Icy Highway.

County highway policemen blocked off Park avenue at 175th street, in the village of East Hazelcrest, last night. The north-south highway had become a hazard to motorists because of its situation in a hollow 300 feet long which filled with water and ice.

Park avenue, one of the most traveled thoroughfares in that section of Cook county, at this point lies between two elevations, Governor's highway on the west and the Illinois Central right of way on the east. Water from the higher ground on both sides drains on to Park avenue after a rain or thaw and leaves a pond a foot to two feet deep.

BUSINESS GROUP INDORSES BILL TO LICENSE DRIVERS

The Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday indorsed the driver's license and financial responsibility bills pending before the current general assembly at Springfield. Thirty states now have the license law and twenty-one have the financial responsibility law.

The driver's license favored by the association would not require any examination for those who applied before Oct. 1, 1935. Thereafter all applicants would have to pass tests. The license would cost 50 cents and would expire every three years.

The proposed financial responsibility act would suspend the driver's license of a motorist found guilty of negligence in a civil suit for damages until the judgement was paid and an insurance policy issued to protect the public against any future negligence.

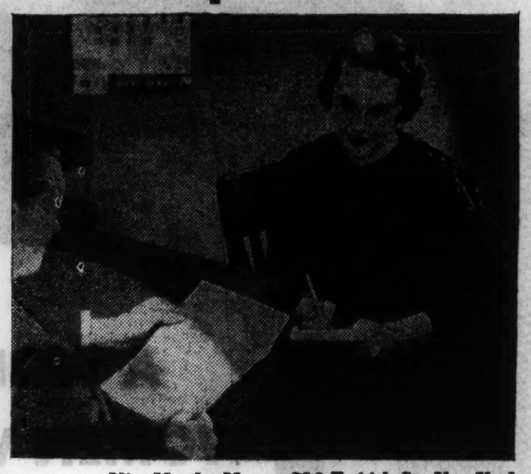
REAL INTERVIEWS WITH REAL FOLKS as told to Marion Long EX-LAX Reporter

No Constipation for Her!



Miss Martha Moore, 310 E. 44th St., New York

THE modern American girl just can't be bothered enduring constipation. There's too much to do... too much life to live... to permit herself to become sluggish, fuzzy, dull. She just won't have it! That fact was certainly driven home to the Ex-Lax reporter in interviewing Martha Moore. She started to use Ex-Lax in boarding school... now she finds it more useful than ever... but, let her tell the story, in her own words...

"When I was about twelve years old I needed a laxative, so mother gave me Ex-Lax. Being very fond of chocolate, Ex-Lax appealed to me because instead of medicine I was just getting a piece of chocolate.

"From then on I always considered Ex-Lax my favorite laxative.

"When I was at boarding school I had lots of exercise and was outdoors a good deal. Then took a secretarial course, and later began office work.

"I found that confinement and lack of exercise necessitated the use of a laxative. Ex-Lax the old favorite served me, for I knew from childhood experience that I could take Ex-Lax at night and go to school next morning feeling my natural self.

"In office work the same thing applies. One must be able to carry on the routine. Ex-Lax, the chocolated laxative, never interferes with one's daily business."

"Ex-Lax, the old favorite", says Martha Moore. How true that is! The old favorite... America's favorite laxative for 28 years... proved, proved, and proved again as the ideal constipation relief. 46,000,000 boxes of Ex-Lax were bought last year. So don't experiment. You KNOW that Ex-Lax is as thorough as any laxative you may take... yet gentle in action. No stomach pains. No weak feeling afterwards. No griping. No over-action.

You KNOW that Ex-Lax doesn't form a habit... that you don't have to keep on increasing the dose to get results. And everyone knows how pleasant Ex-Lax is to take... it tastes just like delicious chocolate.

That "Certain Something"

So many imitators have tried to produce a chocolated laxative that would equal Ex-Lax. But they couldn't. Why? Because Ex-Lax is more than just a chocolated laxative. Because the exclusive Ex-Lax process gives Ex-Lax a "certain something"—a certain ideal action that words just can't explain and that no other laxative has. But once you try Ex-Lax, you'll know what we mean, and nothing else will ever do for you.

Ex-Lax comes in 10c and 25c boxes at any drug store. Be sure to insist on the genuine Ex-Lax, spelled E-X-L-A-X.

COLD WAVE HERE... and we mean colds. Sneezing, sniffling, coughing, misery-creating colds. Guard against them this way: Get enough sleep, eat sensibly, dress warmly, keep out of drafts, keep your feet dry, and KEEP REGULAR... with Ex-Lax, the delicious chocolated laxative.

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

WOMEN LEADERS OF EIGHT STATES TO CONFER TODAY

Meet for Second Annual Tribune Conference.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The second annual Conference on Current Problems, held under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will open at 10 o'clock this morning in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house for two days of informative discussion on legislative, cultural, social, and economic questions.

Eight states will be represented unofficially at the conference, which, in the interest that has attached to it and the subject matters for discussion chosen by the women, indicates a changing attitude by club women particularly toward the part they may play in making this a better world for all to live in.

Clubs Change Their Programs.

"Since the economic crash of 1929 the women's clubs have been gradually changing their programs," said Miss Kathleen McLaughlin, woman's editor of THE TRIBUNE, who, with Miss Ruth De Young, club editor, will preside at the sessions.

"The women have been trying to learn new things and find out what they can do in this troubled time. Instead of programs of poetry reading and music they have taken up studies of taxation, for instance, or the gold standard, and have sought ways to meet the new conditions.

"In building the program of this conference suggestions on topics and speakers were received from many organized groups and from many individuals. A thousand letters came in from several hundred towns and cities in the central states. They required specific information on such questions as old age pensions and unemployment, safety in trafic, conservation legislation, costs of education, etc. This is the kind of program that has been prepared as a result. They will take back the discussion material and ideas to their home clubs for future action."

Eight States to Be Represented.

The conference will be composed of club women from the central states, both from the federated and unfederated clubs. State federation groups from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin, Ohio, Missouri, and Minnesota will be represented by their presidents. The two important federations in Cook county, the Cook County federation, and the Chicago and Cook County Federated Women's Organizations, will be represented respectively by their presidents, Mrs. Burnett D. Warner and Mrs. Henry G. Hardy. Wisconsin is expected to send the largest outside delegation.

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Washington, D. C., president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, will arrive this morning. She will speak at the opening session on "Legislating for Security."

Mayor Kelly will welcome the women to Chicago and speak of "Chicago Today and Tomorrow." E. W. Tinker of Milwaukee, regional forester for nine states, with jurisdiction over 263 Conservation Corps camps, will speak on "Conservation and Legislation." A debate on the equal rights amendment will be held with Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews, Washington, D. C., president of the National Association of Women Lawyers, and Mrs. Raymond S. Simons, Highland Park, attorney, participating.

Mrs. Richardson on Program.

A feature of the program to which women are looking for constructive suggestions and keen criticism is the address this evening by Mrs. Anna Steele Richardson, New York City, director of the good citizenship bureau of Woman's Home company. Her topic is "Organizations and Objectives," and she is expected to tell the club women where they have blundered in many ways and how they may gain a better approach to the problems that affect the lives of their families. Mrs. Richardson was formerly a newspaper reporter in Nebraska and New York. She founded a "Better Babies" bureau in 1912 and the "Soldiers All" movement during the world war.

Dr. Charles H. Phifer, president of the Chicago Medical society, will give a "medical summary" in the evening, and Prince Hubertus Friedrich Lowenstein, leader in the Catholic Center party in Germany and a foe of Adolph Hitler, will speak on "The Tinder Box of Europe."

"Women, Radio and Their Future" will be discussed by Miss Dema Harshbarger of Chicago, president of the Civic Concert Service, Inc.

Speakers for Afternoon Session.

"Cultural Trends" will be the subject of the afternoon session today. The speakers will be George R. Meyercord, Dudley Craft Watson, Prof. Coleman R. Griffith and Mrs. Margaret Weymouth Jackson. Mr. Meyercord, who is a manufacturer, will speak on how business looks at art. Mr. Watson will lecture on modern art.

Prof. Griffith, who is associate professor of educational psychology at the University of Illinois, will speak on "The Dollar Sign in Education." Mrs. Jackson, a Hoosier novelist, will talk on trends in short story form.

There will be two sessions tomorrow, with social welfare and economics as the chief topics. The Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, Rabbi Solomon Goldman, Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, physician and psychologist, and Henry P. Chandler, attorney, will be among the speakers.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged intestines or constipation.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help the intestines in a soothing, healing way. When the bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps, or pain. All druggists. 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief.

OFFERS TO DIE FOR HAUPTMANN TO AID FAMILY

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—An offer to take the place of Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the electric chair was made by a Brooklyn CWA worker today on condition that the condemned murderer of the Lindbergh baby pay $6,000 toward the support of the Brooklyn man's wife, son and daughter. Gov. Hoffman of New Jersey, to whom the offer was addressed, replied simply that the laws of New Jersey did not permit such procedure.

The offer was made by Stanley Przystup, 37 years old, of Brooklyn, where he and his family occupy a five room second story apartment. He is a veteran of the world war, having served for three years, half of that time in France, and with the 52d United States infantry, 5th division.

He was not at home today. His wife said that he was out loking for work.

The wife said she knew that he had written to President Roosevelt, and added that both of her children, Leo, 14, and Helen, 12 years old, had also written him, asking that Przystup be given a job. The President answered the letter, she continued, and her husband is now receiving $52 a month as a CWA worker.

GIRL, 15, ADMITS KILLING.

Susie Latimore, 15 years old, 3240 Wentworth avenue, colored, was turned over to juvenile authorities yesterday after confessing she fatally stabbed Ruth Robinson, 17, of 840 West 14th street, also colored, in a tavern at 1300 Washburn avenue early Sunday morning.

TWO CHILDREN SAFE AFTER WANDERING IN MARYLAND SWAMP

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—John and Margaret Miller, 8 year old twins, who were sought all night by about 200 CCC workers, state police and volunteers, were found today on the Baltimore-Washington pike.

The twins wandered away yesterday afternoon while on a picnic near Sunnyside Road, Md., with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Miller of Washington. They disappeared in Indian creek swamp which is ten miles long and 3½ miles wide in some places.

A Maryland county policeman found the children this morning as they strolled along the highway. They said they wandered through the swamp until nightfall yesterday and had then fallen asleep in a pine thicket.

Roosevelt Vetoes Bill to Fight Marine Pests

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—President Rosevelt today vetoed a bill authorizing the appropriation of $500,000 for experiments to control marine pests injurious to oysters, clams, and scallops in the waters of the Atlantic and gulf states. In his message to congress on the subject the President said the work could be carried on by the bureau of fisheries under existing authority.

LETTERS REVEAL GIRLS' LEAP WAS "LOVE SUICIDE"

U. S. Consul Appears at Daughters' Inquest.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 25.—A verdict of suicide "while of unsound mind," was returned by the coroner's court at Romford, Essex, toda, when an inquest was held over the bodies of Elizabeth and Jane du Bois, daughters of Coert du Bois, American consul general at Naples. The girls jumped to death from a Paris bound air liner last Thursday while 5,000 feet over Upminster, Essex.

Elizabeth, who was 23, and Jane, 20, had been in London for a couple of days. From letters left by them in the plane, addressed to their father and mother, it was clear that the younger Jane was deeply in love with a flying officer, Charles Forbes, of the British naval seaplane which crashed in Messina ten days ago with a loss of nine lives. Elizabeth was equally heartbroken over the death of Flight Lieutenant Henry L. Beatty.

Refer to Flyers' Deaths.

The girls had written alternate paragraphs of the letters which were read into the record by Coroner C. E. Lewis. The first, addressed to the father, said:

"Darling Coert:

"We never explained things to you as we should. There's been so much doubt and worry. You've been kind to us and forgiven us and you'll forgive us this as you must feel a little of what we did when we heard of the flying boat cracking up.

"Do you remember Charles [Flying Officer John A. C. Forbes] telling about the corridors? The one before us seems pretty straight. Charles was engaged to another girl and he was going to break it off and we would have been married this summer probably.

"There never will be any one else for me.

"We heard of his death in Paris on Monday. We came on to London the next morning and came to the Ritz. We did not want to see any one. Comfort mother with all your strength. I think she will feel as we do. Luck is with you no .

"Betty and Jane."

Letter to Mother.

The second letter read:

"Mother darling:

"Do not doubt that we are with you now and always, and with great love. Please do not think that we have done anything wicked, for we were given proof that if there is a rule, an exception has been made for us.

"We went to St. Martin's-in-the-Field [a church at the corner of Trafalgar square] because they were to pray for Charles and Dick during the service. They knew we had not been confirmed, but they let us take communion and be absolved from our sins.

"The lesson was the parable of the laborers in the vineyard. You must have known when you heard that the crash in Sicily would pull us over a line which has never been well enough defined for us.

"I think you knew that Charles and I were going to spend our lives together, and I must keep my part of the bargain. We had spent the day loaded down with half crowns [fifty cent pieces] for the proletariat to drink to him. What is left in the bank is all Coert's.

"Life Complicated with Servants."

"If it is considered ours, it goes to the unemployed at Pembroke docks [from where the flying boat "Ace of Diamonds" hopped off for Singapore] or the royal air force widows. Our bags are at Victoria station. Do you think George Peterson can be published? [The coroner explained that this probably was a book they had written.]

"Darling, there is no one else on earth we can even hope to have understand. We are together with you.

"We would like that there be nothing in this letter to hurt. It is only the smaller things, sentimentalities, that do that. Think of us as undivided and happy, as we would never have been after our lives became complicated with servants. We loved you and that can never be broken or destroyed.

"You must not be discouraged if there are difficulties. It will pass. This is the greatest trust which we have ever put in you.

"Forever, BESSIE AND JANE."

Father on Stand.

Du Bois made the plea that the girls' letters be not published, but the coroner said it was his duty to read them to the jury, and did so. The letters were then turned over to the parents.

Shortly after the inquest the girls' bodies were cremated in London. It is understood the ashes will be sent to Naples for burial.

HAUFF ADMITS KILLING BANKER OF LENORE; OTHERS FACING TRIAL

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—John Hauff, 32, of Chicago, one of the three captured members of the Leonore bank bandit gang, pleaded guilty today to the murder of J. Charles Bundy, cashier of the Leonore bank.

Hauff entered the plea just as his trial and that of Fred Gerber and Arthur Thielen, also charged with the murder, was about to start before Judge Robert E. Larkin in the Circuit court here. Hauff will not be sentenced until the trial of the others ends.

It had been planned to try only Hauff and Gerber at the present hearing because Thielen had not recovered from bullet wounds received in a fight after the holdup. But Thielen insisted on facing trial at the same time as his pals. He was brought into court on a stretcher.

The selection of the jury was begun immediately after Hauff entered his guilty plea, but the first panel had not yet been selected when court adjourned for the day.

State's Attorney Elmer Mohan sought to qualify a jury for the death penalty in questioning veniremen. He has announced he will attempt to send the defendants to the electric chair.

LIBRARY'S BOOKS 429,000 FEWER THAN DURING '31

Report Shows Deficiency of 600,000 Volumes.

Chief Librarian Carl B. Roden of the Chicago public library said last night that there are 429,000 fewer volumes on the shelves now than in 1931, when the library ceased buying new books. The current operating deficiency approaches 600,000 volumes.

Mr. Roden set forth in his annual report for 1934 that for the second successive year the circulation of books showed a loss of more than 2,000,000 volumes under the previous year. He attributed this decline to the condition of the book stock.

"Children's books are practically nonexistent," he said. "Fiction has been so much reduced as to offer few attractions to the reader. In nonfiction we lack not only the many fine new publications of the last four years but suffer even more from the growing number of important older titles that have been worn out and cannot be replaced."

Where the Deficiency Lies.

Mr. Roden pointed out that in 1933 the library discarded 97,361 volumes because they were worn out. In 1934 it threw out 111,124 volumes. He said that if the unbought new books published during that period were added to the list the present deficiency in volumes would be nearly 600,000.

In 1934 the total book expenditure was $18,835, the report showed, while under a normal budget the library would spend from $250,000 to $300,000.

Operating expenditures for 1934 were $1,217,682. There has been a steady decline in both income and expenditures from the $1,900,000 of 1929.

Donate 40,000 Volumes.

The report disclosed that an appeal brought donations of nearly 40,000 books.

During 1934 the circulation of books for the blind was 37,088 and of music 77,611. In the reference room 496,308 volumes were used for study and research by 256,367 readers, in the arts and crafts room 38,790 volumes, and in the patients' room 118,500.

DAIRYMEN VOTE TO SUSPEND AAA CODE AGREEMENT

Seek Separate Contracts with Distributors.

Rumors of the collapse of the Agricultural Adjustment administration's local milk license agreement were borne out yesterday when the advisory council of the Pure Milk association voted to instruct the directors to ask Washington officials to suspend it.

About 300 members of the council attended yesterday's meeting in the Auditorium hotel. They voted to instruct officials of the Pure Milk association, coöperative bargaining agency for 18,000 dairy farmer members, to continue their efforts to bring about individual contracts between dealers and producers to take the place of the AAA code agreement.

Dicker With Milk Distributors.

It was indicated that the advisory council's instructions would be acted on immediately so that the demand can be made on Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator in Washington.

Reports have been current for a week that the milk producers would ask suspension of the license under which milk has been sold for several months. For several days the Pure Milk association has been negotiating with Chicago distributors for milk contracts between dairymen and distributors. A breakdown of the AAA license plan was indicated several weeks ago when producers and dealers reached a private agreement to increase milk prices to $2.20 a hundred pounds [4.7 cents a quart] from $2 a hundred [4.30 cents a quart].

Again Control Milk Price.

The practical effect of the license suspension will be to place the coöperative farmers' association and the Chicago milk dealers again in control of the local milk price situation. The farmers and dealers determined the January milk price themselves, since the AAA official monthly farm price was not posted until the two groups had acted. The agreed price was submitted to AAA officials for formal approval.

BRITISH ACTRESS LISTS HER TOTAL DEBTS AT $34,000

LONDON, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Gertrude Lawrence, British actress and fiancée of Douglas Fairbanks Jr., today presented to her creditors evidence that she has debts totalling £6,803—about $34,000.

Her attorney, citing an income tax claim of £14,000—about $70,000—against Miss Lawrence, contended that this was "a matter for investigation" as "the assessment was made during a considerable period when Miss Lawrence was in America."

The statement of her affairs, as presented by Miss Lawrence, showed liabilities of £25,066, including the income tax claim, of which £24,729 were expected to be preferred. Her assets, she said, totaled £1,879. Miss Lawrence attributed her insolvency to heavy domestic expenses, her recent illness, and living beyond her means.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Ready for Lambs.

February 25, 1935.

LAMBING time is just around the corner at THE TRIBUNE experimental farms near Yorkville and Wheaton. Flockmasters at both places have their lantern wicks trimmed and the chimneys cleaned ready for night emergency calls to the sheep folds.

John Rawlings, flockmaster at the auxiliary farm, already has one pair of frisky black faced lambs to handle. This extremely early pair, a male and a female, was born a week ago. All last week one of these wabbly legged lambs followed Mr. Rawlings around like a pup while he went about doing his barnyard chores. These two lambs belong to Marelibar Princess, registered as Duncan 46, a pure bred black faced ewe brought to THE TRIBUNE farm a few months ago from William Bartholomy's Marelibar farm near Libertyville, Ill.

There are 167 more ewes in the flock that will produce lambs within the next few weeks. Final preparations are being made this week to put things in order for the arrival of the new lambs. Within the next few days the lambing tent will be put up near the sheep barn.

Many northern Illinois farmers have inquired about the lambing dates of the ewes mated with Rameses, the famous Corriedale ram, brought last summer from Malcolm Moncreiffe's ranch at Big Horn, Wyo. Mr. Rawlings expects to be able to exhibit within a few days some fine specimens of this cross of the great ram from the Big Horn ranch and the 50 ewes developed from a flock of high grade western ewes crossed over a period of several years with Lincoln and Southdown rams.

Most of the ewes are in excellent condition, having been fed each morning clover and rye hay mixed and at night a liberal helping of cut alfalfa hay. Beginning this week the clover and rye mixture will be discontinued. The flock at the Wheaton farm is now made up of a total of 232 head, including 173 breeding ewes, 54 ewe lambs selected from the 1934 crop and 5 rams.

Three men—Louis Thurow, Charles Sleezer and Eddie Johnson—have been assigned to take care of the flock during the lambing season at THE TRIBUNE farm near Yorkville. The men have their lanterns ready to light on a minute's notice. The first lambs are expected to arrive about the second week in March.

CRACK CHURCH'S SAFE; TAKE $600 IN CONTRIBUTIONS

Safe crackers pried open a basement window of the First Christian Reformed church at 848 West 71st street Sunday night or early yesterday, forced the safe and escaped with $600 from the general fund. Most of the money represented contributions to a church campaign which had been turned in at a meeting in the church Sunday night. The theft was discovered by Elmer Huizinga, 7324 South Green street, treasurer of the fund, when he arrived yesterday to bank the money.

FREE YOUTH IN FATAL CRASH.

Valparaiso, Ind., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—George Wood, 19 year old high school youth, whose car struck and killed Ben Anderson, Chesterton, Ind., stock buyer, near here, was absolved of criminal negligence at an inquest today. Wood left the accident scene and was arrested when he returned.

'CATTLE STARVE, HORSES FEEBLE IN MINNESOTA'

Two Senators Appeal to Washington.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Western Minnesota farmers are on "the verge of mutiny" unless feed is provided for their starving livestock immediately.

This report was brought to the Minnesota state senate today by Senators C. I. Oliver of Graceville, and N. A. Pederson of Milan, following a weekend visit to their districts.

They said farmers are desperate. At Beardsley a large group of farmers have collected the bodies of starved horses and cows which they threatened to haul into St. Paul, "into the capitol itself" as mute evidence of their needs, unless action is taken to provide feed.

The two senators today sent telegrams to Harry Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief administrator. Senator Pederson pointed out that "eighty per cent of farm horses are weak from lack of feed and will be unable to start spring work." They urged Hopkins to advise them when relief can be expected because "we Minnesota farmers are on the verge of mutiny."

The messages followed the report by a legislative committee which went to Washington and brought back assurances that the federal aid would be liberalized. Owing to federal restrictions, the state aid appropriation was held up.

"After having spent three days in actual contact with farmers in my senatorial district, am compelled to urge upon you immediate supplemental aid for horses and livestock generally," said Senator Oliver in his wire to Washington.

"Conditions most acute, and unless immediate action is taken, no horse power will be available for spring work; further loss of cattle will result. Telegrams and petitions are pouring in on me from groups of formers whose livestock is dying of starvation asking that proper relief be immediately given."

PRICES ADVANCE; WHALERS READY TO START HUNTS

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 25. — (AP) — Whale oil prices 100 per cent better than last year made harpooners jubilant today as they outfitted 13 vessels for a cruise in the dangerous Bering sea.

"We got 813 whales last year," said William Schupp, whale king of the northwest, "and this year prices are twice as high."

Seven vessels—The Kodiak, Unimak, Paterson, Aberdeen, Moran, Westport, and Tanginak, are being outfitted today in Seattle, for sailing in a few weeks. Six more will come from Canada. Bases of the fleet will be at Port Hobron on Kodiak Island; Akutan, Aleutian Islands; Erose Harbor and Naden Harbor on Graham Island.

Instead of rendering the carcasses on the ships and putting the oil in barrels there, as in the old days, air is pumped into the whale carcass and it is towed to the trying works on shore for extraction of oil.

Allerton, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Jones, residents of Newman community south of here, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary yesterday. He is 75 and she is 67. Both are in good health and have resided in the same home for 40 years.

TRIBUNE OFFICES HELP 2,000 FILE U. S. TAX RETURNS

More than two thousand taxpayers already have been given help in filing their income tax returns for 1934 by experts in the two public service bureaus of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 1 South Dearborn street, and in the TRIBUNE tower. Two deputy collectors, assigned by Collector of Internal Revenue Harrison, are on duty at the Dearborn street office and one collector is stationed at the tower office. Free notary service is provided at each location. High day to date was last Saturday when approximately five hundred persons were given help and more than a hundred and fifty returns were completed.

JUDGE RULES ART NOT SUBJECT TO STATE SALES TAX

Art works are intangible and therefore not subject to the 2 per cent occupational tax, Circuit Judge Denis J. Normoyle ruled yesterday in issuing a temporary injunction restraining Knowlton L. Ames Jr., state director of finance, from assessing the tax. The court issued the restraining order after Attorney Samuel Rinella representing 2,500 artists and members of the Associated Artists and Studios of Illinois, had argued that the works of the artists represented a service and should be exempted from the sales tax.

"We've said good-bye to shoveling!

Gas Heat takes care of itself"

Mr. Ruman, whose hobby is raising terriers, says what pleases him most about gas heat is the fact that it is automatic.

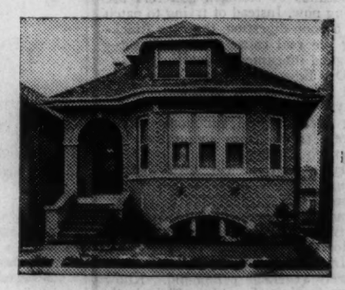
Read how gas heat brought ease and contentment into the home of Arthur Ruman, 3007 North Mason Avenue, Chicago.

NEITHER Mr. Ruman nor any member of his family wanted to go through another winter having to worry about the furnace. So they installed gas heat. Listen to what Mr. Ruman says. "We've said good-bye to furnace muss and fuss. Gas heat gives us solid comfort. There's no trouble at all—no shoveling, no hauling of ashes. We don't even have to think about the furnace." Thousands of families have been freed of the drudgery of furnace tending—the toil of nursing fires, climbing basement stairs. Housewives everywhere agree with Mrs. Ruman when she says, "Gas heat is cleaner, much cleaner. There's no soot to smear walls and woodwork. No dust to get rugs and curtains black."

Gas heat can give you countless advantages never possible with old-fashioned heating methods. With gas heat there is never any worry about the changes in weather. Gas heat takes care of itself. Goes on and off automatically to keep the house at the temperature you desire. All you have to do is set the thermostat on the wall at the temperature you want. After that your day is free so far as your heating cares are concerned.

Try gas heat in your own home. Find out for yourself why so many thousands of homes will not do without it. Our liberal trial plan makes it easy for you. We will install gas heat in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You try it for one month, two months, or a year. While you are trying it you pay a small rental—only $3 a month for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If at any time during the first year you find that you don't like it we'll remove it at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. If you decide to keep gas heat the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

Order gas heat now. Rates are less than half of what they were a few years ago. Simply call your nearest gas company office for complete details of our liberal trial plan and for free estimate of what it will cost you to heat your home with gas.



Here's an interesting fact about gas heat. Mrs. Ruman says, "Gas heat seems to help us guard against colds. The air in the house is moist and healthful. We haven't had a cold in the family this winter."

GAS IS OLD FRIEND READY FOR SERVICE

Gas is like an old friend in your household. It has been with you so long that it is just taken for granted.

And like an old friend, the very instant you need it, it is as quickly ready to serve you.

At breakfast, lunch and dinner it transforms raw foods into delicacies which whet your taste and satisfy your appetite. It heats the water for the morning or evening bath. It heats the home. It is ever ready in any emergency requiring heat.

Every day some 800,000 families in Chicago call upon this old friend to assist them in their household work and every day it quietly responds with instant, efficient service. The 4,000 employes of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company see to it that this old friend is always present.

You Invest Nothing

To Try Gas Heat!

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense, remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

UNITE TO FIGHT INCOME TAX PINK PUBLICITY

Democrats Go with G.O.P. in U. S. House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Democrats joined the Republican minority in the house of representatives today in the campaign to repeal the "pink slip" or income tax publicity section of the revenue act of 1934.

Representative C. Jasper Bell [Dem., Mo.], drew applause when he pleaded for his bill that would eliminate the publicity provision.

"Not only is there fear on the part of the people of the country on account of gangsters and racketeers," Bell asserted "but there also is concern among businessmen, because their competitors will have the opportunity of nosing into their secret files.

Charges Curb on Business.

"This is entirely unpopular and unwaranted invasion of the rights of business men to conduct their business in the way they see fit."

If the congressman would provide for making the income of members of congress and cabinet officers public, Representative John H. Hoeppel [Dem., Cal.], said he would be for the legislation.

"We should know the incomes of the men who are making the laws of the country," Hoeppel declared.

Bell agreed. He added his bill would leave intact the features of the 1926 revenue act which permitted house and senate committees or any government official, upon order of the President, to have a copy of any income tax return that might be filed.

Says Woman Was Hounded.

The Missourian told the story of Eleanore Hanley who won $110,000 on the Irish Sweepstakes two years ago. He said she had been hounded by gangsters and racketeers with the result that several days ago she lost her reason and had been committed to an insane asylum.

Representative John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], contended that the senate, where the publicity legislation originated with Senator Robert M. La Follette in the closing days of the last session, should take the repeal action first. O'Connor said he was in favor of the repeal.

Another Democrat who argued for the repeal was Representative Alfred F. Beiter of New York.

"I do not believe we should furnish record to unscrupulous stock promoters, kidnapers, and racketeers," Beiter said, "nor should we facilitate their bringing embarrassment needlessly and uselessly, invading the privacy, peace, and happiness of people who feel that they have the right to keep their own affairs to themselves."

Acts on Pension Project.

The house ways and means committee late in the day voted to exempt 7 million farm laborers, domestic servants, and transient workers from the contributory old age pension section of the economic security bill.

The committee also decided that the old age compulsory annuity tax should start at two instead of 1 per cent and be graduated up to 6 per cent at the end of twelve years. The tax would be divided equally between employer and employé.

FIREMEN BATTLE $75,000 BLAST ON ROOSEVELT ROAD

Flames of undetermined origin swept through the four story warehouse of the Continental Products company at 1253-55 Roosevelt road yesterday, with a loss estimated by Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan at $75,000. The blaze apparently broke out on the third floor. While firemen were fighting it there, an explosion forced them to flee.

A large stock of automobile tires in the building sent up swelling columns of dense smoke that hampered firemen. A brisk north wind fanned the blaze, causing it to threaten nearby apartment structures, but 30 fire companies kept it from spreading. Several colored families in a building immediately to the west were driven to the street.

Street cars and automobiles carrying homeward bound loop workers detoured off Roosevelt road between Racine avenue and Paulina street.

Another fire yesterday afternoon routed Mrs. Charles Schneider and 14 women guests from the Schneider home at 5803 South Paulina street, causing damage estimated at $1,000 to the basement.

$2,900 Worth of Nickel Seized by Four Hijackers

Four hijackers halted Elmer Hanson of Lansing at Pulaski road and the sanitary district canal yesterday and robbed him of his truck containing 8,300 pounds of nickel, valued at $2,900. Hanson was trucking the metal from the Steel Sales corporation plant at 3320 South Pulaski road to the Hubbard Steel plant in East Chicago, Ind.

"MY LIFE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

Having tasted the fruits of British political life and found them to his liking, Churchill returns to Manchester and suffers defeat in a bye election. He returns to the house of commons, however, after a successful campaign at Dundee, and turns his attention to the labor problems of his nation.

BY WINSTON CHURCHILL.

Winston Churchill, silk hatted figure at right in this group, is shown as he visited labor exchange in 1910 after he had become member of government formed by Mr. Asquith, who succeeded Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman as premier.

My new appointment involved a bye election in North West Manchester. Needless to say tremendous efforts were made by the whole force of the Conservative organization to defeat me. Lord Northcliffe conducted a separate hostile campaign with enormous placards of the Daily Mail. At the same time a Socialist candidate appeared to split off some of my vote. The seat was naturally Conservative and I had won it on the wave of the general election. My former opponent, Mr. Joynson Hicks, whom I had defeated then, came forward again as the Tory candidate.

Electoral System Blamed.

After a grueling fight I was beaten by about five hundred votes. To me personally this made little difference. As I walked through the crowded streets from the declaration of the poll a telegram was put in my hands inviting me to stand for Dundee, at that time one of the safest Liberal seats in the country. But it was not without a pang that I quitted Lancashire, where I had been a member for nearly eight years.

It is a pity that great cities like Manchester should be unable to retain for any length of time the services of leading political figures who could give real expression to the life and thought of the community. They had lost Mr. Balfour and now dismissed me just as I was beginning to have a powerful say in events. The fault lies in the electoral system. These great cities are simply carved up into meaningless areas of houses and it is no more to represent the premier division of Manchester than anywhere else. As soon as any prominent person wins a seat in such a city he becomes a target for the other side and quite exceptional efforts are made to throw him out. The tendency for prominent politicians is therefore to seek safe seats where their national work will not be disturbed by local aberrations. These great cities of England have at the present time hardly any representatives in the front of politics. This detracts sensibly from their influence on public affairs and is also a loss to the nation that the personalities of the great cities have not more coherent expression. Proportional representation would I think give them this and would revivify their political life and influence.

Elected for Dundee.

In due course after a long and strenuous fight I was elected for Dundee by a majority of three thousand, introduced into the house of commons by the prime minister and started work at the board of trade. Mr. Lloyd George was not an easy man to follow in that department. He had made a great reputation for businesslike efficiency. His patents act and port of London bill, which it fell to my lot to pass, were admitted to be admirable legislation by business men of all parties. He was when he left office deep in a great scheme for the amalgamation of the railway lines and for the better economy and arrangement of their services, such as has eventually been achieved. I turned my attention to the labor side.

In those days there was no labor ministry and the board of trade dealt with trade disputes and all labor matters, apart from the mines and factory acts which were under the home office. During the two years I worked at the board of trade I confined myself mainly to labor legislation. I passed a conciliation act. I adjusted disputes. I passed the trades board act to prevent sweating in a number of selected industries. This has now been extended to cover a very large area, but at the time when my act was introduced the principle was novel and much disputed.

Organizes Labor Exchanges.

Much more important than this were, however, the labor exchanges. It seemed an extraordinary thing that while everything else is sold in a market at the best price of the day, labor, which is the only thing most people have to sell, should have no central clearing house. Thus when, say, masons or carpenters might be wanted in one part of the country, for want of knowing of that demand they stood idle in another. Accordingly, aided by a young man named Beveridge, now Sir William Beveridge, whom I brought into the public service, I set up and brought into being the national system of labor exchanges all linked to one another and with the center.

Their purpose was to find situations for workingmen of all classes and they had the power to advance money to enable them to reach their new destinations. They have become in course of time an absolutely indispensable part of the machinery of our industrial life. The creation of the labor exchanges enabled me to frame a scheme of unemployment insurance for a certain number of trades especially subject to seasonal and cyclical fluctuations. This scheme and the bill resulting from it have now grown into our gigantic unemployment insurance system without which we should never have come through the troubles which followed the great war. I can therefore feel that my work at the board of trade was fruitful and lasting.

But the year 1908 shines brightly for me for quite another reason. In that year I met a young lady of dazzling beauty who consented to be my wife. On her mother's side she was one of the Airlies whose country seat is so close to Dundee. Her father, who was dead, Col. Sir Henry Hozier, had been a prominent member of Lloyds and had written a valuable account of the Austro-Prussian war of 1866. We had a wonderful wedding at St. Margaret's with enormous crowds in the streets, and everybody gave us presents without the slightest regard to politics. This was much the most fortunate and joyous event which happened to me in the whole of my life, for what can be more glorious than to be united in one's walk through life with a being incapable of an ignoble thought?

TAXICAB DRIVER ORDERED HELD IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Theodore Prade, 36 years old, 1432 North La Salle street, a Checker taxicab driver, was ordered held yesterday for the murder of Mrs. Ann Solan, 17 years old, 939 North Winchester avenue. The young woman was fatally wounded Sunday morning by bullets fired through the front window of the home of her father, Frank Junior, at 2556 Iowa street.

Mrs. Anna Junior, mother of the girl, testified at an inquest held at 1427 West Chicago avenue that she saw the taxi driver fire three shots through the window when she refused to pay a cab bill of $14.95 that Prade claimed her husband owed him. Her husband testified that he had been assaulted by three men while in the cab and robbed of more than $20. He had no money when the cab driver brought him home, he said. He admitted that he had invited Prade into a tavern to have several drinks.

Although an inquiry was also held into the death of Mrs. Solon's unborn baby, whose life physicians attempted to save by performing a caesarian operation following her death in St. Mary's hospital, no recommendation was made by the coroner's jury as to the death of the infant.

New High Court Hearing on Bain Case to Be Asked

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney announced yesterday that his assistants are preparing a petition to the Illinois Supreme court for a rehearing on its recent opinion which upset the convictions of John Bain and three associates. They were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud depositors of their twelve banks which closed in 1931 with a loss of $13,000,000 to depositors. Bain was sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary, and his sons, Robert A., and John H. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, were fined $1,000 each. Bain now is 75 years old.

TO GUARD STATE INTERESTS.

Representative Weber in the Illinois house of representatives asks for the appointment of a commission to study economic conditions and governmental procedure affecting the state. Why, he asks, is there encouragement of imported substitutes for restricted agricultural products, as, for instance, the importation of molasses for industrial alcohol to take the place of Illinois corn?

What is the malign influence in Washington which causes Cuban sugar growers to be preferred to Illinois farmers?

Agricultural readjustments amounting to maladjustments have cotton land turning to corn and corn lands turning to flax. Part of the AAA program is to discourage suitable crops and force unsuitable crops, on the theory that the less well anything is done the better it is done. It is proposed in congress to increase the authority of the agricultural administrator. Tariffs are to be switched and shifted. If Mr. Wallace can produce a deficiency where there might be an abundance some one else will let down a bar and in will come products from other lands.

In such a press and drift of affairs wise states will do something to protect themselves by protest and by law. Mr. Weber proposes that Illinois undertake to inform itself, to watch what is being done and adopt such protective measures as it can. The proposal is sensible and in that is quite different from the act which gave the state a supplement to the NRA.

THE LEGION IS MISLED.

The American Legion vitiates a sensible program for national defense by its advocacy of the communizing industrial schemes represented in a number of bills in congress ostensibly to take the profits out of war. The Legionnaires have allowed their objections to war profits to commit them to ideas of greater import than they realize. Their national commander, Frank N. Belgrano, in predicting that congress at this session will take the profit out of war with a universal conscription act, said: "When this act becomes effective this nation will have taken the longest step in the direction of peace in its history. When war ceases to return big profits to a select few it will cease to exist."

This, so far as the United States is concerned, is a ridiculous and false statement. The United States has never been taken into a war by the intrigues of any business, as any one can determine by examining causes. The falsehood that it has been sent to war for profit motives is used as a justification for pacifist attacks on reasonable military precautions and as an entering wedge for the socializing of private enterprise.

The American Legion is opposed to both the pacifist and the socialist programs, but in accepting the premise it does it helps toward the conclusion desired by these two interests. The Legion of all organizations ought not to allow itself to be imposed upon by the false statements of promoters with whom it has nothing in common.

BUILD FOR PROGRESS, NOT STAGNATION.

The inauguration of railway passenger service between Bangor, Me., and Boston, Mass., with the streamlined "Flying Yankee" reminds us quite forcibly that deliveries of several of these new type trains are due at Chicago within the next few months. The Illinois Central has ordered a Diesel driven, articulated, streamlined train for operation between Chicago and St. Louis; the Burlington is awaiting similar units for the run between Chicago and Minneapolis, and the Pullman company is working on successors to the Union Pacific's M-10001 based on experience gained on that train's transcontinental experiment. We have frequently said that these radically new equipment departures may or may not be the answer to the railway problem, but we believe that they represent a larger principle that may transform the entire field.

Hugeness is, or has been, the keynote of American railroading. Everything is done on a colossal scale. Railway stations are stupendous, so much so in many instances that the trek from sidewalk to train is a trip in itself. Vaulted ceilings spring from clustered columns. Distances are magnificent, but they cannot be properly heated or air conditioned. All other railway structures, such as general office buildings and even freight sheds, follow the same huge outlines. Motive power and equipment of all kinds are designed with the prevailing idea of standardized durability.

Some years ago city hotels, theaters, office structures, cabs, our early automobiles and even our clothing paid tribute to the dogma of permanence, but we found that it did not pay. The world is changing so rapidly that these "built to last a lifetime" commodities became obsolete before they were outworn and liabilities before they were half depreciated on the books of the owners. The advent of these light, streamlined trains, which probably will become outmoded as fast as automobiles, should be accompanied by the abolition of the "Greek temple" station and granite freight shed motif.

We have often asked, "Why don't the railways do something?" They have never been able to follow the advice because they lacked flexibility. A change in their general attitude would mean much to the country because it would involve such a vast amount of annual replacement.

ALLEGIANCE OF TEACHERS.

Bills to require public school teachers to take the oath of allegiance are multiplying. It is a demand that is too insistent to be lacking in significance. We think it is worthy of support. The argument against it is that as to teachers who are loyal to our constitutional order the oath of allegiance is unnecessary, while as to teachers who are disloyal the oath would be useless. The latter, or many of them, it is argued, would take the oath with their tongues in their cheeks and as an imposition or coercion it would not be considered binding upon them.

We do not think these objections decisive against the proposal. Loyal teachers have no reason to resent taking the oath any more than the President of the United States, the members of the Supreme court or any other public official who is required to swear to support the constitution. It is not an encroachment on academic freedom, for a public school teacher has no right to teach theories which are contrary to the national constitution and thus fail to support it any more than the President or other officials are free to withhold their support. The oath in this sense is legally superfluous, but is nevertheless a proper and useful formality for obvious reasons.

The fact that some teachers will not think themselves bound by the oath and will perjure themselves for the sake of a job does not seem to us to outbalance the benefit to morale which the formality may reasonably be expected to have. The requirement of an oath to support the constitution will challenge the vague or deliberate assumption that public teachers are free to feed to American youth anything that a teacher approves. It will also force out of the schools teachers unwilling to perjure themselves, and if it be argued that these are more commendable than hyprocrites it is equally true that subversive ideas do not fit them for teaching in the public schools.

It is a reflection on the teaching profession that there have been so many manifestations of hostility to American institutions as to raise this growing demand for an explicit assertion and pledge of loyalty. The extent of the infiltration of subversive ideas has not yet been established, but we know that a considerable number of teachers in New York City are hostile to the American form of government and, while New York is far from being representative of the nation but on the contrary is more like a part of Europe than America, it is well worth while for any American community to require of the teachers of its youth an affirmation of allegiance to the constitution. It is a requirement which will add to the prestige of the teaching profession and should be welcomed by every loyal teacher. Certainly it is a kind of national suicide to permit teachers who are hostile to our national institutions to impose their own doctrins upon the nation's youth.

"THE CAR BORE NO LICENSE PLATES."

The record of another shooting from a car without a license plate again calls attention to the failure to correct this evil.

As long as cars are allowed free use of the streets without carrying license plates, so long will gangsters and bandits take advantage of this opportunity to commit crimes with impunity.

Editorial of the Day

ROSY ECONOMICS.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Tempting bait in the form of panaceas for our economic ills is being thrown out these days to lure the guileless. Demagogs in a word paradise hold thousands under the hypnotic spells of high sounding plans. Promises to educate everybody, to provide jobs for all, to grant the aged a plutocratic income which they would have to spend or lose, to share all wealth, and to provide for the comfort and security of every one are heard in national halls.

That these self-styled leaders who pretend to be sent to rescue the nation from a reputed overload of wealth are clever political strategists cannot be denied. The sophistries they put forth with histrionic emotion have such plausibility that millions are taken in.

The tragic side of these cure-alls is that they are taken seriously by so many. The germ of discontent is being implanted so generally that disillusionment is certain. Little attention is paid to responsible leaders. Even now the threat of Huey Long becoming a presidential opponent of President Roosevelt in the 1936 election is being given serious recognition by observers.

The Louisiana dictator's share the wealth program sounds impressive. A good many schemes have been tried down through the ages but they haven't worked. A good many more will be tried and still inequalities will continue to exist.

But even the demagogs who are now riding the high tide of public favor will find they have a hard row to hoe if they are ever given a public mandate to carry out some of their schemes. Senator Long, for instance, wouldn't bother much with the wealthy unless they had more than three millions. After that he would begin dividing up. He recommends a tax of only 1 per cent on the second million and 2 per cent on the third million, but fails to point out that the federal government is already taking much more than this from millionaires in these classifications. Payment of 18 per cent of an estate of a million is now being exacted by the government.

The most reliable estimates indicate that if all the wealth in the country were to be divided the amount which each individual would receive would be so small that the plan wouldn't be worth carrying out.

The fallacy in old age pension plans such as the one to which Dr. Townsend has given authorship is obvious. The contention that spending of $200 a month by every one over 60 years of age would make money circulate so rapidly that there would be 20 times as much trade is an alluring prospect. The weakness of this program would develop when it became impossible to create the increased goods for pensioners to buy. The result would be widespread scarcities and resultant kiting of prices. In a short while our money wouldn't buy much and unrestrained inflation would be the next step.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SCIENTISTS announce that the world is slowing down in its rotation on its axis due to the pull of the moon and that the time is coming when a day will be as long as a month is now, instead of twenty-four hours. Gosh! I don't want to be here then. Think of getting a telegram from some friend out in the country saying that he and his family, two uncles, and his mother-in-law were coming in to spend the day at my house. And think of going to a picnic all day! And if days are each a month long then of course the nights will be that long, too, and think of sitting up a night at a poker party! Or even going to an ordinary party to stay at least half the night. We often do it now, but when a night is a month long I know that for one I'm going to get mighty sleepy before that party breaks up. However, the scientists say that the days are lengthening only at the rate of one-thousandth of a second per century. So it will be some time yet before the days and nights are a month long. But just the same we're so jittery these days that we're bound to worry about it.

MELODY FOR FLUTE.

You raise the flute to your lips and breathe forth sound, taking my breath from me unknowingly,
This is the living death, the heart no longer pulsing in labor for the body's need.
You breathe again—an arrow floats to heaven—and I am given over to running silver, even to silent death am given over.

The flute is stilled
and rests upon your hands;
your lips are closed.
It is not death who takes me.

By silence am I returned to swoon once more when silence is no more, when breath and silver meet and rise again beyond the soul.
Once more the two are fused and flow like water silver and cool and piercing as a star lately released into a darkening sky.

You are not man nor that an instrument needing your breath before we feel its life, you are a god, your flute an immortal dream.
This hour is graven on the brow of time, invisible but premanent as earth.
This in my heart has lived and died forever and I, henceforward and for all the past, can never be without it any more nor ever so desire.

LISTEN, LADY! I DON'T MONKEY WITH BUZZ SAWS, CYCLONES OR POLICE DOGS.

R. H. L.: The next time you are out walking with your pup and a police dog comes tearing in your direction, just stoop down as though you were picking up a pebble or a twig (this may be a purely imaginary one) and go through the motions of throwing it at the onrushing animule. The most ferocious police dog noting this threatening gesture will turn on his heels and run like nobody's business. May sound foolish, but just try it. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back. G. S. B.

AND BEFORE I START this grand idea of stooping down and going through the motions of picking up a rock when a great big hard-boiled police dog charges on me from across the street I am going to try it out on things that have a milder disposition. If I make them stop then I will begin to think that the thing might work on a police dog. First I'll go down to the railroad track and wait for a fast train. I'll stand as near the track as I think I can safely, and as the train comes rushing down toward me I'll stoop down and pretend to pick up a rock. If that train doesn't turn around and run back the other way I'll know it's no use trying that trick on a police dog. Those police dogs are smart and if you can't fool a railroad train there isn't any chance in the world of putting it over on a police dog. When a police dog comes after me I'm not putting up any bluffs about picking up a rock. A police dog can't take a joke.

THINGS ARE GETTING more complicated every day. Here the British are marching by the tens of thousands and making no end of a row because they say the dole isn't enough to live on and other Britishers are paying two hundred and fifty dollars and up for a seat in a grand stand to see the king go by during his silver jubilee. Why not charge six pence to see George V. (three looks for a shilling) and put the extra money in the dole fund? I don't think the king is such a hot show anyhow, but, of course, over there it's different.

BACTERIA THAT CAUSE DISEASE.

THERE is a nursery rime that runs as follows:

"Little Miss Muffet sat on a tuffet
Eating her curds and whey.
A microbe espied her and slipped down inside her,
And she had influenza next day."

In yesterday's article we discussed a few of the simple known facts about bacteria, and we must now consider some of the organisms that cause disease.

Thousands of tiny organisms exist on the skin of the body, and they are nearly always present in great profusion under the finger nails and on the less vigorously scrubbed parts. While the skin is strongly resistant to bacteria, yet when it is torn or injured the organisms that are usually present are ready to grow. Again, we are breathing bacteria laden air, and the mucous membranes of the air passages constitute collecting and filtering stations. We eat food, some of which is free from bacteria but much of which is not. A bit of food handled by fingers not scrupulously clean may convey bacteria to the mouth. Organisms in the mouth mean that they will be found in the intestinal tract, where they grow plentifully.

Certain types of bacteria are not normally present in the body—for example, the typhoid bacillus. If one drinks water from a well that contains sewage in which typhoid bacteria are present these particular organisms may find their way into the body, multiply, and cause the disease known as typhoid fever. Chlorine disinfection has rendered typhoid fever from this source impossible in most communities.

One of the most dangerous of the bacteria groups is known as the streptococcus. These are little spheres that exist in long or short chains. They are particularly virulent and are responsible for many types of endocarditis [inflammation of the lining of the heart], rheumatic fever, septic sore throat, erysipelas, scarlet fever, and other diseases. Certain species of the streptococcus destroy the red cells of the blood.

Tuberculosis is caused by a bacillus and reaps a harvest of 160,000 deaths in the United States each year. This particular organism occurs in short, slender rods which may be seen under the microscope in tiny clumps.

When bacterial disease attacks the individual a battle is on between body resistance and the growing organisms. We could stand the presence of a huge number of bacteria were it not for the fact that most of them produce a toxin or poison that acts as a destroyer of important cells and hence organs of the body.

The poison produced by poliomyelitis attacks nerves and causes paralysis. Diphtheria and tetanus [lockjaw] bacilli produce a poison that also affects the nervous system, paralyzing certain nerves and sometimes causing death. Diphtheria bacilli usually lodge somewhere in the nasal passages, on the back of the throat, or on the tonsils. They rarely enter the blood stream and in growing they fasten themselves to the mucous membrane. The individual is sick because he is absorbing a toxin or poison from these growing organisms. Whether the patient dies or recovers depends largely on the amount and strength of the toxin absorbed, and on the power of the blood to neutralize or destroy that toxin.

Fortunately for us an antitoxin has been produced that can be thrown into the blood by injection under the skin, thus neutralizing the poison of the diphtheria bacillus. Furthermore, we have a protective mechanism in diphtheria toxoid that will keep the blood for a long time in position to fight off a considerable amount of diphtheria toxin.

Tomorrow will appear the last article of this series on microörganisms.

HEART MURMURS.

T. O. writes: Your article on heart murmurs impels me to write. There is no doubt that many people become unduly alarmed over the presence of a heart murmur in themselves or in their children. My object in writing is to show that this ailment need not cause unnecessary anxiety, and that ordinary common sense will assure as good a life enjoyment and span as any healthy person enjoys in these days of auto assassination, hotel fires, and worse.

I first learned I had a heart murmur when I joined the navy during the war. I had always been a hard runner and I had pneumonia when I was a boy. However, as I had the mental qualifications, as well as the sea experience that justified my ambition to become an officer, I set about improving myself and to fool the doctor. I might add that the murmur was not quite apparent to the medical examiner, even after a hard standing run and other tests that he gave me. He had me marked as doubtful.

I had a training period ashore and was sent to sea. I ate plentifully, but not too much. I cut out smoking and drinking. I caught the flu in the epidemic which raged in our transport, but survived. Night after night I saw my husky mates grow black around the eyes, nose, lips, and feet—and be replaced by new inmates in the morning. By and by I got back on the active list.

When I was sent ashore to the reserve officers' training school I carried out my original plan, only I ate lightly. Our studies were hard and confining, but I passed the examination for ensign and also passed the physical examination. The physician thought he detected a systolic heart murmur, and called in consultants, and I was again marked doubtful.

I remained in the navy until 1922. All things that others did I did, but in reason. I found short stretches of swimming best, as well as moderation in other exercises. I am lean and fit, and eat only two meals a day. My color is good and I walk a lot. I start the day with a cold shower.

REPLY.

A common sense view of a heart murmur. It is not the valve leak, but the condition of the heart muscle that counts.

BOND PURCHASE.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Several years ago [1] I bought some bonds of a company and during the last two years the company went into bankruptcy. 2. What can I do to get my money back? I went several times to see the firm and they would give me no satisfaction in any way. C. M. G.

1. We assume that you mean that you signed a contract.

2. If you cannot trace specific bonds as having been bought in your behalf, then your right to collect money on your contract is indistinguishable from the rights of other creditors and you will have to accept the same dividends.

"TRUST FUND."

Chicago, Feb. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to be informed what a "trust fund" is and how it is worked out. P. F. S.

The term is commonly applied to money or assets placed by the owner in the hands of a trust company or other trustee to administer for certain beneficiaries and purposes listed in the agreement creating the trust. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BUILDING RECEIVERSHIP.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Does a lease signed between a tenant and a court appointed receiver automatically continue when the term of the lease has not expired and the first mortgage holder comes into possession of the property? 2. When all transactions have been between the tenant and the receiver, what notification should the tenant receive of such a change of ownership or management? 3. Will the appointment by the mortgage holder of the receiver as agent affect the original lease? 4. Any literature you may have regarding the conditions and relationships of the above mentioned parties will be appreciated. A. M. W.

1. There are authorities to the effect that a receiver is permitted to make reasonable contracts such as leases to be binding beyond the term of the receivership. Without such power he would be handicapped in managing the property.

2. He should continue to pay his rent to the landlord named in his lease until the presentation of a court order or an authorization from that landlord to pay to a successor.

3. We do not understand the facts.

4. In Rockwell vs. Schlegel, 270 Ill. App. 598, the court cited with approval a federal case which employed the following language: "The receivers under the direction of the court had the option to assume or renounce the leases . . . which they found in the possession of the mortgagor within a reasonable time of their appointment." In reliance on this authority, we incline to the opinion that even though the receiver is claiming under a title that is adverse to that of the landlord, the tenant is not entitled to treat his old lease as terminated by the appointment, but the receiver can choose whether to assert or deny the leases.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

We had a pursuit ship in the army at one time called an MB3. It was a very sensitive airplane and responded not only quickly but almost violently to any stick movement. It was also very unstable longitudinally, which meant that you couldn't take your hands off it without its either nosing down or up.

I was flying in a formation of MB3s one day at Selfridge field. The leader was climbing the formation toward a thin cloud level at about two thousand feet. He started to go through the thin wisps of clouds that they really were, and evidently suddenly changed his mind, because he nosed down suddenly. I nosed down as suddenly to follow him and found my airplane going down but me staying up.

I held on to the stick as I was going up out of the cockpit and thought for a second, much to my dismay, that I was going right out of the ship, but just as my hand was slipping off the top of the stick I managed to give it a little back flip with my fingers. It worked just enough to bring the airplane back up to me and throw me violently down into my seat. I had forgotten to fasten my belt before taking off.

Not long after that I heard that a friend of mine at Langley field had taken off in one of these ships for a cross-country trip. He looked at his wrist watch to check the time he had taken off and discovered that he had left his watch in his pocket. He was all bundled up in winter flying clothes, so he undid his belt to make a digging search for the pocket it was in. He decided it was in his pants pocket and made a wriggling reach for it.

The next thing he knew he was sitting alone in the air with no airplane. The unstable ship had nosed down suddenly and catapulted him right out of the cockpit. So he decided to let the watch go for a while and reach for his ripcord instead.

A RECOLLECTION OF JOSEPH MEDILL.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—It was with a feeling of sadness that I read in today's TRIBUNE of the demolition of the old Medill residence at Ontario street and Wabash avenue. The fine old mansion had a special interest for me from the fact that I, as a young reporter of the Evening Journal some 45 years ago, had the proud privilege of interviewing the great editor in his home on an important question of the day.

United States Senator Shelby M. Cullom was a candidate for reelection. Mr. Medill was being urged by the then powerful Republican organization of Cook county to be a candidate against Mr. Cullom. While Mr. Medill declined, he nevertheless held that it was time the senatorship came to Cook county and that Mr. Cullom should not be reelected. I was instructed to try for an interview with Mr. Medill on the matter for my paper. Mr. Medill received me graciously in his great library and gave me an extended interview which I took down in shorthand.

This was surely an achievement for a youthful reporter, but the crowning glory came when I saw that interview reproduced, word for word, in the following morning's TRIBUNE and credit given for it to the Journal.

And so the stately old mansion is to pass away, and I am sorry.

MEAN THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—On Jan. 30 President Roosevelt's birthday was celebrated and funds raised for the victims of infantile paralysis.

I want to suggest that March 4 be set aside to celebrate the second anniversary of the Roosevelt Depression. Hard times parties could be held and the money raised go to help the unemployed not on relief. EDW. H. SCHLADER.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

Chicago, Feb. 22. In an article this morning from your correspondent in Boston there is a statement which I consider a direct insult to all citizens of Irish birth and extraction. Your correspondent refers to Gov. Curley as the "product of the rough and tumble school of politics in the Roxbury district of Boston, where John L. Sullivan still is the patron saint of the Irish inhabitants." The latter part of this statement is not true and is a reflection on the intelligence of the citizens of Irish birth and extraction in the city of Boston and elsewhere. John L. Sullivan is not regarded as a patron saint by the Irish inhabitants of the Roxbury district of Boston or in any city or state in the Union. WILLIAM J. BRODERICK.

HONORING AMELIA EARHART.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Excerpt from the minutes of the regular meeting of the Chicago Girls' Flying club held Feb. 1, 1935:

"Whereas, Amelia Earhart has, through her exploits in aviation and by virtue of her trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific flights successfully accomplished, attained international prominence in aviation;

"Whereas, Amelia Earhart is a daughter of the fair city of Chicago and deserving of recognition by our city;

"Whereas, Sixty-third street in the city of Chicago bears no distinguishing name, yet traverses the southern boundary of the Chicago Municipal airport and is, for this reason, admirably suited to bear the name of one so distinguished in aviation,

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that it is the sense and sentiment of this, the Chicago Girls' Flying club, an organization composed exclusively of licensed lady pilots of Chicago and surrounding territory, that Sixty-third street be named Amelia Earhart road in honor of our illustrious sister in aviation."

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—I note by the last issue of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE that a site has been selected for a new postoffice on Clark near Dewey place. Not only is this location on the extreme east end of the postal district but it also is on the east side of Clark street.

Transportation for the poor mail carrier who has his route to the west is well nigh impossible, unless he should use his own auto to go to and from his route.

The proper location for this postoffice would be Halsted street or even Sheffield avenue. Three cheers for government efficiency in business.

A. M. LETZ.

DEAR.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Why do we, in business correspondence, persist in using the word "dear" in the opening address?

"Dear," in its general sense, expresses affection of endearment, and should have no place in an address of respect.

We would hesitate before using the word when making a business address in person; hence why employ it falsely in writing? MARTIN J. NALDI.

QUESTION FOR MR. WALLACE.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Is there anything to the report that the government offered Carl L. Fiedler, candidate for commissioner of Chicago Heights, the usual grant for mowing the hay off his face and keeping those broad and fertile acres out of production? L. R. OLSEN.

UNION ENJOINED FROM PICKETING NEW YORK STORE

Can't Force Workers to Organize, Court Rules.

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—A court decision today permanently enjoined the Retail Cloak, Suit, Dress and Fur Salespeople's union, local 217, from picketing and otherwise interfering with the business of a Bronx department store.

Supreme Court Justice Salvator A. Cotillo said that the department store operator is in a different position from the ordinary employer of labor and that his success depends on administrative freedom which will not permit "regimentation" of his employés and "strangulation" of efficient organization.

"The national recovery act as at present constituted does not upset the present law that bona fide labor unions have the right to agitate peacefully for the closed shop," Justice Cotillo said. "I agree with that policy that one may peacefully agitate for a closed shop, but I add that such efforts must be limited to appropriate lines of endeavor.

Defends Employer's Rights.

"I have no quarrel with the desire of employés, whether they belong to the mechanical labor class or the so-called white collar class, to join [unions] for mutual advantage. But I cannot approve the usurpation by an organization of the latter class of the prerogative to eliminate the direct right of the employer to select his workers and the indirect right of the public to control such selections."

The case at issue was that of R. A. Freed & Co., Inc., a department store specializing in women's apparel at 3d avenue and East 159th street, the Bronx, against the union which for several months has been attempting to organize the store's sales force. The store was agreeable to a plan for organizing its sales staf of approximately 150 persons, but refused to conduct a closed shop, and that refusal resulted in picketing which the store asserted was detrimental to its business.

Closed Shop Demanded.

The union made its closed shop demand Nov. 15. Picketing began shortly after that and the store managers asserted that the picketeers not only caused crowds to collect but they carried placards bearing false information on the attitude of the majority of the store's salespeople. They denied that their sales force was on strike and pointed out that only five of its staf were members of the defendant union. Of the salespeople, many had been with the store for more than twenty years, the store officials said.

Statements of the union were called "wholly false, misleading, and malicious" by counsel for the store in his argument for the permanent injunction.

"There is no question from the evidence but that the plaintif is paying salaries to its employés in excess of the labor provisions of the retail stores code," Justice Cotillo said, "and has otherwise complied with the provisions of the NRA.

Court Outlines Issue.

"The question before this court is whether or not the defendant union should be permitted, either by the methods of intimidation adopted or even by peaceful picketing, to compel plaintif's employés to join the union or to compel the employer to make membership in the union a prerequisite to continued employment of workers. The proof in the record is that, outside of the five who joined the union, the balance of the employés seem to have no desire to join this union."

Justice Cotillo cited other court decisions in which it was stressed that picketing of itself is not unlawful, but that the method of picketing sometimes is illegal. In this connection he pointed out that the method of picketing alone, as adopted by the defendant union, was sufficient justification for granting a permanent injunction against its continuance.

Against Regimentation.

"Employment within the field of retail distribution affords an opportunity for individual enterprise possibly greater than in any other craft," Judge Cotillo continued. "Those talents which make for success and individual progress are elusive and yet real and demonstrable only under reasonable liberty of individual action, so that the regimentation of a closed shop would act as a deterrent to the initiative and ambition of the employés. A person of ambition, imagination, industry, and talent would certainly be restrained from the expression and capitalization of those qualities under the limitations of a closed shop and union dictatorship.

"That these people should be subjected to the necessity of joining a union and paying union dues for the privilege of working in a store for temporary periods seems oppressive."

PURSUED IN TEXAS

TEXAS OUTLAW FREES 3 FARM BOY HOSTAGES

U.S. Agents Enter Search for Hamilton.

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Apparently successful in another flight from the law, Raymond Hamilton, elusive southwest desperado, and an outlaw companion were hunted tonight over a wide area of Texas. Federal agents coöperated in the search.

Three farm boys kidnaped by Hamilton after a brush with police last night were released near here by the fugitive.

The fight last night was the third time since last summer that Hamilton, former lieutenant of the late Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, outwitted police.

After narrowly escaping death in a police ambush near McKinney last night, Hamilton and his henchman kidnaped J. C. Loftice, 16, and took his car to replace the one riddled by officers' bullets.

Then the outlaws hid all night at the farm of Bill Mayes, about 20 miles northwest of McKinney. They fled before dawn in the Mayes car, taking with them Loftice, Mayes' son, Buster, and a third youth, J. C. Harlow.

The three boys were released later in Mayes' car. They returned to their homes.

Hamilton has been at large since he escaped last summer from the death house of the state prison, where he was awaiting electrocution for killing a guard during a previous break for freedom. Several weeks ago he and another man fled a trap at Dallas when police opened fire on them.

It was believed Hamilton was wounded in the jaw last night in the barrage laid down by ambushing officers. They had lain in wait for him after receiving word the outlaws would be driving along a deserted lane.

Hamilton and his companion drove by on schedule, but disregarded a command to halt and returned the policemen's bullets with a hail of shots from automatic rifles or a machine gun.

EMBLEN GOES ON TRIAL TOMORROW IN DAICHES PLOT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Matlak, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

Arthur Emblen, Gary hoodlum who refused to testify in the trial in which Irving Weitzman was found guilty of the murder of Eli Daiches and sentenced to life imprisonment, will go to trial tomorrow on a charge of complicity in the murder.

Judge Harry B. Miller of the Criminal court set the early trial late yesterday when Assistant State's Attorneys Emmett Moynihan and John S. Boyle said they were anxious to try Emblen. Neither Emblen nor his attorney, William Scott Stewart, was in court.

Emblen, who earlier had admitted being hired by Weitzman to kill Daiches, but who succeeded only in beating him, surprised the state at the Weitzman trial when he refused to answer any questions when called to the stand. Weitzman was convicted mainly on the testimony of Walter Murphy [Walter McManamon] that he had been paid to kill Daiches, but had sublet the contract to Jerry Pilot, since slain, and Jack London, a fugitive.

MASSEUR JAILED FOR UNLICENSED MEDICAL HEALING

Municipal Judge Charles F. McKinley yesterday sentenced Bernard P. Maza, 68 years old, 8922 South Claremont avenue, a masseur, to serve six months in the House of Correction on a charge of practicing medicine without a license. Complaint against Maza was brought by Joseph Ragan, 4108 South Francisco avenue, who testified he visited Maza's home last Nov. 25 when he was suffering from an intestinal ailment. Maza diagnosed his case and told him he was suffering from dropsy and treated him, Ragan said.

Medical equipment found in the home of Frank J. Vicek, 2111 South Central Park avenue, who is charged with practicing medicine without a license, was introduced in evidence yesterday in the court of Municipal Judge Eugene Holland. Several receipts Vicek had given to Mrs. Helen Hlad, 1707 South Racine avenue, for payment received in return for services also were introduced. In all of these Vicek signed himself "Dr. Frank Vicek." The case yesterday was continued until tomorrow.

6 DIE, 22 MISSING AFTER EXCURSION LAUNCH CAPSIZES

CASTRIES, St. Lucia, Windward Islands, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Six persons were known dead and 22 were missing in the Caribbean sea tonight after a motor launch crowded with excursionists capsized Sunday three miles off this West Indian island.

Watchers on the beach saw the 13 ton launch overturn and at once sent canoes and motorboats out to the rescue. Seventy-four survivors were accounted for. Many swam to safety before boats reached them. Six bodies were brought to land at the village of Laborie where survivors were also landed.

A panic on board was believed responsible for the tragedy. Details received here indicated the boat turned turtle when scores of passengers rushed suddenly to the port side. The reason for the action was not disclosed. A heavy sea made rescue work difficult. All members of the crew were saved. The launch had set out on a low rate excursion from Chousel Sunday morning and was on the return trip at Laborie.

UNION DELAYS N. Y. ELEVATOR STRIKE ORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Hundreds of thousands of employés in 600 buildings in Manhattan breathed a sigh of relief today when the order for a general service strike, affecting elevator operators and other building employés, was postponed "indefinitly" by James J. Bambrick, president of the local Building Service Employés union.

Bambrick made this announcement after leaving a conference in the offices of former Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, who was named by Francis Biddle, chairman of the National Labor Relations board in Washington, to act as mediator in the dispute.

Twenty thousand employés were ready to walk out when the order for a postponement came.

12 POLICE CARRY 600 LB. WOMAN TO HOSPITAL TO DIE

Mrs. Victoria Hernandez, 1354 Newberry avenue, who weighed 600 pounds, required the services of twelve policemen and a fire squad yesterday to remove her from her home to the County hospital for treatment for heart disease. Despite efforts of attending physicians she died early today. Back in 1930, when she weighed 500 pounds, the doorway of her home was just a comfortable fit. But she was too large to go through it yesterday, so a fire squad had to widen the doorway.

Brooks Is Held in Jail on Maternity Home Charge

Unable to post a $4,000 bond for his release, the Rev. Edward L. Brooks, operator of the Beulah Maternity home at 2144 North Clark street and also operator of the alleged "baby farm" at Beulah, Mich., was taken to a cell in the county jail yesterday to await arraignment tomorrow before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court. Brooks was returned to Chicago Sunday from Michigan to stand trial on a charge of operating the maternity home without a license. Dr. Brooks' wife, who was indicted with him, was too ill in her Michigan home to be returned.

Mrs. Sara Bloom, Writer, Divorces Lawyer Here

Mrs. Sara Bloom of New York, fiction writer under the pen name, Sally Chayes, was granted an uncontested divorce from Irwin Bloom, Chicago lawyer, by Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti yesterday. She was given $2,900 in lieu of alimony in a settlement out of court. They have one daughter, Frances.

MELLON'S GIFT TO SON BARED IN TAX INQUIRY

Financier's Aid Testifies on 8 Million Present.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Details of a gift of $8,791,000 Andrew W. Mellon made to his son Paul on March 23, 1932, were revealed today at the board of tax appeals' inquiry into the financier's income tax affairs.

The government charges that Mellon filed a fraudulent income return in 1931 and that he now owes $3,089,000. Mellon contends the government owes him $139,000 for overpaid taxes. The inquiry entered its second week today.

Testimony concerning Mellon's gift to his son was given by the financier's confidential secretary, Howard M. Johnson, who has drawn up the millionaire's income tax returns for the last 20 years.

10 Million Owed Father.

At the time the gift was made, Paul owed his father more than 10 million dollars on a note he had taken from R. B. Mellon, brother of Andrew, the witness related. This note covered payment of bank stock which R. B. Mellon had taken when Andrew became secretary of the United States treasury in 1921.

Johnson testified that the bank stock had been turned over by Paul Mellon to the Smithfield Securities company, owned jointly by himself and his sister, Mrs. Ailsa Bruce.

"The gift was part of a plan for organization of Smithfield, wasn't it?" asked Government Attorney Robert H. Jackson.

Shows Letter from Mellon.

"It was," Johnson replied, "as part of Mr. Mellon's plan that part of this be given to Mrs. Bruce."

The witness produced a letter Andrew Mellon wrote to his children on the date of the gift. It referred to a practice of Andrew's own father, Judge Thomas Mellon.

"As I told you on former occasions," Andrew wrote, "my father imposed responsibility upon his children as fast as he thought they were prepared to assume it, and I have endeavored to follow this policy with you.

"I am pleased with the judgment which you are showing and I felt justified in giving you the further responsibilities of additional properties. On my return [from London] I shall have more freedom to give attention to some philanthropic matters."

Tells of Brokerage Account.

Mellon's secretary also read from records which showed that the financier held a marginal brokerage account while he was secretary of the treasury. The witness said the account had a balance of $601,500 as of January, 1932, to cover stock purchases amounting to two million dollars.

Although the account was not listed in the ledger under Mellon's name, his secretary said he gave directions to brokers after conferring with Mr. Mellon.

Disclosure also was made that Mellon had a total of $9,368,000 in tax free municipal and federal farm loan bonds which were not reported in his 1931 income tax return. Johnson insisted the items were not taxable and not returnable.

STUDEBAKER ART COLLECTION WILL BE PUT ON BLOCK

Permission to auction the art collection of the late Clement Studebaker Jr., president of the North American Light and Power company, was granted yesterday by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. The collection, including fourteen paintings and several etchings, is appraised approximately $55,000.

The court allowed the petition of Frances Thurman, executrix, that the paintings be sent to New York City for disposal and the etchings be sold here. In the collection of paintings is Gainsborough's Landscape, appraised at $8,000, and Copley's Lord Cornwallis, appraised at $6,500.

Mr. Studebaker died Dec. 3, 1932, leaving most of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Alice Studebaker, 1500 Lake Shore drive.

The meals you serve help keep the family fit. In many homes, common constipation develops as a result of insufficient "bulk" in the menu. This can be overcome by a delicious cereal.

Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" in convenient form. ALL-BRAN also provides vitamin B and iron.

Gets Six Month Jail Term on 5 Year Old Girl's Charge

Richard Burke, 48 years old, of 4733 Patterson avenue, was sentenced to six months in the house of correction yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan, on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He was identified in court by a five year old girl as the man who enticed her into a hallway.

MAIL STEAMERS TO BE PAID FOR LOST CONTRACTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A decision against any attempt at flat cancellation of ocean mail contracts without compensation was said authoritatively tonight to have been agreed upon within the administration.

In an informed quarter it was said the decision probably would be reflected in the President's forthcoming message to congress on the merchant marine and ship subsidies.

Meanwhile, Joseph B. Eastman, today before a senate committee on the controversial proposals for reorganization of the interstate commerce commission and extension of its authority over all forms of transportation. He suggested elimination of "destructive competition" in the field of transportation, a proposal carrying implications certain to be opposed.

In the matter of ocean mail contracts some authorities, recalling what happened in the air mail contracts, conceded that the ocean carriers have been uneasy since the administration began an investigation of their agreements and the circumstances under which they were drawn.

Four Sentenced to Jail for Driving While Drunk

Four men were sentenced to jail terms of ten days each yesterday by Judge Cecil C. Smith in the Safety court for driving their automobiles while intoxicated. Those sentenced are Joseph Bugner, 41 years old, 851 Madison street, Evanston, a mechanic; Anthony Black, 41, of Willow Springs; Henry Decke, 43, of 1829 Fremont street, a laborer, and Joseph Brosius, 50, of 7945 South Lincoln street, a mechanic.

HOUSE TO BE PUT THROUGH TESTS OF SAND AND FIRE

To find out if a brick building can "take it," and if so, just how much, engineers and builders will begin a series of experiments today on a brick house at A Century of Progress. The experiments will be conducted by the Brick Manufacturers' association.

Built to comply with building code requirements to carry a load of 260 pounds per square foot of floor space, the structure will be loaded with sand to a weight of 300 pounds per foot—which is more than a baby grand or an electric ice box requires.

If the building stands this test, it will be stacked with inflammable materials and tested by fire on Friday. The sand test will then be repeated and, if the structure still stands, wreckers will begin their work.

DOCTOR ACCUSED AFTER OPERATION RELEASED IN BAIL

Dr. Maurice L. Dale, 3568 Harrison street, surrendered at the Central police station last night after learning that a warant had been issued for him, charging the performance of an illegal operation on Miss Marie Dwyer, 26 years old, 5215 Fulton street.

He posted a $3,000 real estate bond, which was approved by Judge Eugene J. Holland, and was released immediately. A warant containing similar charge has been issued for Dr. Frank Braune, 306 South Wabash avenue, but service had not been made on it late last night.

Miss Dwyer is now in the Lakeside Clinic and Post Graduate hospital, in a critial condition. The warants were obtained by Mrs. Mary Potter, 3003 Harrison street, the young woman's mother.

Last Jan. 11 Miss Dwyer swallowed poison in the office of Dr. Dale.

AND-
THE PAIN CAUSED BY SUCH GAS CAN BE RELIEVED BY TWO DIAPEPSIN TABLETS.

People do strange things when they have a little pain in the stomach, gas, or sourness! They take all sorts of remedies with high-sounding names. They clutter home and office with bottles and spoons, when one little thing carried in the pocket might straighten them out in a hurry!

Years ago, a man named Pape discovered a simple way to relieve cases of sour stomach. Diapepsin, in tablets that are just eaten like candy, has brought happiness to thousands who thought they had a "weak stomach."

If you have distress after meals, any acid discomfort at all, your stomach is possibly slow to empty. If you will treat this condition with Pape's Diapepsin, you can eat with lots more freedom.

Good Morning!

"Sweet Music" has sugar and spice and music that's nice. So, why in the world SHOULDN'T it make the popularity grade?

To the time of seeing it, Bing Crosby had been my favorite crooner star. Now the scales are even. For Rudy gives a slick performance, the while revealing himself as a young man of ingratiating screen presence. Something restful about the work of both these blonde boys. Perhaps they've achieved something new in the way of a crooning technique.

The tune laden, actionful piece at the Roosevelt is concerned with the careers of a band leader and a dancing girl. They hate each other like poison when the picture opens, but by the time it ends—AH, BEBBY . . . !

The villain of the piece is owl-eyed Ned Sparks—known as "Ten Per Cent." He's Ann Dvorak's manager, and in love with her. When he discovers that Ann and Rudy have fallen for each other—does HE pull a Machiavelli! Ann is charming and resourceful in this so different a rôle for her.

Allen Jenkins as an enthusiastic but misguided publicity man, provides trouble for all, himself included, and in so doing wins high favor from the audience. Alice White does nobly as the Dumbdora he has to marry in order to get Rudy out of a scrape brought about by his own fevered quest for a front page story.

The action speeds zestfully and entertainingly from café to theater, to radio studio. The smart finale leaves everybody in the story happy who really deserves to be and sends satisfied customers away with a smile.

WHICH, I would say, is doing well the job that "Sweet Music" was intended to do.

See you tomorrow.

The Stage

The cabaret revue called "Hello, Paris" which has been playing at the French Casino for the last ten weeks will end its run tomorrow. Next Friday the company of European entertainers will begin an engagement at the Palace theater. A tour of cinema and vaudeville houses, lasting twenty weeks, will follow.

The French Casino will be closed for several weeks and will reopen with a program to be called "The Folies Bergères of 1935." Clifford G. Fischer, impresario of these entertainments, plans to import a new group of Paris music hall performers.

"Her First False Step" will be the next showboat melodrama to be staged aboard the Dixiana. Next Monday night is the date fixed for the first performance.

The Abbey Theater company of Dublin will give William Butler Yeats' one act play, "Kathleen ni Houlihan," its first performance of the current engagement in the Harris theater tonight as curtain raiser to "The Playboy of the Western World." C. C.

Welcomes the Snowstorm

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Another snowstorm wasn't greeted by sighs of disappointment by Mrs. Victor Spoehr of Glencoe, for she and her husband and their children are very fond of skating, skiing and tobogganing. Here she is all dressed for several hours of winter sporting at the Glen View club. Mrs. Spoehr is the former Mildred Affleck, daughter of Benjamin F. Affleck.

Reinhardt Puts Cagney at Top of Talkie Stars

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The "greatest performers in pictures" were selected here today by Max Reinhardt, noted theatrical producer.

Charlie Chaplin is "The greatest artist of them all," Reinhardt said, but confined his list to those appearing in talking pictures, as follows: James Cagney, Charles Laughton, Katharine Hepburn, Leslie Howard, Greta Garbo, Marlene Dietrich, Paul Muni, Bette Davis, Robert Donat, Kay Francis, and Edward G. Robinson.

The greatest of the talkie stars, he said, is Cagney, whom he characterized as "a mysterious, dangerous, and terrifying uncertainty that never allows the tenseness of an audience to relax."

Vice President Proud of Dress Wife Knit for Her Own Wear

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. John N. Garner is appearing these days in a velour crêpe suit of her own knitting.

It's blue, the color of her eyes, and the Vice President is so proud of it he calls the attention of his fellow statesmen to Mrs. Garner's accomplishment.

She knitted it at odd moments while on her double job of secretary and official hostess for the Vice President.

Now she is knitting for her granddaughter Genevieve a much more intricate suit of egg-shell velour crêpe, a wool yarn resembling boucle but softer in texture.

Works Magic on Ill Fitting or Worn Shoes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

There's some fancy footwork going on in a smart shoe shop that ought well nigh to make any doubting shopper believe in black magic! What can be done with your old shoes and slippers will positively make you gasp. Old numbers the pup has tried to chew to ribbons, dilapidated pumps, suedes that have whiskers, sloppy old relics and well worn but still good brogans are rehabilitated till you wouldn't know your own property.

Footgear ready for the ashcan, old timers just about wheezing out their last shuffle are taken tenderly, as befits their ancient and battered condition, nursed, revived and recolored and the result is much zip and life in the old dogs yet.

Here are a few of the reviving tricks that are promised! Too long slippers are shortened and too short affairs are lengthened and pinching models are eased out. Scraggy looking suedes otherwise too good to throw out are smoothed down into models that will last another six months and will look like new buys of kidskin.

Recoloring or dyeing keeps a corps of experts busy from dawn till dark. There isn't a color or shade you can ask for that you will not receive after a week or so. Your party slippers of silver or gold will be regilded or dyed to suit your whims. And the dye stays smooth, no cracks or flaking. They will also recover any pair of old shoes with a quarter yard or so of any fabric or material you may want to match a pet suit or costume or dress in your wardrobe.

These wizards also rebind slippers that have become too loose, cut down vamps that bind cruelly over the instep or heels, and rebuild old shoes that have lost their original shape and comfort. Gather all the misshapen, overstretched, or too tight slippers you have tucked away as "has beens"; take down to this Ponce de Leon shoe repair shop and collect some grand new models about a week later. This is a find!

Miss Needham Is Engaged to James R. Getz

Plans for Spring Wedding Are Announced.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A YOUNG couple making plans for a spring wedding is one whose engagement is being announced this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice H. Needham of 219 Lake Shore drive. The young lady is their younger daughter, Betsy, and her fiancé is James Rankin Getz, younger son of George F. Getz. Miss Needham, tall and blonde, is very charming. She did not make a formal debut after finishing school at Miss Madeira's in Washington, but she became a member of the Chicago Junior league and is one of its most active workers. This winter she has been studying at the Art institute.

Before going away to school she attended the Girls' Latin school. She has a sister, Nedra, who was married to Earl Bruce Millar III. in October, 1933, and two younger brothers, John, a freshman at Harvard, and Richard, a student at the Boys' Latin school.

Mr. Getz prepared at Choate for Yale. After his graduation there he worked as a journalist in Chicago, but he now is engaged in business with his father. His older brother, George F. Getz Jr., married Olive Atwater two years ago.

Many Give Parties for Virjean Richey.

There are parties morning, noon and night during these last few days before their marriage for popular Miss Virjean Richey and Burton Mudge Jr., who are to be married Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. James Royer—he is to be an usher—entertained at dinner at the Chicago Athletic club for them Saturday night and then the party went on to the Deke ball at the Blackstone.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ross entertained at cocktails Sunday afternoon in their Highland Park home, and later the group crossed the street to the junior Samuel Carson Pirie's home, where they were served a buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Buss gave a cocktail party in their apartment in the Lake Shore Drive hotel last night, and tonight Charles F. Bowey, another usher, will give a cocktail party. The best man, Dozier Gardner, and Mrs. Gardner are arriving from St. Louis tomorrow to be the guests of James Cook, who will give a dinner in his apartment after the wedding rehersal tomorrow evening.

The wedding, which is to be a very informal affair with the guests restricted just to intimate friends of the family, will take place at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Drake hotel. Mr. Mudge and his bride will make their home in the Marshall Field Garden apartments after a wedding trip.

Ruth Redheffer Will Talk on Economics.

It isn't often that one hears a woman, and a young, attractive one at that, talk on economics, but that is what those who go to the fifth of a series of talks on current topics arranged by the North Shore auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity center will do tomorrow morning. The speaker will be Dr. Ruth Redheffer, well known in society circles as Mrs. Raymond L. Redheffer, but a doctor of economics just the same.

Mrs. Redheffer's subject will be "Must America Choose?" and the lecture, which will start promptly at 10:30 o'clock, will be given at the residence of Mrs. Henry M. Dawes at Greenleaf avenue and the lake in Evanston.

Mrs. Ralph E. Heilman, president of the auxiliary, will give a luncheon for Mrs. Redheffer after the lecture. A number of her north shore and Chicago friends who are not subscribers to the series are planning to hear Mrs. Redheffer talk tomorrow morning. The former Ruth Alexander, the daughter of one of the country's noted philologists, also is a talented pianist and has played professionally.

Another socialite who has been a professional concert pianist will be one of two artists who will give a musical at the Woman's Athletic club tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. She is Andreina Materassi Barton, wife of Malcolm S. Barton of Evanston, and daughter-in-law of Mrs. Enos M. Barton of Hubbard Woods. Herman Felber, violinist, will be the other artist.

Mrs. William N. Pelouze, chairman of the program committee, and the other directors of the club will entertain Mrs. Barton and Mr. Felber at luncheon after the musical. Mrs. Barton, who formerly lived in Florence, Italy, achieved international renown as a pianist before her marriage.

Plan Cocktail Party for Marion Strobel Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams are returning today from three weeks at Vero Beach, Fla. The first party they will give after their return is a cock-

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Hers is a perfect makeup, achieved principally with a paste that gives the skin a velvety finish and makes powder and rouge more flattering.

There's a need for good foundations these days, what with the blizzards. And we find women are more and more eager to use them; they seem to be coming into their own at last.

A perfectly slick one that commanded our respect is, like a lot of the fairly heavy ones, not overly easy to apply without practice. Once you get the hang of it, though, you'll be a pretty contented woman.

It's a thick paste, but not greasy, and the way to use it, as we found out yesterday when we asked a specialist to do it before our very eyes, is to apply it in light dots all over the face, then to smooth it out until the face is evenly but lightly filmed. The trick is, of course, not to use too much or too little, but a few practical tryouts and it's easy. When it's spread the fingers must do their work deftly.

It's a perfectly beautiful powder base, leaving the skin with a lusterless, velvety finish that makes the powder and rouge ten times more flattering than they usually are. And the makeup stays put for hours; the face doesn't get shiny and wilted.

This paste comes in a small, flat round container that looks like a little bit for your money, but it is used so sparingly it should get you by for almost a year.

In this same line there is a paste rouge in a raspberry shade that is downright ravishing on brunettes; it has a warmth and depth about it that make it look like a soft blush. It isn't a bit flamboyant and its texture makes it a joy to use, even by the amateur who's never dabbled with paste rouges before.

Both the excellent foundation and the raspberry rouge are in several Chicago shops. ELEANOR NANGLE

Art Institute Offers Several Small Shows

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Several small exhibitions in the Art institute, or as is the case with one connected with the Art institute, are of interest. The Art Students' league of the school of the Art institute is holding an exhibit of work by members in the school lobby.

Some forty pictures are in the group and all kinds of mediums have been employed from oil through water color and pencil to tempera and pastel. The league numbers forty-two, so practically every member is represented. The dominating factor in the exhibit is still the modern note.

A most beautiful collection of embroidered Chinese robes has been placed on exhibit in gallery H9 of the Art institute. Here is found rare and exquisite work. Many of the robes and hangings are priceless. A marvelous robe called the "Hundred Antiques" is of the Ching dynasty [1644-1911 A. D.] and is lent by Mrs. G. P. Benton. The needlework on it is flawless; the colors and designs intricate and fascinating.

A remarkably woven priest's robe in tapestry design, on a yellow ground, is the gift of Alice E. Getty. Three gorgeous robes, two in blue, one of dark and the other of light background, are the gift of Guy Mitchell and shown now for the first time. Russell Tyson lends a velvet with a pattern of peonies in gold thread, presumably a border of a throne carpet.

A hanging, the gift of Miss Helen Holden, is of red satin brocade carrying the complicated design of the "Hundred Boys at Play." Another important robe is that which was the gift of Mrs. Charles W. Brega to the antiquarians, a court robe in gold and vivid colors embroidered on brown silk.

In the Allerton wing of the museum is a delightful exhibit of samplers with poetry and pictures from the collection of Mrs. Henry Eugene Coe of New York. The topics are varied and the rimes weird. The little girls, from 8 to 15 years of age, who embroidered these touching scraps achieved some incredible effects. Probably, though, where we find humor they saw a sober task well performed.

Elmer E. Forsberg, instructor in the Art institute school, has an interesting one man show of paintings—portraits and landscapes—in the Interfraternity club, 106 South Wabash avenue. One of his important portraits is the excellent likeness of Col. T. A. Siqueland. Mr. Forsberg is consular representative for Finland in Chicago and several of his landscapes were done in Finland. From nearer home are the scenes from Illinois and Michigan.

WEDDING

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Genevieve Kraft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Kraft of Portland, Ore., to Peery Patterson Koehne, son of William L. Koehne of 917 Castlewood terrace, on Dec. 31 at the Church of the Atonement in Chicago.

Lotte Lehmann and Miquelle Give Recital

Soprano's Lieder Singing Highly Praised.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The joint recital by Lotte Lehmann, soprano, and Georges Miquelle, cellist, at the Auditorium last night was a case of two well known artists being presented under unfamiliar circumstances. For Mme. Lehmann earned herself a good bit of fame for some exceptional performances with the Chicago Opera, and Mr. Miquelle became popular last summer as the first cellist of the Detroit Symphony orchestra at the Fair. But this was the first time they had appeared in a recital program.

Whether in opera or recital, Mme. Lehmann is a glamorous person, a glowing combination of vocal virtues and faults so arranged that when you have left the concert hall you remember the virtues and forget the faults. As a matter of fact, the faults are certain ones of technic, and rather unimportant at that.

Her virtues are a glorious voice and an ability to project songs with a full sense of both their music and their drama. This is the true art of singing lieder, of which her part of the program consisted. The artists who attain it are fortunate. Those who come to listen to them are more fortunate.

I wish that Mme. Lehmann were announced for another recital. I do not believe that she transmitted all that she knows about singing lieder last night, or that she could do it in any one recital program. But as it was, there was a lot of a fine and appealing art. There were two songs by Brahms, two by Schubert, and four by Schumann, and if you have any doubt about the fine art of the lied you should have heard her sing the "Botschaft" of the first, "Der Erikoenig" of the second, and "Auftraege" of the third. Then there were two more by Hugo Wolf and a final pair by Richard Strauss, plus encores, over which the audience was insistent and she not unwilling.

Mr. Miquelle has tone, technic, and spirit, all of the sort that put him into the front rank of soloists. There is only one regret when a cellist of his abilities appears in public, and it is that composers as a class have not been as fertile and inventive for the cello as they have been for the voice, the violin, or the piano. Even as it is, however, he was able to assemble two highly attractive groups and play them in a highly attractive manner.

Norman Lockwood of Oberlin, O., has been unanimously adjudged the winner of the $1,000 first prize in the composers' symphonic contest proposed by Swift & Co. last summer and just now determined by the judges, Frederick Stock, Sir Hamilton Harty, John Alden Carpenter, and Howard Hanson. His work is known as "A Year's Chronicle."

A second prize of $500 was awarded to Charles Haubiel of New York for his "Tre Ritratti Caratteristici." This composer entered another composition under another pseudonym and was given honorable mention for it, as was David Van Vactor of Evanston for his "The Masque of the Red Death." All works were entered under pseudonyms. There were 118 in all from 104 composers, thirteen of them women, and the entries represented twenty-five states and the District of Columbia. Chicago led the cities with twenty-six contestants, New York followed with eighteen. Among the states Illinois was first with thirty-five entries, followed by New York with twenty-six.

A GIRL named Eva Jones has been making frequent trips to the public library, ostensibly to get data for a thesis she is writing on sugar. It is suspected by her family, however, that she keeps an appointment there. A few days ago when Miss Jones' mother asked Eva's sister, Nancy, where Eva was she answered:

Punster—Names—Variation—Planting—Absorption.

"O, she went to the library to find her sugar data."

THERE is more to naming the characters in a novel than merely finding a suitable name for the characters. One author invented a name for his leading character and was sued for $100,000 by a woman who happened to bear that name. Before Marion Strobel named the Ambler family in her new book, "Fellow Mortals," she consulted the city and suburban telephone directories to be sure she was not duplicating local names in her story of a Chicago family. Thornton Wilder called the young evangelist in his new book, "Heaven's My Destination," George Brush, only to discover afterward that there are innumerable George Brushes scattered throughout the country. He even had a letter of complaint from an ironmonger in England, who pointed out that the use of his name in Mr. Wilder's latest book has been the source of some annoyance and embarrassment. Mr. Wilder wrote back and pointed out politely that there were two George Brushes in the city directory and some two hundred in New York and that he did not have him in mind at all when he wrote the book.

ERNEST GRUENSFELD, the architect for the Adler Planetarium, in one of his lighter moments, happened to mention a man for whom he built a hotel, an illiterate fellow whose vocabulary was very limited. There was a garage back of the hotel, but between the two buildings was a space the planting of which was being considered.

"You could put out rubber trees in the summer," one member of the group suggested.

"Don't get facetious," retorted another.

The hotel owner looked puzzled for a moment, then decided he ought to have an opinion about the matter.

"I don't like them, either," he said, probably thinking facetious meant something like acacias or maybe fuchias.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, grim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness.

INSTALMENT XIV.

SAFE AMONG FRIENDS.

Whatever the emotion was, Sarah promptly forgot it on Harry's arrival. Harry was here at last, handsome, light-hearted, and so glad to see her that whatever feeling of inferiority she might have had vanished into air. In this quarter, at least, she was appreciated. Now there would be no more dullness.

At a quarter to eight she set off with Harry, stalwart and easy of stride, between her and his aunt, holding each of them by an arm. Miss Venables had suggested walking, because after so long a drive Harry must want to stretch his legs, and Harry did not object.

The long lane which wound past the de Bellesnaves' estate lay white in the moonlight, with sparse poplars on one side and a high fence on the other. They pushed open a rickety iron gate, and there before them loomed the Casa Gialla, eerie under the shadowing eucalyptus trees, a terrace falling away in diminishing orderliness to merge at last in a tangle of rank growth. The house itself, with its long row of shuttered French windows and the paint flaking from its walls, had a look of forlorn desolation.

An old crone was beckoning from the hallway.

"And to think," whispered Miss Venables sadly, "that of three fine properties this poor ruin is all they have left! It wrings one's heart to imagine the subterfuge they must be put to in order to preserve a decent existence."

A shabby Italian man-servant admitted them to a hall so dimly lit that all Sarah could see were glimpses of bare parquet and a carved fifteenth century chest over which hung a splendid, dark painting. From a door on the right the baron hobbled forth, his wrinkled features wreathed in welcoming smiles.

"You find us in semi-obscurity," he announced. "Our electric plant has gone wrong, and we are reduced to candles. Come in, come in! We are delighted to have you with us again."

In the spacious salon the groups of tall candles made one think of a field of lilies stamened with golden fire. Their charitable light hid the threadbare patches in the upholstery and curtains, showing only the exquisite shapes of the period furniture. In a dusky corner lit by one lone candle was a table laden with bottles, and over these Gilcrest was bending. Mme. de Bellesnaves was at his side, but as the guests entered she swept forward to greet them.

The severely plain black taffeta she wore achieved a naïve picturesqueness with its tight bodice molding the almost childish contours of her body and its fringed flounces billowing to the floor. Vivid, exotic, intensely charged with vitality, she chained and fascinated the attention.

"Ah!" The sound coos in her throat. "Here we all are once more! It is like old times, is it not?"

The warm brilliance of her smile enveloped Sarah, somehow missing Harry, for her entire interest had centered itself on the removal of Miss Venables' sable-collared cloak and the freeing of the stiff frizzed coiffure from the lace scarf twined round it. As with the swift, darting movements of a humming bird her small brown hands busied themselves over their task, she prattled on, now laughing, now ironic.

"Old times! And all the old inconveniences. Again no lights, and this time no central-heating. Yes, that idiot of a Sebastiano put green wood on the furnace, so that we were forced to quench it, or be suffocated by smoke. Ah, well, ill trained servants are perhaps better than none, though there are times when . . . Well, Angela, what is wrong now?"

She had broken off to hurl this annoyed demand at an old Neapolitan crone, skinny and toothless, with kerchiefed head and gold earhoops, who from the gloom of the hallway was beckoning in dramatic fashion. As she flounced out to attend to the summons, the baron shrugged and raised his left eyebrow whimsically.

"The old story," he remarked in a philosophical tone. "Angela has at the last moment discovered there is no kirsch for the compote, or no paprika for the sauce. Never mind, all who frequent this house are used to makeshifts. At least, I can promise you some excellent jambon de Parme, for I chose it myself. And Gilcrest, here, will mix us a fortifying cocktail. Draw near the fire. The evenings are still sharp."

The doctor, after shaking hands with the three, had returned to his task. Miss Venables was talking to the baron, and Harry and Sarah, left together at one end of the hearth, were absorbed in each other when their hostess returned from her conference with the cook. Something had ruffled her, as the red spots burning in her cheeks plainly showed; but now, catching sight of Harry, who had just inquired about Sarah's wrist and had taken hold of it to examine the scar, she gave a shrill cry of compunction and broke into smiles.

"Monsieur 'Arree!" she exclaimed with light mockery just tinged with patronage. "What must you think of my bad manners? I have not spoken to you at all, you who are the complete stranger these days! I hear you stopped over in Paris. An accident to your car, was it? Alors, c'est ca!" She laughed wickedly, with a side glance at Sarah. "So that is your story, hein? Well—perhaps."

All three laughed, but the baroness did not stop for Harry's rejoinder. Swooping down upon the doctor, she linked her bare arm through his and demanded a taste of his concoction.

Unobtrusively Gilcrest had withdrawn his arm. Sarah noticed it, and saw, too, that the little baron was regarding the couple with a quiet smile. Harry passed her a cocktail, clicked his glass to hers, and watched her as she drank. Her color mounted. She knew that she was looking her best, and an occasional shrewd glance from Mme. de Bellesnaves confirmed her comforting conviction.

The meal, which was supper rather than dinner, was served in the warm glow of silver candelabra on a dark, waxed table. Delicious in every detail, it was for the most part Italian, since the baroness remembered that Miss Venables had a fondness for Italian cooking; and there was something more she recalled. When a huge mound of spaghetti mingled with green herbs and garlic made its appearance, Miss Venables was given a little separate dish minus garlic. "But how kind of you!" exclaimed the spinster, pleased at the attention. "Really, Maddalena, you spoil me."

What a moment of all others for Sarah to think of what she had well-nigh forgotten—her potential capacity of food taster? She was half ashamed of the furtive, darting thought which made her look across at the innocent dish responsible for the remark, then at the gratified face of her employer. The latter reassured her. Christine Venables, knowing herself in the midst of friends, was happily serene. The baron was filling her delicate old wine glass with Chianti.

Sarah glanced curiously at the little wizened invalid, between whom and herself a kinship of spirit was fast growing up. He had a brilliant mind, rare wit, and a shrugging, gentle tolerance which blunted the barb of his keenest quips. Perfect as a host, invariably mindful of his guests' requirements, he yet seemed to her more completely detached from his surroundings than any human creature she had ever known. He lived, she thought, in a realm apart, a condition particularly shown by his attitude toward his wife. Always chivalrous, he seldom looked directly at her, and if by chance their eyes met he made an instantaneous retreat behind the curtain of his pale lashes—no pointed withdrawal, but none the less effective. Of one thing Sarah felt sure: husband and wife moved, without clash, in separate orbits. A community of interests they might have, but of real contact, none.

Before long she formed a second opinion—namely: that Mme. de Bellesnaves, for all her singular beauty and charm, belonged to a sphere distinctly inferior to that of the man whose name she bore.

A Friend in Need

Mrs. L.'s husband lost his business three months after his marriage. All their savings went with it. They had purchased only the most necessary furniture, and are now living in a small attic flat. They have no rugs and, as Mrs. L. is an expectant mother, are anxious to secure at least one, 9x12, for the cold, bare floors of their home.

"Dear Miss Brown: I have come to where I must appeal to you for help. After almost a year on relief, my suit has become so worn and unfit to wear that I am no longer able to go into an office and look for work. A suit size 38 would surely be appreciated.—J. A."

Mr. A. is 5 feet 10 inches tall, and will be glad to call for apparel offered.

GASOLINE ALLEY—LOST: ONE BUNCH OF KEYS

FORGET ABOUT THIS FORTUNE TELLER STUFF, PHYLLIS. IF SHE COULD TELL WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN AHEAD OF TIME SHE WOULDN'T BE TELLING FORTUNES—SHE'D BE PLAYING THE STOCK MARKET.
COME TO THINK OF IT WE HAVEN'T REALLY HEARD ANYTHING OF THE WOMAN IN BLACK FOR THREE WEEKS. EVERYTHING HAS BEEN FALSE ALARMS.
I THINK SHE'S FORGOTTEN US. ANYWAY IF SHE'S HOOKED UP WITH THIS "FEBRUARY MERGING INTO MARCH" STUFF THAT CAN BE ANY TIME NOW.
OF COURSE YOU MAY BORROW MY KEYS, WALT, BUT WHERE ARE YOURS?
I DON'T KNOW. THEY'RE IN MY POCKETS SOMEWHERE OR MAYBE I LEFT THEM IN THE CAR LAST NIGHT.

Movie Players Give Backing to Athletic Teams

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—That old gag about the overenthusiastic sportsman who founded the college in order to recruit a football team so he could rate a monogram sweater has more than a glimmer of unshaded reality in the film colony. There never was such a gang of sports backers as the movie stars since the days when the medieval nobles maintained their stables of champions and subsidized all kinds of contests between men, dogs, and falcons.

For instance, Joe E. Brown, who owns a part of the Kansas City American association baseball club, can't rest content with that. He backs a baseball team in the summer and at present has money invested in a hot basketball team which is named Joe E. Brown All-Stars.

The Joe E. Brown All-Stars, composed wholly of Pacific coast ex-collegiate stars, are entered for the coming A. A. U. championships in Denver. At Denver this team of Browns expects to meet the Universal Picture basketeers, another outstanding studio team which hasn't dropped a game this year in the Los Angeles area, but which is not scheduled to go against the Joe Browners until the matter of national supremacy becomes involved at Danver. The Universal quintet also boasts a handful of ex-college wonders, but also has a couple of studio workmen on the roster.

While Joe Brown is concentrating on basketball, Ann Dvorak has a baseball club for which she furnished the uniforms. The team plays under her name on the sandlots of southern California and is a strong team. It was strong enough to win a game recently from the Paramount Cubs, which boasts several ex-big leaguers, and which has for its main financial backer and chief rooter none other than that knight of the British empire, Sir Guy Standing.

Sir Guy gave all the players of the Paramount Cubs Christmas gifts last December and demonstrates intense pride in having never missed one of their games. For a middle aged Englishman who was raised on cricket and sculls, this weakness for American baseball is one of the phenomena of Hollywood.

William De Mille, director and producer, is owner of a string of private tennis courts.

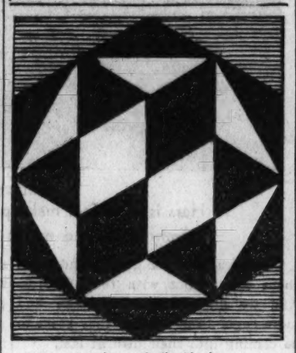
Pat O'Brien has just put up the dough to organize a professional football team in Los Angeles next autumn, Pat's interest running naturally to the gridiron sport because he used to play quarter back for Marquette university, Milwaukee.

Other crowds in the pictures, dominated by Will Rogers, Darryl Zanuck, Walt Disney, Big Boy Williams, and Hal Roach, have gone in for polo on a scale that represents considerably more than $1,000,000 investment. There are nine movie polo teams.

As for horse racing, the horse owners in the movie colony now include Bing Crosby with a stable of four; Constance Bennett, whose Rattlebrain placed second at Santa Anita last Wednesday; Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy. Zombi, a 2 year old filly which really runs as if she belongs on the track, is the star of Crosby's stable. Gable's horse is Beverly Hills. Hal Roach is president of the Los Angeles Turf club, which sponsors the present Los Angeles horse racing renewal at Santa Anita Park.

None of them got into sports with the expectation of making any money, but they have a lot of fun.

Quilt Has Beauty and Brilliance of Faceted Diamond



Madison Quilt Block.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

The brilliance and beauty of the Madison Quilt Block is like that of a many faceted diamond. It is a fairly ancient block, dating back to 1873. Its history is obscure, but it is known to have been pieced in Ohio and Indiana as well as the New England states. Blue, gold, and white are the colors suggested; however, one may select a color scheme suitable to the room in which the spread is used. The block measures 9 by 10½ inches, and the quilt is composed entirely of pieced blocks.

SCOLDED INTO TRYING IT

"A friend who knew how I suffered every month kept scolding me until I had to try Midol. I am glad that she did! Two tablets now see me through my worst day comfortably. I always tell every girl I discover who is still suffering the way I used to."

Many users speak just as highly of Midol. It acts fast, is effective for several hours, but it's not a narcotic. It is just a special medicine, for this special purpose, and specialists can tell you how well it works! You'll see it on the druggist's counter — or just ask for Midol. It always helps, and in some cases brings complete comfort, so it can hardly disappoint you!

Miss Needham Is Engaged to James R. Getz

Plans for Spring Wedding Are Announced.

tail party for Marion Strobel Mitchell [Mrs. James H. Mitchell], whose new novel, "Fellow Mortals," is just out. Mr. and Mrs. Adams read the book while they were vacationing and immediately decided to give a party for the author when they came home.

Miss Alice May Dickinson has returned from a West Indies cruise. She and Miss Eleanor McNally, who stayed in New York for a few days after they landed, took the trip under the chaperonage of Mrs. Lawrence H. Vilas, Miss McNally's aunt.

Miss Dickinson's parents, the Francis R. Dickinsons, will leave in a week or ten days for Mountain Lake, Fla., where they will spend a week or two as house guests of Mrs. Rensselaer W. Cox.

More Items of Winter Travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh L. Thorne returned Sunday from California. They had been visiting Mr. Thorne's mother, Mrs. Philip Chancellor, and his grandparents, the Oakleigh Thornes.

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Bissell and their young daughter, Daphne, will leave tomorrow for Sea Island, Ga. They will spend three weeks in the southern resort with Mrs. Bissell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Tilt, who have a house there for the season.

Mrs. James W. Linn, Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, and Henry J. Patten, who motored to Florida a few weeks ago, will return to Chicago next week. They are coming back via Washington. Mrs. Linn's son-in-law, James W. Rogers, who with Mrs. Rogers returned recently from a trip south, is now compietely recovered from the accident to his hip incurred last summer.

Mrs. James A. Field, who went east for the long week-end with her son, James Jr., at Harvard, will pass through town today or tomorrow on her way west to spend the rest of the winter in Arizona. Mrs. Rosecrans Baldwin will return in a day or two from a week's visit in the east.

Miss Louise Clark has gone to Palm Beach to visit the John Colemans. Miss Naomi Donnelley will be at home shortly from a visit in St. Paul, Minn.

Frost Family Drives to Florida.

Mrs. Charles S. Frost, her daughter, Miss Virginia Frost, and her son and daughter-in-law, the Marvin Hughitt Frosts, and Mrs. David Dangler have left for Florida to be away from three to five weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Frost probably will return to Lake Forest by way of Asheville so Mr. Frost may visit again the scenes of his prep school days, for he attended the Asheville School for Boys. Young Mrs. Frost's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wilbur Edwards, are staying in the Marvin Frost home to look after their children.

Florida travelers include the John F. Jelkes and the Prentice Porters; also the T. Clifford Rodmans and the Russell Kelleys who have gone to Sarasota to visit Mrs. Rodman's and Mrs. Kelley's parents, the Stanley Fields. They will return to Lake Forest in mid-April. . . . The Lyle Harpers and their boys have joined the Albert Saxes on their houseboat at Daytona.

Miss Eleanor Holden has joined the Chicago colony at Palm Beach. She will be away until April.

The junior Albert Blake Dicks are at home from a trip to New York. The H. Foster Straws, who were in New York at about the same time, have sailed on a West Indies cruise.

Go to Palm Beach on Motor Trip.

Miss Veronese Beatty; her brother, Ross J. Beatty Jr., and Eugene Swigert, with whom Mr. Beatty shares an apartment on East Pearson street, motored to Palm Beach Saturday morning to occupy a house the senior Beatty's have rented there. The two bachelors are recuperating from appendectomies, undergone a fortnight ago—Mr. Swigert's operation was a sympathetic case, according to their friends, for Mr. Beatty was the first to be operated upon. Mr. and Mrs. Beatty will join the younger generation shortly for a long stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling E. Peacock of Evanston have gone to Miami Beach for their usual winter vacation. Mr. Peacock will return at the end of March but Mrs. Peacock will remain south until the end of the season.

Mrs. Percival Hart of Kimbark avenue and her two small sons are spending the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla. Visiting them this month is Mrs. Hart's mother, Mrs. C. Gurnee Fellows of New York, formerly of Chicago.

Geographic Society Lecture Tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Greenlee, and Thomas E. Donnelley will be some of those occupying boxes this evening at the program of the National Geographic society in Orchestra hall.

William L. Finley is to show and lecture on his two spectacular motion pictures made on two long northern cruises. Mr. Finley's subject will be "Birds, Bergs, and Kodiak Bears."

Mrs. Edward V. L. Brown will read Sinclair Lewis' "Dodsworth" at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the College club.

Mrs. Martin de Tamble will be hostess at luncheon this noon at the College club to the social committee of the Sunbeam league. The league board has just changed the date of its annual charity card party to April 30. The party will be held in the Grand ball room of the Stevens hotel.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

YOU CANNOT HAVE IT "HEADS I WIN, TAILS YOU LOSE."

We must admit that when the opponents open the bidding against you they make it very hard for you to get to many a game which is a lay down to make, but a tough assignment to bid. That is, when your hand is not strong enough or not aggressive enough in type to permit a force, and when the strength is divided in a manner which is easy to play but hard to bid. As you know, one purpose of my treatment of third hand bids is precisely to interfere with the bidding I expect to be exchanged by opponents who may, I fear, have a game if they can get to it. We are not considering this situation from their standpoint. We have a game, but they have opened the bidding. Our strength is divided, so that a force is impossible. A distributional double is the first step; it is the doubler's rebid which is a delicate problem. In yesterday's article I explained the kind of reasoning to apply, but I want to warn you that it is far from infallible. Some of these hands will get to three and go down; others will get to four and go down; others will stop at two or three and game will be made. The procedure I suggest is the best I have been able to devise up to now for overcoming the interference occasioned by the opponents having opened the bidding against us when we have a game hand, particularly when the game is in a trump suit divided 4-4 between our two hands.

My Treatment Is Very Effective in Tournaments.

I would add that under match point scoring it works very well, because so often when you are wrong because you bid too high and take a loss of 50 or 100 points it turns out to be a good board after all because you have kept the opponents from a part score contract which they could not have lost and they would have bid again had the doubler not raised. I mean that the raise, when resulting in a set of one, acts as a second barricade in shutting out a raise by the opponent on your left. Had you passed he would have given that raise. Now you would have to rebid to defend the part score, but after that raise one of your opponents would be pretty sure to double you. You will now be set one doubled, and if you are vulnerable that will be a lost board. As you know, a part score bid and made carries a bonus of 50 points in duplicate play, so it is better to go down 100 than to let the enemy make two hearts or three in a minor, which would net them 110—60 plus 50. However, if they could make only two in a minor [90 points] you would lose the board by going down 100, and this is a point to remember when, under a match point scoring, you are maneuvering and fighting a part score hand. Never forget the vulnerability condition of either side when game is not involved, and the bidding in the part score arena.

Defending Against a Double.

Since we have today been considering the other side of the table, let me say that when my partner opens the bidding and the next hand doubles, I do not bid on weakness at this point. I treat the double exactly as I would an overcall. It has kept the bidding open for my partner, so this function no longer devolves on me. If I do bid it is because I am making a constructive move and can see at least another bid ahead. To raise his suit is to say, "Had there been no double I could almost, if not quite, have given you a leeway jump raise." To bid a no trump over a double I would be practically strong enough to bid two no trumps had the doubler passed. Some players, I notice, always raise over a double to show weakness except for that one message—that they have a fit in the opener's suit. The "now or never" idea, no doubt. I do not agree with this. I prefer to treat the double as I treat an overcall. I ignore it in the same manner, but I also make it serve me. If I bid over it my partner can rely on my raise or whatever my bid indicated. This is, I assure you, the best defense that I know of against the Sims double—it shows up "psychic" or "ultrastrategic" doubles just like the Sims double frequently shows up psychic or near-psychic opening bids. I offer you both the sword and the shield; they are made by the same armorer of steel from the same foundry. I don't guarantee either to beat the other—that depends on the arm which wields them and the brain which directs that arm. Anyway, it's fun to handle them.

Clever Recipes Boost Oranges in Winter Diet

BY MARY MEADE.

With still a few laps to go before we begin chortling over strawberries and such, let's cast a few well directed chorties in the direction of our dependable winter buddy, the orange. Nice, juicy, meaty, golden spheres—they deserve no less.

Vitamins, minerals, color, flavor—it's a bit hard to know upon just which count they've achieved their comfortable pinnacle of popularity. If you're the sort of person who prefers the more scientific side of nutrition, you serve them for those important little factors known as A, B, and C and for those bone builders, calcium and phosphorus. If, on the other hand, you prefer to cook and eat just for the sheer joy of it, you include them in your menus for their fresh juicy ability to whet jaded appetites, the appeal of their color, and the pleasant variety which their cool, firm texture offers.

Orange and Onion Sandwich Salad.

Allow four half-inch thick slices of orange for each serving and three thin slices of Bermuda onion. Arrange these in alternate, overlapping formation across a bed of shredded lettuce, and serve either with French dressing or a simple anointment of vinegar, salt, and black pepper.

Prune Orange Salad.

18 prunes, cooked.
1 cup cottage cheese, or ½ cup of peanut butter.

Arrange three orange slices in a circle on a bed of lettuce. On each slice place a pitted prune, which has been stuffed with either cottage cheese or peanut butter.

Orange Waldorf Salad.

2 cups diced unpeeled apples.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
½ cup diced celery.
1 cup diced oranges.
½ cup raisins or walnuts.

Marinate the diced apples in the lemon juice, combine with the other ingredients, and serve with mayonnaise.

Before we wander into the pleasant subject of "Oranges: Their Place in the American Dessert," let's digress to these pretty little biscuits. They're assured, in advance, of your approval, especially if you need an idea for something a bit out of the ordinary for a luncheon bread or for a tea party.

Orange Biscuits.

2 tablespoons shortening.
2 cups flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon grated orange rind.
¾ cup water.
20 sugar cubes.
Juice of 1 orange.
Powdered sugar and additional grated rind.

Blend the shortening with the sifted dry ingredients and grated orange rind. Mix with the water, roll, and cut into small circles about a half inch in thickness. Then moisten with the orange juice half as many sugar cubes as there are circles. Put one of these between each two biscuits, and glaze the top of each with a mixture of powdered sugar, orange juice, and a little additional grated rind. Bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 15 minutes.

Now to a particularly luscious pie, one that owes its rich smoothness and jiffy-quick preparation to sweetened condensed milk, and its fresh tempting flavor to oranges.

Orange Cream Pie.

1 1-3 cups sweetened condensed milk.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
¼ cup orange juice.
1 cup cut orange sections.
Baked pie shell.

Blend sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, orange juice, and stir until the mixture thickens. Add the drained orange sections, which have been freed from all traces of membrane and cut in half crosswise. Chill. Pour the mixture into the baked 8 inch pie shell, and again chill before serving. If desired, the pie may be topped with a meringue made from 2 egg whites and 2 tablespoons of granulated sugar, and browned in a moderate oven.

Treat Constipation
THE WAY THAT DOCTORS DO

Use A Liquid Laxative

Doctors and hospitals have always used liquid laxatives. So would you, if you knew how well they do their work—how much better you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Ask your doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly without any help.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never return to any form of help that does not encourage variation from the "fixed dose"—too often an overdose for sensitive persons, or young people! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit — even in children. Its action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. It's the ideal family laxative because it's a doctor's prescription, and safe.

Try Syrup Pepsin. Give regulated doses until Nature restores regularity. Those who have made the "liquid test" know why a doctor favors a liquid laxative.

Greek Statues Inspire Some New Coiffures

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you want to be away up in the front ranks on hairdressing style, it looks as if you will have to go museum shopping for suggestions. And keep to the statuary rooms. Study Apollo's head, Diana's. The head of the boy athlete. Minerva's ringlets, if she wore them. I'm not sure myself. But the idea is that the sculptured Greek head is the pattern after which to fashion your new coiffure.

It allows for more curls than you might think off hand. Tightly done, close to the head curls, leaving the head contour quite clear to the observer. Sometimes the curls run like a halo around the entire head. It's a tres chic coiffure season ahead, groomed within an inch of its life, and feminine as can be and still extremely classic in line.

All of which means disposing of fluffs over ears or pendant locks behind. They tell me that bangs will be forced back and flattened into this new coiffure line, with ears showing unashamed with another Grecian flavor to the coiffure in the effect one may bring down to date describing it as the effect of a small girl's hair tied back in a knot for her bath.

It looks like a truly devastating year ahead for the sex that's a worry to the other already, what with frocks of such diaphanous character and lovely feminine line as we haven't witnessed for a decade or more.

Why don't more of you lovelies resolve to go feminine with a vengeance this year? When you're choosing your spring wardrobe, think in terms of the sheer feminine. For instance, with your chic spring tailleur, instead of being so practically blue from head to foot, including purse and accessories, you might fasten on a pink hat, pink gloves, and a scarf of similar coloring. It needn't be pink, but pink or powder blue [a popular shade this year] or other pastel blues somehow lend the feminine note.

That's only a suggestion. You are smarter at that sort of thing than I am, I know. I'm only reminding you it is a grand year to go feminine with intent to slay with just those good old, irresistible feminine charms.

Fatigue Often Causes Child's Neurotic Ways

Many Mothers Overlook Importance of Sleep.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I just can't make him go to bed early," said a mother the other day of her 7 year old. "So he goes to bed when we go, but it doesn't seem to hurt him any. But I have actually to drag him out of bed in the morning in time for school."

Another complained, "Jane is so lazy—she doesn't want to do a thing to help me—she says she's tired." This of a 13 year old.

And a third and a fourth and a fifth report "lack of pep" and "lack of appetite" and "inability to concentrate," while many report nervousness and nervous habits.

Although all these symptoms may have various causes, it is also a fact that every one of them could be caused by fatigue. Not a tenth enough is written about the importance of rest, and not a hundredth enough importance is attached to it in the minds of parents.

Not nearly often enough does a mother say to herself, "Joan's had an exciting day today—I must get her to bed extra early," or, "Jack's still not entirely over that cold—I must see that he gets more sleep tonight," or, "Sam's growing so fast—he'll have to let his homework slide and turn in earlier," or, "Bess is keyed up over this change in schools—I'll have to tuck in a rest for her before supper for awhile."

We hear a lot about diet and sunshine and fresh air—which we should—but not enough about rest for the child. Dr. Douglas Thom of the behavior clinic of Boston has said that fatigue may be one of the beginning causes of neurotic traits in children. It is a statement that deserves much attention.

Those mothers who are at all alert to their children's ways have seen tiredness affect nerves, coördination, temper, and emotions generally. What more reasonable than to believe that chronic fatigue may result in nervousness, in nervous habits, and instability of emotions acute enough to make us consider a child neurotic?

We know what tiredness does to us—to our emotions, our courage, our relations with others, and our outlook on life, not to mention its affect on our bodies. How much more must it affect the child whose vitality is so largely drawn upon, not only by his activity, but by that tremendous process called growth.

Guard your child's sleep. It has more to do with his present and his future than you are apt to think.

RESCUE MISSION LEADER EXHORTS CLERGY TO SHOUT

Watch Down and Outers Worship, He Advises.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Those who wish to find out what religion is about were advised yesterday by the Rev. Peter McFarlane of St. Paul, Minn., to get the facts at a "down and outers' rescue mission," instead of at a church. He spoke before several hundred Protestant pastors at their regular monthly union ministers' meeting in the Central Y. M. C. A.

Moreover, the St. Paul minister, who is a noted rescue mission leader, said that conventional pastors again must learn how to shout, and to have something to shout about. "Too delicate," was the way he described most present day sermonizing, which, he asserted, "deals too much with social security and too little with eternal security."

Calls for Old Time Revivals.

"You cannot win people over to a belief in religion by just saying 'Christ was a great leader,'" declared the Rev. Mr. McFarlane, giving the assembled pastors an illustration of what he meant by shouting. "We need a few old-fashioned fiery revival meetings where people are told who God is and what real religion stands for."

The Rev. Mr. McFarlane, who is also president of the national federation of rescue missions, praised the work of Boy Scouts and similar social work conducted in connection with churches. But he warned the pastors that boys most in need of scouting advantages are denied them because of lack of funds.

The Origin of Criminals.

"It is from this underprivileged group that crooks and criminals come," the Rev. Mr. McFarlane pointed out. "If you want more hoodlums and kidnapers just deny these forgotten boys the opportunities you wish your own son to have."

The meeting yesterday was held under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation. It was developed, according to Dr. Joshua Oden, president of the federation, with a view of linking the churches more closely with rescue mission work.

MRS. WALKER ON STAND IN $100,000 ALIENATION SUIT

Mrs. Gertrude Reich Walker, 218 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, was called as a witness for the plaintiff yesterday in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against her by Mrs. Olive Hankel, 1600 Albion avenue, wife of Fred C. Hankel, orchestra leader. A jury is hearing the case before Judge Albert Crampton of Moline, sitting in Superior court here.

Mrs. Walker's appearance was under the new civil practice act which permits the plaintif to call the defendant as a witness. She denied much of the testimony of Arthur Wedde, 929 Wilson avenue, former private detective who had trailed Hankel. Wedde had told of trysts between Mrs. Walker and Hankel, including the orchestra leader's alleged visits to Mrs. Walker's room in the Sovereign hotel.

"There was never anything improper," Mrs. Walker said. "I was Mr. Hankel's secretary without pay. He would visit me on business, but we were never alone in my room together."

She admitted that she is not legally separated from her husband, Wirt D. Walker, vice president of the Arcady Farms Milling company, who, she said, gives her an allowance of $200 a month although they live apart.

"JUST A BOOB," BARRY PLEADS TO FRAUD JURY

Bank Plot Surprise to Him, He Says.

tavern at 112 West Madison street. He signed all checks in blank and did not know what they were used for.

The defendant, whose hair is thinning out rapidly, put his horn rimmed spectacles on and off frequently. He used the lether glass case as a baton while he testified. Once or twice he dropped the case on the floor and this appeared to startle him. His lips twitched constantly so that he was frequently baring his teeth to the jury. He was dressed in a dark gray suit, set off with a reddish colored tie.

After proudly telling the jury that he fought Joe Gans twice, he recalled his last fight with a sickly grin.

"It was with Jimmy Clabby in New Orleans," he said. "I remember it very well. I was beaten so decisively that it convinced me I better quit the ring," he said. He then told of how he studied medicine at Northwestern university, but did not complete his course.

After the City State bank closed in 1930 with "all his working capital in it," Barry declared he had to give up a gymnasium he was operating and look for a job. At last, he said, he received a telephone call from Policeman Joe Leonardi, who introduced him to Balata. Balata was running the Madison street tavern under the name of "The Pub." Barry entered into a contract with Balata to manage the tavern at $50 a week, he said, but his name was promptly put on the window.

"I worked from 11 in the morning to after midnight," said Barry in describing his duties as a tavern manager. "I solicited the patronage of my friends. My job was to create good will and build up the business."

Q.—Did you have anything to do with the purchasing of supplies or operation of the tavern except as you have related? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you ever meet a young man named Van Derck? A.—I met a young man I now know as Van Derck. Let me explain about that.

Q.—Tell us the circumstances? A.—I was in the tavern when Balata called me over. He said, "Dave, I want you to meet Van." He said, "This is the young man from the bank, who does some favors for me." He said, "I want you to treat him nicely," and I said, "You can depend on that."

At this point in the trial, Barry started to grow chummy with his lawyer, by referring to him as "Bill." He constantly kept saying, "Bill, it was like this," and then proceeding to tell of how he had been "made a sucker" by Balata.

Barry testified that after July, 1934, he spent little time at the tavern and was at A Century of Progress Exposition, looking after the concession known as the "Garden of Champions." A concession known as the Hall of Champions, he said, lasted only one day, because of a poor location.

"The tavern was on my way to the Fair," testified Barry. "I would stop there in the morning and sign blank checks for Balata and then go on to the Fair."

Barry then told how he saved paying a second street carfare each day by keeping a transfer while he hurried into the tavern to sign the necessary checks, before the transfer time was up.

The referee ended his testimony for the day by admitting that Van Derck was a frequent visitor at the tavern, but he said, he invariably sought the company of Balata. The first he knew of the banking trouble, Barry said, was when he was apprised of it by newspaper reporters. He hurried to his lawyer, he said, and then to the state's attorney's office.

Cross-examination of Barry will start this morning. Judge Feinberg will hold court despite the fact that it is election day.

HERO OF WORLD WAR CONVICTED OF AUTO THEFT

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A jury in federal District court today convicted a hero of the world war of transporting two stolen automobiles from Chicago to Oklahoma City.

Testimony disclosed that Charles Wentworth George Lemoyne Fitzwilliams, 46, a native of Texas, pursued mining ventures all over the world, joined the British army in 1914, and that when he was discharged honorably in 1916 he had been decorated by five countries.

Frank Evans, a young Chicago garage owner from whom Fitzwilliams maintained he bought the cars, pleaded guilty and was a government witness.

P. D. EDMUNDS TO SPEAK.

Iowa Triumphs Over Michigan.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Turning on a dazzling attack, Indiana university's basketball team upset Purdue, defending champion of the Big Ten, 41 to 35, and went into a three way tie with the Boilermakers and Illinois for second place in the conference race tonight. A capacity crowd of 7,000 saw the battle.

Fred Fechtman, center, and Willard Kehrt, floor guard, led the Hoosier attack, each scoring five field goals and two free throws. Fechtman left the game on personal fouls eight minutes before the final gun.

Kessler Has Big Night.

Bob Kessler, Purdue scoring ace, who made 23 points last week when the Boilermakers whipped Indiana at Lafayette, again had a big evening. He connected six times from the field and added a free throw for 13 points.

After leading at the half, 20 to 18, Indiana's hard drive built up a 29 to 18 lead after five minutes of second half play. The Hoosiers were leading, 37 to 28, when Fechtman was forced from the contest. At this point Kessler led a Purdue rally which threatened to overtake Indiana, scoring seven points in quick succession to make the count 39 to 35. Indiana made its last two points on free throws by Kehrt and Walker.

Purdue Tries Everything.

Purdue substituted freely in the closing minutes in a desperate attempt to find a winning scoring punch. Indiana sent in one reserve, Hosler replacing Fechtman.

Avenging last week's loss to Purdue, Indiana turned in its seventh victory in ten conference games. It was Purdue's third setback in ten contests. Illinois' victory over Chicago sent the Illini into the tie for second place.

ILLINOIS, 39; CHICAGO, 29

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Illinois tonight built up a 24 to 5 first half lead on the University of Chicago, and then coasted on to a 39 to 29 Big Ten triumph with ten reserves playing at various times in the second period.

Bill Haarlow added 17 points to his Big Ten total, all but two of which were scored in the second half. His one-handed field goal in the first was the only Maroon basket. Wib Henry, sophomore guard, covered Haarlow in this period.

Haarlow dropped in three baskets in the second half, and made good on nine free throws in nine attempts. Bob Riegel, Illinois sophomore center, acounted for 12 points, but did not play the second half.

At the start of the second period, Henry was the only Illinois regular left, and the Illini offense was slowed to a walk.

IOWA, 37; MICHIGAN, 25

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Iowa, which had lost six consecutive conference games, proved definitly that Michigan is the poorest basketball team in the Big Ten by handing the Wolverines a 37 to 25 lacing here tonight. The score was 15 to 15 at half time, but Michigan went back to its old habit of passing the ball to opponents, and the rest of the contest was a rout.

In the second half the visitors held Michigan to four baskets and crashed the Wolverine defense for nine field goals themselves.

Barko counted five baskets for Iowa, while Grim had four. Blackmer made two field goals and four free throws out of five attempts. Gee, Rudness and Evans scored Michigan's points in the first half, and thereafter failed to come close. Lineups:

CUB PARTY OF 28 HEADS WEST FOR CATALINA ISLAND

White Sox Contingent to Depart Tonight.

The Cubs and party, 28 folks in all, last evening headed westward from the Dearborn station, just a little more zestful than usual in the deliverance of that old getaway cantata, "California, Here I Come." The way the wind was whistling through the sheds as the train pulled out at 9:15 o'clock may have had something to do with the verve of the hymnsters.

The departing National leaguers, too, had a laugh on the city champions, those snorting White Sox, not only because the Sox faced a promised near zero wave today before taking off for Pasadena tonight, but also because the Cubs' train will take them southward, whereas the Sox, on a northern route, will have to look snow in the face for about 60 hours.

Half of the Cub party was composed of athletes, the other half, club attaches, journalists, fans and brides who went for the ride. The athletes included various types of performers.

Durham Is Ailing Again.

The customary White Sox luck made its appearance just about the time President Lou Comiskey expressed himself as well satisfied with all preliminary arrangements. The luck, or rather the lack of luck, made itself evident with the arrival of a letter from Pitcher Ed Durham, who has spent almost a year at his Chester, S. C., home trying to overcome muscular difficulties in his pitching arm.

The letter brought news that Durham, instead of being a candidate for a regular starting job with the Pale Hose staf, had developed appendicitis complications. An operation may be necessary, and then again he may recover without the assistance of the surgeon's knife. In any event, the presence of the hook worm may reduce the possible services of the Carolinian to a minimum.

The following will be in the Sox party when the limited pulls out this evening at 9:35 o'clock from the North Western terminal: Sam Jones, Ray Phelps, Whitlow Wyatt, George Earnshaw, J. Dungan Rigney, Leslie Tietje, John Casey, George Caithamer, John Michaels, Luke Sewell, John Conlan, Al Simmons, and Coach Billy Webb.

Pick Up Coach Ruel Tomorrow.

Pitcher Vernon Kennedy and Coach Muddy Ruel will hop aboard when the Sox train reaches Omaha tomorrow morning.

Manager Jim Dykes, Outfielder Mule Haas, Pitcher Ted Lyons, and Catcher Mervyn Shea already are in camp. Other members of the battery squad will be there by Friday, when actual work gets under way. The full squad will not be complete until March 8, and even by that date Zeke Bonura, the lone holdout, may be missing.

The Cubs, out of Chicago a day ahead of the Sox, will launch their formal exhibition season two days ahead of Lou Comiskey's lads. After two weeks of training on Catalina island, the Cubs will sail to the mainland and on March 14 will open their exhibition season at Wrigley field, Los Angeles, in a contest with the Pittsburgh Pirates, who will go to Los Angeles from their new training base at San Bernardino, Cal. The Cubs and Pirates also will play in Los Angeles on March 15.

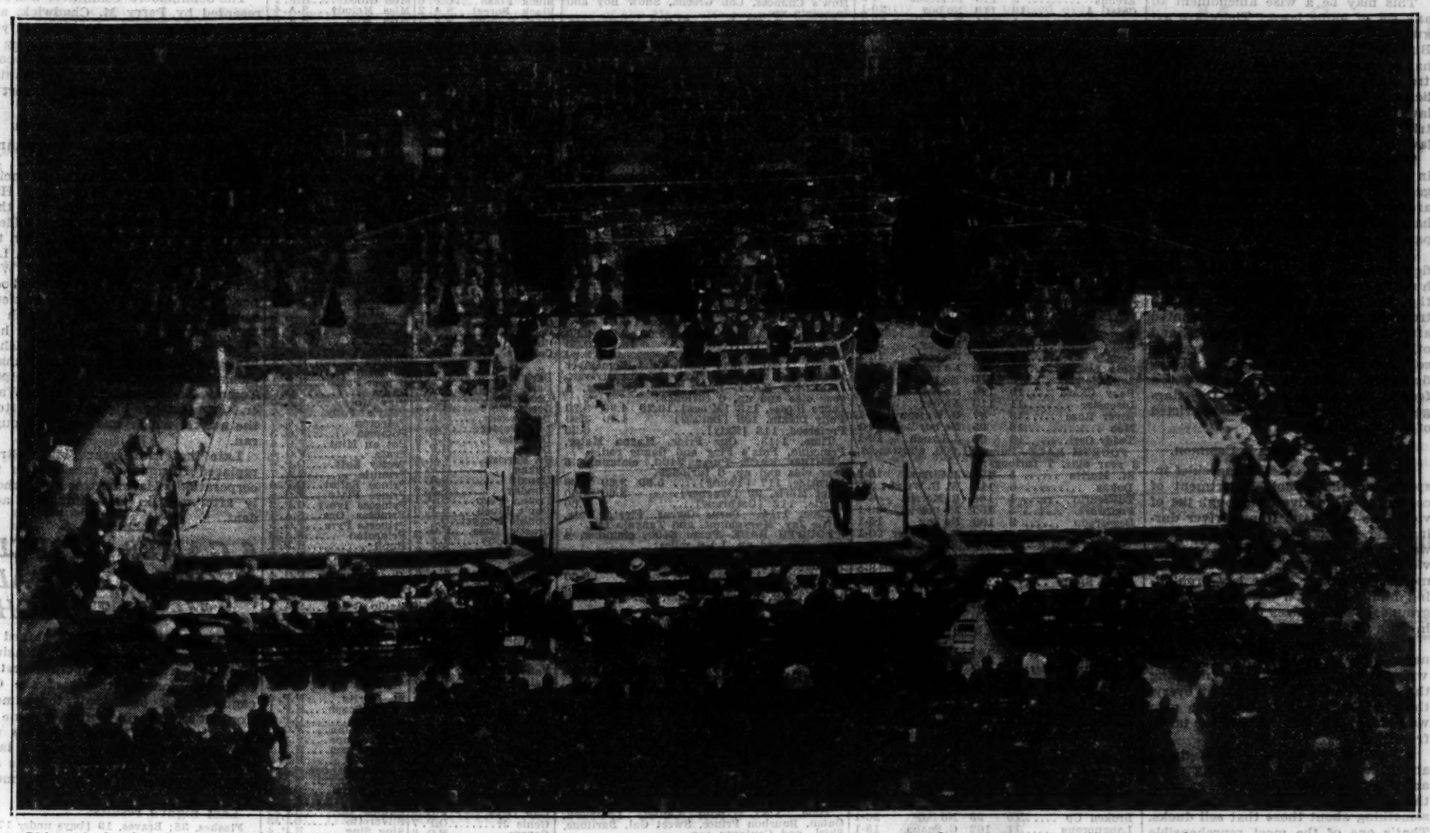
CHICAGO CHEERS AT FIRST THREE RING BOXING SHOW



Chicago's boxing fans see action in three rings as Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions opens at the Stadium last night with well over 100 bouts on the program. Tonight there will be 111 fights in two rings as the boys keep on weeding each other out in the great Chicagoland meet.

Norris Group Given Control of Stadium

The $5,000,000 Chicago Stadium, world's largest indoor sports arena, yesterday passed into the control of James Norris Sr., millionaire Chicago grain broker, by order of Judge James H. Wilkerson in the United States District court. Included among the associates of Norris, who controls the Olympia in Detroit and the Arena in St. Louis in addition to owning the Detroit Red Wings professional hocky team, are his son, James Norris Jr., and Arthur M. Wirtz, real estate operator.

Judge Wilkerson passed on the plan, formulated last summer to take the Stadium out of the receivership in which it was placed Jan. 20, 1933, after a number of postponements. Under the plan Norris and his son and Wirtz must put up $300,000, of which $150,000 will be used to pay off back taxes, $50,000 will be expended for reorganization expenses, and the balance will be utilized as an operating fund.

Will Receive New Bonds.

In return for their investment the new group will receive new first mortgage bonds in addition to the controlling interest of the west side arena. First mortgage bonds now outstanding to the amount of $1,679,000 will be converted into second mortgage bonds of equal face value.

No provision was made for owners of stock. Among the 220 stockholders are such notables in the social, business, industrial, and sporting world as Vincent Bendix, Daniel A. Gilbert, Leo Adler, James B. Bowler, Britton I. Budd, F. Couthoul, the late Timothy J. Crowe, Cyrus McCormick Jr., Harold F. McCormick, Frederick McLaughlin, John J. Mitchell, Julius Rosenwald, Clement Studebaker Jr., Sidney W. and Harold C. Strotz, P. K. Wrigley, Elmer F. Wieboldt, and Werner A. Wieboldt.

Mullen, Lewis Remain.

About $2,000,000 in common and preferred stock was issued by the old company, of which the late Paddy Harmon and then Sidney Strotz were president. The stock now apparently is worthless. It is understood the senior Norris will be elected president of the new company, but active management of the Stadium will be in the hands of Wirtz and Norris' son.

From all indications James C. Mullen

Marty Simmons Stops Jacobs in 1st Round

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Marty Simmons of McKeesport, Pa., scored a technical knockout over Harry Jacobs of Pittsburgh after 2 minutes and 10 seconds of fighting in the first round tonight.

26 Private Wires Carry News of Golden Gloves Bouts to World

Fifty sport writers from the newspapers which sponsored teams in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves tournament were at the ringside last night. It was the largest representation of visiting scribes in the history of the tournament. Over twenty-six leased wires were provided by the Western Union and Postal Telegraph.

The University of Illinois contingent has high hopes of going places in its first year in the tournament. The Illini have several strong contenders. Chris Chibucos, 135 pounder, entered the Tournament of Champions last year as a member of the Danville team and lost a hairline decision to Frank Bojack, eventual tournament champion. J. Philip Durham, 126 pounder, is a Phi Sigma Kappa at Illinois.

The Nashville, Tenn., team has representatives from four southern states among its personnel. They are from Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, and Florida. The southern contingent expects great things from its squad. Prominent among the boys on this year's squad is Percy Allen, welterweight, who lost to Champion Danny Farrar of Cleveland in the Tournament of Champions last year.

Paul Prehn, former chairman of the Illinois state boxing commission, is coach and manager of the University of Illinois boxers, who are making their first appearance in the Tournament of Champions. Paul is the big restaurant entrepeneur in Champaign and still retains his interest in the boxing game.

Many of the boys on the out of town teams are making their first visit to Chicago and are spending most of their leisure moments touring the city. Harold Thompson, 135 pounder on the Chillicothe, Mo., team, was a wide-eyed youngster as his coach, Bob Murrell, piloted his auto down Michigan boulevard.

Tommy Barry, National A. A. U. champion at 112 pounds and the 1934 New York-Chicago winner at 118 pounds, is back as the Springfield State Register's bantamweight this year. One of his teammates is 254 pound Abe Feduris of Illinois college, who doubles in football to the extent that he has been an all-state line selection for two years. The Springfield team is quartered at the Medinah club for the third straight year and is in charge of Frank Weir, the State Register's sports editor.

Chuck Holderby, flyweight on the Danville team, is making his fourth trip to the Tournament of Champions. He represented Danvilleland in 1932 and 1934, and was a member of the Springfield team in 1933. Earl [Mickey] McMahon, fighting coal miner and welterweight champion at Danville, was injured in a mine accident last week and will be unable to box for some time. George Dion will pinch hit for him on the Danville team.

Tommy Morris, Grand Rapids featherweight, is a full blooded Mohawk Indian. He has been boxing for two years and is making his first visit to the Tournament of Champions.

Ben Finnerty is the lightest, but tallest member of the Omaha World-Herald team. Ben weighs 112 pounds and is 6 feet tall. This is his second bid for a place on the Chicago team.

Cleveland has high hopes for its heavyweight, Joe Malinky. Joe competed in the Tournament of Champions two years ago.

BY FRENCH LANE.

An uproarious crowd greeted the opening of THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium last night.

It was uproarious because never before in Chicago has any crowd looked at three fights going on simultaneously in three rings. There was something about it reminiscent of national convention days.

There was the delegation from Indiana rooting for the kids from Kokomo, Fort Wayne, and other Hoosier cities. The delegation from Wisconsin was screaming "That's our boy from Wisconsin Rapids you're punching around that ring; be careful!" A boxer in red trunks beamed happily as he heard wafted from the balcony, "Three cheers and a tiger for Peoria!"

All Have Their Backers.

Wild shouts went up at the appearance in any one of the rings of the color bearers from Nebraska, Iowa, Ohio, Tennessee, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, and other states.

It was a friendly crowd, here to cheer along the home town warriors and thus put their city and state in the limelight. Chicago's boys were not neglected. Those west siders and south siders rooted just as raucously at each other as if they had been from different cities.

Very rarely on the entire night's program did the crowd see a fight that wasn't interesting. The lads who were fighting on this record smashing program had proved their worth before they came to Chicago. Each was a champion from his own particular territory.

What a Fight! What a Fight!

Standing out in this maelstrom of flying gloves while 152 battles were decided was a clash between Johnny Brown, Chicago newsboy who is the Catholic Youth Organization bantamweight champion, and Donald Born, a rough, tough, smiling kid who hails from the coal mining territory around Centralia, Ill.

Brown, one of the greatest amateur boxers in America, carried the stronger punch and that's the reason he was victorious.

They came together like a couple of express trains in a head-on collision in the center of the ring as the first round opened. They squared away and tossed punches at each other from the time the first bell tapped until the round ended.

Any instant it looked as if one or the other of them would go down.

But neither went down.

Born Can Take It.

The second round opened. Twice in quick succession Brown floored the youngster from the coal mines with mighty rights to the chin. Born wouldn't stay down. To the amazement of the crowd he came up on each occasion before the referee could start counting.

A broad smile spread over his face. He was enjoying this fight to the fullest. Toward the end of the round he went down again, but he was up before the count was started. Then he took a terrific right and left to the chin just in order that he could send Brown spinning with one of his own rights.

Those knockdown punches had put Brown far in front. Born knew it

III BOUTS—2 RINGS

That's tonight's program at the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions as the best boxers in 11 states swing into the second night of competition.

If you were on hand at the Stadium last night you'll be back for more tonight. And if you missed last night's great card, don't let it happen again.

Tickets are 25 cents, 40 cents, 66 cents and $1.10. The 25 cents seats—7,000 of them—are unreserved and will go on sale at gates 1, 3 and 5 of the Stadium tonight at 6 o'clock. The other tickets will be available at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, at Tribune Tower, and at the Stadium beginning at 10 a. m.

Tickets for the finals March 8 at the Stadium, at 55 cents, $1.10, $1.65, and $2.20, are also on sale over the counter or may be ordered by mail. Send check or money order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

PICK DICKERSON FOR WASHINGTON PARK'S STARTER

Also in Line for Arlington Position Again.

Roy Dickerson has been appointed starter for the Washington Park race track, according to a statement made by President John P. Harding of the new Washington Park Jocky club yesterday.

Now serving in the same capacity at the new Santa Anita race course near Los Angeles, Dickerson will arrive after the close of the California season to take up his duties at the Homewood course. He is also slated to be in the starter's stand at Arlington Park here, General Manager Roy Carruthers of that track announces, and will likely go to Detroit for the fall meeting there.

Western Debut at Arlington.

Although not well known in the west until a few years ago, due to the fact that he made his reputation on the New York tracks as an assistant under Mars Cassidy, the burly Dickerson has taken rank as one of the foremost starters since his western debut at Arlington in 1929. Last season was such a busy year for him that he was forced to do thousands of miles of aerial commuting to fill his schedule. He has served at such widely separated race courses as Arlington Park here, the Fair Grounds in New Orleans, the Fair Grounds in Detroit, Bay Meadows and Tanforan near San Francisco, and Santa Anita at Los Angeles.

As an assistant starter in his early days on the ground, Dickerson was known as one of the most able men in America when it came to making unruly thoroughbreds behave.

Knows All Their Tricks.

Roy Dickerson has a vast fund of first hand knowledge concerning the individual peculiarities of the horses that have come under his supervision. Dickerson's "Little Black Book" is famous on the turf. In it he has listed the idiosyncrasies of every horse that has ever faced a barrier under him, along with a notation as to just how the horse should be handled at the post to secure the best results. Daily during the progress of any meeting at which he is employed Dickerson is to be seen checking the next day's entries against the notes in his book and noting down alongside each horse's name the instructions for the member of his ground crew who is to handle the horse in question.

Like most good starters, he gives much of the credit for his success to the members of his ground crew, most of whom have been in his employ for years.

"I keep six men in my ground crew," he explains. "Five in front of the starting gate and one in the hospital. We don't need a compulsory five day week in the starting business; bad post actors keep one or another of my assistants out of action most of the time."

HANDICAP FAN RUN DOWN BY WAR OVER DIES

Monrovia, Cal., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Normal E. Ulm, 48 year old race fan, died in Monrovia hospital today of injuries received at Santa Anita park last Saturday when he was knocked down by the horse, War Over. Ulm's chest was crushed. An operation failed to save him. His home was in San Diego.

Ulm ran across the track from the infield to a section of high priced seats and stepped in front of War Over, a poor last in a field of nine.

Jocky Anton Pendergrass was dislodged by the impact, but suffered only minor injuries. An inquest will be held in Ulm's death on Wednesday.

FRISCH BELIEVES HIS CARDINALS WILL WIN AGAIN

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, in the opinion of Manager Frankie Frisch, have a good chance to repeat their performance this year if the players can avoid a general attack of "title-itis."

"That is our greatest danger," the Redbird leader said today. "Every team that wins a pennant is exposed, and of course when you go ahead and win the world series, it's worse than a double exposure. If that doesn't get us, I like our chances for another pennant."

GOLDEN MILLER STILL FAVORED IN STEEPLECHASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, England, Feb. 25.—Golden Miller, owned by Dorothy Paget, still is the favorite at 4 to 1 to win the Grand National steeplechase, which will be run at Aintree March 29, odds showed today. Golden Miller won the event last year.

Thomond, owned by J. H. [Jock] Whitney, American sportsman, remained as second choice at 15 to 2. Another American-owned horse, J. B. Snow's Delaneige, was at 100 to 8.

TABLE TENNIS STARS TO OPEN MEET THIS WEEK

Leading table tennis stars of the state will assemble at Patten gymnasium Friday and Saturday for the Illinois State Championships. The tournament which will determine the 1935 champions in the singles and doubles for men, women, and juniors, is expected to attract a record entry. Players desiring to enter are requested to file entry at the Northwestern university ticket office in Evanston not later than Thursday.

Humery Defeats Berg in Ten Round Bout

PARIS, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Gustave Humery, French lightweight boxer, tonight defeated Jack [Kid] Berg of England, in a 10 round bout tonight. Humery weighed 135 pounds and Berg 134.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—DELAYED PUNCH

Michigan May Make Change in Game Law

BY BOB BECKER.

Michigan is considering the use of another method to reduce the number of violators of the game and fish code—one that may prove of value to other states. The legislature is weighing the advisability of amending the laws to read that any fisherman or small game hunter who breaks the law will be deprived of the right to buy a license for one year.

This plan is patterned after a provision which bans a deer hunting license for three years, in case a hunter has violated the law.

Publicity Is Good Weapon.

This may be a wise amendment to any set of game laws. There are arguments to be made for both sides. But every department of conservation has a constant weapon that can be trained against violators. That is publicity. Wisconsin prints a list of game law violators, giving names of parties tried and what they did to break the law.

This ought to be a valuable system in any section of the country, because game law violators [especially if they are responsible people] do not like to have their operations printed in newspapers.

Illinois wardens, who were in the field during the recent waterfowl hunting season picking up violators of the law, report they had enough troubles getting shooters who hunted after 3 o'clock on baited premises, and others without duck stamps or who sold ducks, but the climax of all difficulties in convicting violators was a federal judge who imposed the staggering fine of $5 on a man convicted of selling ducks!

Hunting After Hours Is Common.

We asked Pete Eric, acting chief inspector of the Illinois department of conservation, to give us a rough list of violations along the Illinois river during the duck season because we wanted to find out the most common violation. In this list we noticed numerous violations of the law prohibiting hunting after 3 o'clock on baited grounds. These cases usually resulted in fines of $25 or $35.

Then there was the item giving the name of a day shooter, after which was the word "everything," meaning the party had done just about everything he ought not to do. This man was closed up and his license taken from him.

All of us who like to hunt ducks and hope to continue in coming years are apt to complain from one year to the other that wardens ought to do something about those that sell ducks. That's one of the most reprehensible leaks in our duck supply. But it looks to us as if the rank and file of duck shooters have some responsibility here.

Warden Does His Part.

If a warden takes a duck seller into a court and can get only a $5 fine from the judge, he certainly has done his part. But we haven't done ours until the court is educated to suitable action in this fight to stamp out the bootlegging of wild ducks. When a bootlegger can get $1 per mallard, why should he be discouraged when a federal judge fines him $5?

WESTERN STATE NINE TO PLAY 11 BIG TEN GAMES

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 25. — [Special.]—Eleven games with Western conference teams and home and home contests with Michigan State college and Notre Dame are included on the schedule of the Western State Teachers college baseball team this spring, it was announced by Coach Jud Hyames.

GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTERS START TITLE BATTLES

111 More Bouts Tonight at Stadium.

and tried all through the last round to put the C. Y. O. champion down and out. His crashing punches missed narrowly. He was on his feet fighting with great spirit as the battle ended. Even in defeat he was the hero of the first nighters.

Patsy Urso, intercity champion last year, who is fighting as a member of the Detroit team, won two brilliant victories. He tuned up his old "Mary Anne" in his second engagement and knocked out Joe Smith of Vincennes in two rounds.

Patsy's brother Jimmy, who is also a flyweight and who is a member of the Grand Rapids team, rolled up two triumphs. Both came on decisions. The Urso kids can surely scrap. The fans were not ready at midnight last night to come to a conclusion as to which is the better fighter.

Cleveland Again Strong.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer team served notice that it is out to repeat last year's triumph for the team trophy. The first six Cleveland boxers to climb through the ropes scored victories. Two of the triumphant Cleveland gladiators were Jesse Levels, flyweight, and Troy Bellini, bantamweight, who carried away diamond studded Golden Glove championship emblems last year.

Detroit Free Press boxers also made a powerful showing, winning four of their first five bouts. The Omaha World-Herald team created a sensation. Four of the first five lads from out where the west begins knocked the stuffing out of their foes.

The Nashville Tennessean boxers, the best in all Dixie land, marched into the stadium and won three of their first five bouts. Peoria, Quincy, Vincennes and Fort Wayne teams made surprising showings.

McHugh Loses to Wyatt.

Another exciting battle was between Frank McHugh, the Catholic Youth Organization welterweight champion, and King Wyatt, Fort Wayne taxicab driver.

McHugh took a lead in the first round and held his own in the second, but Wyatt rallied so stoutly in the third that he pulled the fight out of the fire and won the decision by a margin of but a couple of points.

The little fellows held the center of the stage. They engaged in battles which kept the crowd in a wild state of excitement from 7 o'clock until midnight.

Tonight the big boys start throwing rights and lefts and in addition eight novice championship battles will be staged. The program calls for 111 bouts in two rings. They will start at 7 o'clock. It will be close to midnight before the program ends.

The prices will be the same. They range from 25 cents to $1.10 and there are 7,000 of those two-bit seats on sale.

Close Call for Nettlow.

Al Nettlow of Detroit had a narrow escape in his second struggle. George Latka, from the steel mills out in Gary, was his foe. It was a stirring battle from start to finish. Half of the crowd thought the Gary kid won. The other half cheered for Nettlow. The judges and referee gave the nod to Nettlow in one of the closest battles of the night.

The Cleveland team won ten straight bouts, Detroit won seven out of nine, and the Catholic Youth Organization's team of champions won seven out of nine.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

AMONG many interesting facts revealed in the National league's new green book is an item that Dizzy Dean has beaten the Boston Braves only twice in championship games. . . . Two wins in nine games is Dean's record, as contrasted to Lon Warneke's record of ten wins and two losses against the same club. . . . Big Ten statisticians claim that no team ever has intercepted a Michigan forward pass and run it back for a touchdown. . . . Ettore Antonini and Ralph Schilwaski, regular ends on Indiana's 1934 eleven, are scholastically ineligible for next year's squad. . . . The highest score compiled in a Big Six conference basketball game was Nebraska's 52 to 50 victory over Iowa State in 1930. . . . Jack Hayes, frail looking White Sox second baseman, regularly drives solo the 800 miles between Chicago and his home in Clanton, Ala., without stopping to sleep. . . . Among the prominent midwest athletic leaders who are expected to attend the Golden Gloves bouts at Chicago Stadium tonight are Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, Ossie Solem of Iowa, Dr. Walter Meanwell of Wisconsin, Lynn Waldorf and Kenneth L. Wilson of Northwestern, and Noble Kizer of Purdue. . . . Detroit and Boston professional football teams are trying to sign George Sauer, former Nebraska full back who last year was named co-captain of the College All-Americans who played the Bears at Soldiers' field. . . .

Since W. J. Duford, former Marquette athlete, began coaching basketball at St. Ambrose college of Davenport, Ia., four years ago the team hasn't lost a home game. . . . Duford was star of the Marquette team that defeated Wisconsin, 9 to 8, several years ago in one of the greatest defensive basketball games of all time. . . . For the first time since the Bradleys took over the club every member of the Cleveland Indians this year was signed before spring practice. . . . Harry Rice, veteran outfielder, wants to play third base for San Francisco. . . . Wally Fromhart, Notre Dame's varsity quarter back, says that his brother, Fred, and Frank Warner of Moundsville, W. Va., are planning to enter Notre Dame. . . . Warner is 6 feet 5 inches tall and was all-West Virginia basketball and football center. . . .

George Cronin of Chicago, having observed in this column a list of great players coached at one time or another by Connie Mack, suggests the following All-Athletics lineup: Pitchers, Rube Waddell and Jack Coombs; catcher, Wally Schang; first base, Jimmy Foxx; second base, Napoleon Lajoie; shortstop, Jack Barry; third base, Jimmy Dykes; left field, Joe Jackson; center field, Tris Speaker; right field, Ty Cobb. . . . Can you think of a stronger one? . . . Northwestern's tug o' war team won the championship of the northwest for ten years starting in 1893. . . . The American league's barnstorming players found it necessary to warm up on a rice wine in some parts of Japan where it was cold. . . . They grew so tired of signing their names to balls, kimonos, programs, etc., they finally decided to sign only their first names. . . . The Japanese didn't know the difference. . . . Ralph Jones, athletic director of Lake Forest and former coach of the Bears, has lost all his hair except a rim on the sides. . . . Members of the varsity teams have nicknamed him Curley. . . .

John Mullins of Western State Teachers college, Kalamazoo, Mich., lowered the Yost fieldhouse record for the 65 yard low hurdles to 7.1 seconds in the recent Michigan A. A. U. meet. . . . For the first time in several years the Texas league is free of debt. . . . The gift automobile presented to Schoolboy Rowe by Detroit fans last summer recently was stolen. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Eric Hagenlacher knocked Willie Hoppe from first place in the world 18.2 balk line tournament by defeating the champion, 400 to 299. . . . Swede Risberg settled his $203,000 suit against Charles Comiskey for $400. . . .

Hawks Send Two Cripples Away to Work

Chicago's Blackhawks face several days of enforced rest this week as other activities in the Stadium, their headquarters, necessitate removal of the ice and leave the world's champions without a place to practice. The next game on the Hawks schedule is Thursday against the Red Wings at Detroit. It is possible that the team will be taken to Detroit tonight to enable the men to loosen up on the ice there tomorrow.

Original National league schedules called for a game with the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight, but the contest was played earlier in the season.

Sunday's 6 to 1 victory over the pestiferous Montreal Maroons left the Hawks in a jubilant mood. Particularly were they pleased over their offensive accomplishments. Last year the team, which won the world's title and Stanley cup, scored 88 goals in 48 games. This mark was surpassed with Sunday night's six goals against the Maroons and the Hawks now have a record of 91 goals in 40 games, with eight regularly scheduled contests yet to be played.

AL BOROS STOPS MASSARE IN 4TH ROUNDAT NEWARK

Newark, N. J., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A right hand smash over the left eye enabled Al Boros of Bridgeport, Conn., to score a technical knockout over Charlie Massar, Pittsburgh heavyweight, in the fourth round of their bout tonight.

Massare outfought Boros through the first three rounds by his consistent body punching and was ahead in the fourth until Boros landed. The blow failed to knock down Massare but it opened such a deep cut over his eye that a physician advised the referee to stop the fight.

Risko Wins 10 Round Decision Over Pirrone

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Ed [Babe] Risko, Syracuse middleweight, won a ten round decision over Paul Pirrone of Cleveland, tonight.

Hooded Bandits Rob Foursome on Miami Links

Miami, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—A foursome playing the Miami Country club course today encountered a hazard not provided for in golf's rules—two white hooded bandits who took $146.

It was on the thirteenth tee that the bandits, flourishing pistols, confronted R. J. Mensel, Wawasee, Ind., and Stuart Gorman and Ralph G. Owens, Utica, N. Y., and Arthur W. Wentzel, Miami.

Gorman lost $20, Owens $10, Wentzel $16, and Mensel, who managed to split his money, $100 and a check.

Ruth Decides to Play a Few More Seasons

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth announced at Greycourt, N. Y., today that he has definitly decided to play baseball because his recent trip to Japan convinced him he is good for several more seasons. He said an announcement on his future probably will be forthcoming within a day or two.

Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees, declared he would have something "very important" to announce tomorrow at 11 o'clock. Barrow admitted he had contacted Ruth by telephone before the veteran departed for a hunting trip upstate last Sunday afternoon, the first contact between Ruth and the Yankees since the Babe returned from his world tour last Wednesday.

Ruth's remarks concerning his own future were made at an experimental agricultural colony set up in Orange county by William Hodson, commissioner of the department of public welfare.

Cancela Wins from Berkie in 12 Rounds

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Tony Cancela, 190, Tampa, won a close decision tonight over Hans Berkie, 195½, Germany, in a rough 12 round fight.

HAGEN'S MAGIC RETURNS; WINS FLORIDA OPEN

Veteran Scores 1st Victory in Two Years.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Walter Hagen won the Gasparilla open at Palma Ceia today. It was the veteran's first tournament victory in two years. He received $700.

Five down to par and needing a couple of birdies to remain in the running as he finished the sixteenth hole of the final round, Hagen played the last two holes under par and posted a 280, even par for the 72 holes. He was one stroke ahead of the field. His card read 64—71—72—73—280.

Clarence Clark, towering, curly haired pro from Bloomfield, N. J., posted a 281 a few minutes before Hagen stepped upon the No. 17 tee, and it appeared as if Hagen's cause was lost.

Hagen Reaches Heights.

It still seemed hopeless after his drive, an arching dew drop, but it came to rest 45 feet from the pin. Nonchalantly the 42 year old campaigner strode up to his ball, hit it crisply, and it rolled straight into the cup.

The final hole was even more dramatic. Hagen's tee shot carried about 230 yards. His second, however, bounced over a tree and rolled into a bunker. He chipped out beautifully, his ball stopping just three feet from the pin, and he holed out in four.

Ky Laffoon of Chicago, the only player given a chance to beat Hagen, needed a pair of birdies on the last four holes to tie, three to win. He lost his chance with three putts on the fifteenth green and a 12 foot putt on the sixteenth, after his drive to the latter hole had hit a spectator on the head and bounced onto the green. This last mistake gave Clark second place with 69—71—69—72—281. Laffoon finished third with 71—70—71—70—282.

McSpaden in Tie.

Tied for fourth place with 283 were Harold McSpaden of Kansas City, Billie Burke of Belleair, Fla., and Gene Kunes of Hollywood, Fla. Denny Shute of Philadelphia, former British open champion and winner of the last two Gasparilla opens, finished in a tie with Leo Mallory of Noroton, Conn., for eighth place at 288.

George Bolesta, 17 year old Tampa youngster, carried off the amateur prize with a card of 72—68—74—72—286, the lowest ever recorded by an amateur in the Gasparilla. Other scores included:

Bob Stupple, Glencoe, Ill., 143—76—40—38—297.
Pete Henry, Chicago, 151—78—39—43—82—312.
Jim Noonan, Chicago, 151—77—35—40—75—303.

Fine Havana and Domestic long-filler
The finest Imported Sumatra Wrapper
Mildness that has flavor and pleasing taste
A guaranteed former 10c cigar for 5c
Today—the largest-selling cigar in America

What other cigar is so sure to please you?

If the cigar you now smoke doesn't check—in all of the above particulars—try this simple experiment.

Light a Bayuk PHILLIES—and smoke it leisurely. You'll notice a mildness that has flavor and pleasing taste. That's the MELLOW flavor that makes PHILLIES the choice of more men than any other cigar.

This distinctive mellow flavor comes from a blend of fine long-filler Havana and Domestic tobaccos . . the same quality . . the same quantity . . as when PHILLIES was America's largest-selling 10c brand. No tobaccos ordinarily used in 5c cigars could give this mellow flavor.

What other cigar offers you such certainty of pleasing your taste?

BAYUK'S GUARANTEE

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

Bayuk guarantees that this cigar today—at 5 cents—contains the same fine Imported Sumatra wrapper—the same fine ripe Domestic and Havana long-filler. It's the same identical cigar.

MRS. JULIA HAY DIES; DAUGHTER OF CITY PIONEER

Recalls When Ashland Avenue Was City Limits.

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia O'Sullivan Hay, daughter of one of the earliest settlers of Chicago, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter J. Roney, 7209 South Union avenue, where she died Sunday. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery.

Mrs. Hay was 77 years old. Until a few months before her death she continued to play the piano, an accomplishment she learned at the Lady of Loretto convent at Niagara Falls, N. Y. Her first schooling was at Miss Pierce's Select School for Young Girls on Madison street near where McVicker's theater now stands. Her husband, George Hay, who died 13 years ago, was associated with the Pinkerton Detective agency for 50 years.

Born At Monroe and Market.

Mrs. Hay's father, Eugene O'Sullivan, came to Chicago in 1832, before this area was incorporated as a village. He made the crossing from Ireland in 72 days by sailing vessel, and came down the Great Lakes from Detroit.

He was a gold, silver, and blacksmith by trade, and established a blacksmith shop where the Hotel Sherman now stands. The two story frame house he built at Monroe and Market streets was one of the first of its kind in the community. It was there Mrs. Hay was born. She often told her children of wandering across the river and getting lost at the city limits, then Ashland avenue.

Large Owner of Real Estate.

Mr. O'Sullivan had extensive real estate holdings throughout the city. He also owned several farms near Zion. The three story flat building, which still stands on Boston avenue, between Halsted and Des Plaines streets, where Mr. O'Sullivan built it in 1872, was the first brick building erected after the great Chicago fire.

Mrs. Hay is survived by nine children.

PRINCE OF WALES INSPECTS MUNICH WAR MEMORIALS

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The prince of Wales had a schoolboyish time today among perfumes, antiques, and world war mementos at the museums of Munich.

Breaking the journey from Budapest to Paris in order to visit places he learned to know in 1913, the British heir spent hours at the army museum, the war memorial, the Unknown Soldier's tomb, and the famous German museum where he saw models of two cruisers the British tried to capture in the Mediterranean during the war.

"O, yes, we tried to catch them," he remarked, "but failed."

The prince applied himself to playing an 18th century spinet. He sniffed delightedly at various specimens of perfume, and displayed intense interest in a large model of a coal mine.

EX-FOREST PARK VILLAGE OFFICER DIES SUDDENLY

Arthur W. Kistenbroker, former president and village clerk of Forest Park, died of a heart attack last night as he left his home at 1020 South Des Plaines avenue, in the suburb, to mail a letter. He was taken to the Oak Park hospital, where physicians pronounced him dead. He was 77 years old.

In 1918 Mr. Kistenbroker retired from active management of a monument company which he founded. He was one of the oldest residents of the village, his parents having brought him there from Chicago when he was a baby.

His wife, Augusta, two sons, and five grandchildren survive.

'MIND WOMAN,' SAYS HUSBAND; 'MAN,' SAYS WIFE

Kansas City, Kas., Feb. 25.—(AP)—"Give in to the woman," is Phillip A. Kaiser's recipe for wedded bliss. He and Mrs Kaiser will observe their sixty-ninth wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Mrs. Kaiser, 84, agrees with her 92 year old husband's theory with but one variation.

"Let the man have his own way," was her suggestion today when her daughter, Miss Josephine Kaiser, 68, asked her opinion. Kaiser offered his bit of advice to his son, George M. Kaiser, a 67 year old bachelor.

W. Douglas Little Dies; Former Railway Official

W. Douglas Little, for many years a resident of Chicago and formerly assistant claim agent for the Chicago and North Western railway, died yesterday at his home in Morrison, Ill. Mr. Little retired from service with the railroad in 1929, and moved to Morrison, where he had been practicing law. The funeral will be held tomorrow in Morrison and burial will be in Geneva. His wife, Florence, and four children survive.

Self-Inflicted Bullet Wound Kills Young Wife

Mrs. Helen Hansen, 24 years old, 2838 West North avenue, who shot herself early Sunday while despondent over ill health, died last night in the Lutheran Memorial hospital. Einer Hansen, her husband, told the police at the time that she had threatened to end her life.

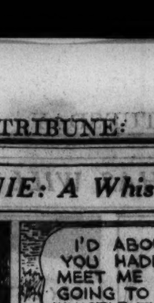
JOHN W. D'ARCY DIES; BAR DEAN IN WILL COUNTY

John W. D'Arcy, 74 years old, 123 South Center street, Joliet, dean of the bar of Will county where he had practiced 51 years, died in the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago yesterday after an illness of five months.



JOHN W. D'ARCY.

Mr. D'Arcy was born in Joliet in 1860. He was graduated from the law school of the University of Michigan in 1884 and entered practice the same year. He was named Joliet city attorney in 1892 and also served as alderman. He had been a member of the Joliet public library board for thirty-one years, serving the last eight as president.

Surviving are his widow, Katheryn, and four daughters and one son of his first wife, Carrie, who died in 1921. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in St. Patrick's church in Joliet. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery, Joliet.

FUNERAL SERVICE THIS EVENING FOR F. D. M'KITTRICK

Funeral services for Finley D. McKittrick, a teacher in the public schools of Chicago and the state for forty-nine years, will be held at 7 o'clock this evening in the chapel at 5203 Lake Park avenue. His body will be shipped to Fairfield, Ill., where his family settled in the early 1820s after moving from West Virginia.

Mr. McKittrick, who was 72 years old, died Sunday in his home, 3049 Langley avenue. After twenty years as a teacher in Chicago he retired in 1933. At that time he was in charge of the wood shop at the Bryant school, 1355 South Kedvale avenue.

Before coming to Chicago, Mr. McKittrick had served as superintendent of schools in five smaller communities. The last three towns were Shawneetown, Geneva and Hillsboro. Surviving are his wife, Edith, and four children, Mrs. Mabel Morrison, Mrs. Hazel Ernest, Mrs. Mona Hartkemeier and Gordon.

JOHN HARTNETT, REALTY EXPERT FOR CITY, DIES

John M. Hartnett, president of the Hartnett & Morrison company, real estate apraisal firm, and city real estate expert under Mayors Dever and Kelly, died yesterday in the home of a son at 1927 Estes avenue after three months' illness. He was 72 years old. Mr. Hartnett was president of the Forty-ninth ward Democratic organization.

Mr. Hartnett came to Chicago about 25 years ago from Escanaba, Mich., where he had been mayor and postmaster. Three sons, J. Ira and B. Emmett Hartnett of Chicago, and the Rev. Robert Hartnett, S. J., of Detroit college, Detroit, survive.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning from St. Ignatius church and burial will be in All Saints' cemetery.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra is such a success that the sponsor is reported looking for suitable time for a second weekly program. This feminine troupe puts on the "Hour of Charm" Thursday evenings on CBS at the same time Rudy Vallee and Ruth Etting are on the two NBC chains. Phil Spitalny credits the success of his girls in a measure, at least, to a clause in their contracts. Single girls in their early twenties, they all have had to sign a pledge not to marry for two years.

"No woman can be an artist and a wife at the same time," Spitalny assured each girl as she attached her signature to the contract. Up to now Spitalny has heard of no infractions of this clause.

Virginia Rea is off the air and bound for Hollywood. And Lionel Stander, the hard boiled voice of Fred Allen's Town Hall program, is also headed for the movies—has an RKO contract. . . . Horace Heidt's orchestra will support Capt. Dobbsie on his new Ship of Joy series beginning at 9:30 tonight over CBS.

Wendell Hall rounded out his 13th year on the air on Sunday evening. The Red Headed Music Maker started out as a xylophonist on old KYW. Morgan L. Eastman was in charge of the station then. And just about thirteen years ago Eastman, now director of the NBC Contented program, was booed and called a faker at an Association of Commerce dinner. He was to give a demonstration of radio. But when he turned on the loud speaker there were only squawks and squeals—no music. "Just a bum phonograph," the business leaders decided as they walked out on his show.

Harry Tugend, Fred Allen's collaborator, has named the new baby in his household Fred Allen Tugend. . . . The Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra may be heard in an air series. . . . Radio entertainers who will be heard today at the Conference on Current Problems, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, are Berenice Taylor and Sarah Ann McCabe, sopranos, and Lawrence Salerno, baritone. Tomorrow Mark Love will sing.

Red Ingle, soloist with Ted Weems' orchestra at the Palmer house, is seeking advice on dog handling from Bob Becker. Ingle's purp is an English springer spaniel bearing the monicker Lord Skipper McGee. Becker is giving the name full consideration in preparing his answer.

Bill Krenz, pianist for the Breakfast club and other NBC programs, has turned out a new ditty about and dedicated to the Dionne quintuplets. Titled "The Quints," the number will be presented for the first time on the air next Saturday morning.

FRANK MELVILLE, 74, CHAIN SHOE MERCHANT, DIES

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Frank Melville Jr., former cow puncher, who built up a $27,000,000 a year business by applying the chain store principle to the retailing of footwear, died today. The 74 year old chairman of the board of the Melville Shoe corporation had been ill for nearly three months with a complication of ailments.

As founder of the John Ward, Thom McAn and Rival shoe chains, Mr. Melville headed the largest organization of retail shoe stores in the world. Last year his units sold 7,686,068 pairs of shoe and 5,795,498 pairs of hosiery in 36 states.

Entering the shoe industry at a time when shoes were worn simply as a matter of foot protection, with little regard for fit or style, Mr. Melville made variety of pattern, personal salesmanship and standard price the keynotes of his success.

He was born June 3, 1860, in New York. After school he became a shoe clerk for a few months and then went west. His career as ranch hand ended with his marriage in 1886. He resumed work as shoe clerk until a job as traveling salesman came along.

It was during his four years in that post that Mr. Melville began his activities as a shoe stylist. His variations took hold almost at once. Organization of his chain stores followed in the next few years.

GEORGE ASMUS, CHIEF FLORIST AT FAIR, IS DEAD

Funeral services for George Asmus, 63 years old, florist who died Sunday in his home at 550 Monroe avenue, River Forest, will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the River Forest Masonic temple. Burial will be in Ridgewood cemetery.

Although he had been in frail health for more than two years, Mr. Asmus was in charge of the horticultural exhibit at the World's Fair last year. He was born in Buffalo, N. Y., and came to Chicago more than 50 years ago. Since early in this century he had been general manager of the three Schiller flower shops in Chicago. He was formerly president of the Society of American Florists, and of the Active club, the oldest business organization on the west side.

His wife, Irene; a son, Willard, of Evanston, and a daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Nelson of Chicago, survive.

FRED J. MILGATE, VETERAN AURORA TEACHER, IS DEAD

Funeral services for Fred J. Milgate, 47 years old, 523 Hoyles avenue, Aurora, assistant manual training director in the Aurora public schools, which he had served 17 years, will be held at 3 p. m. today in the Healy chapel. Burial will be in Riverside cemetery.

Mr. Milgate died in St. Joseph Mercy hospital in Aurora Sunday night. After a series of transfusions for which his students and members of the faculty of East High school gave their blood.

His wife and two children, Audrey, 12 years old, and Melvin, 9, survive.

THREE DENY PART IN CROAT PLOT TO MURDER KING

MARSEILLES, France, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Three Jugo-Slav suspects in the assassination of King Alexander last fall denied today before an examining magistrate that they had been sent to France to slay the king after he had been "sentenced to death" by Croat terrorists in Belgium last April.

An affidavit by Ivan Simonovitch, chief of the Jugo-Slav secret police, which is expected to be used by the prosecution in the trial of the three men, declared the assassin was a member of a separatist band seeking to detach Croatia from Jugo-Slavia and reunite it with Hungary.

All three denied they had received any orders from Dr. Ante Pavelich through his "delegate," Egon Kvaternik, or that any of the trio had ever participated in other terrorist attempts. While admitting that Kvaternik met them in Zurich, Switzerland, with orders, the prisoners refused to involve Pavelich, the Ustasha society chief.

CHAVEZ FILES CONTEST FOR CUTTING'S SEAT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Contest proceedings were filed with the senate today by former Representative Dennis Chavez of New Mexico, challenging the right of Senator Bronson Cutting, independent Republican, to hold his seat.

Chavez, who was supported in the senatorial race against Cutting by the Roosevelt administration, charges illegal votes in the 1934 election were counted for Cutting and legal votes for him were not counted. Unlawful expenditures by Senator Cutting also are charged.

PUBLIC SERVICE DIVIDEND NEAR, SIMPSON HINTS

Edison Denies It Is Holding Company.

Hope that dividend payments may be restored on the common stock of Public Service Company of Illinois during the year was expressed yesterday as Public Service and Commonwealth Edison company held annual stockholders' meetings.

James Simpson, chairman of both companies, told Edison stockholders that the management will oppose Edison's being classified as a holding company in consideration of drastic federal legislation pending against this type of utility. Although Edison owns nearly 34 per cent of Public Service common stock, Simpson pointed out that "at least 95 per cent of gross earnings have been derived from the sale of electric light and power to its customers." The primary function of a holding company, on the other hand, is ownership of securities of operating companies, he asserted.

Speaks of Tax Threat.

At both meetings, the chairman called attention to the threat of new state legislation to bring utilities under the 2 per cent retailers' occupational tax. They have been exempted by the Supreme court from the present law. Simpson said, however, that the companies hope to be able to pass the tax on to the customer instead of charging it against the company if such legislation is passed.

"This is now permitted to every other retailer coming under the provisions of the present law," he pointed out.

Referring to the case pending before the Illinois commerce commission for a reduction in Edison rates, the chairman stated that Chicago rates are among the lowest for large cities and said he believed the company has proved that its rates should not be reduced.

Promote Appliance Sale.

Both stockholder groups were told that future growth depends entirely upon increased use of their power and that the companies have been active in promoting sale of appliances to gain that objective. Air conditioning was pointed to as a promising new field.

The Edison meeting, although attended by several hundred persons, was quiet. Only one question was asked, as to the right of stockholders who bought shares on the installment basis from the company at $100 and were forced to continue paying after the market broke. Simpson agreed that this problem also has given the management much cause for concern, but that no way out of the situation has been found.

Directors were reëlected by oral vote without a dissent.

View on Dividend.

"We feel that the financial position of the company is now such that we shall be able conscientiously to recommend to the board of directors the payment of a dividend unless additional tax burdens are imposed or the operations of the company are seriously affected by federal or other legislation," Simpson said in reply to a question at the Public Service session.

The meeting generally passed off quietly except for a few questions, mostly from women, which Simpson answered. All members of the board were reëlected.

"General business during the last year has shown a gradual improvement, and this improvement has reflected itself in the operations of the company at least so far as its gross revenue is concerned," Simpson said.

UNION CARBIDE DIRECTORS VOTE LARGER DIVIDEND

Directors of the Union Carbide and Carbon company yesterday declared a dividend of 40 cents a share on the capital stock, payable April 1 to stock of record March 8. In the three preceding quarters 35 cents a share was paid.

The Commercial Solvents corporation declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable March 30 to stock of record March 6. The payment approximates $660,000. Action on the next regular dividend is not due until May. The company reported a rise in net income for 1934 to $2,346,237, after charges and taxes, from $2,327,846 in 1933. The 1934 net was equal to 89 cents a share, against 88 cents in the previous year.

The Merchandise corporation will pay an extra dividend of 12½ cents a share with the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on May 1, to holders of record April 20. The extra payment, it was announced, is to round out the 37½ cents paid last Feb. 1 and put the stock on a regular $2 annual basis as of the beginning of the year.

CHINESE DOLLAR HIGHEST SINCE '29 DESPITE CONTROL

SHANGHAI, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Chinese government's machinery for stabilization of exchange failed to halt the advance of the Chinese silver dollar today, which reached the highest mark since 1929. It rose to 38⅝ cents against the United States dollar on a wave of speculative buying. [The average quotation for the silver dollar last week as against the United States dollar was 37.2 cents.]

An attempt to spike a rumor which reportedly was contributing to the dollar's advance, the nationalist government's ministry of finance issued a statement that "the government has no intention of abolishing the export duty on silver or relaxing control over the exchange markets."

Utility Head's Gavel Angers Stockholders

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Angry protests from men and women stockholders of the Consolidated Gas company against the rulings of Floyd L. Carlisle, the chairman, today marked the annual meeting, which was attended by the largest gathering of shareholders ever recorded at a public utility meeting here. All seats in the big auditorium were occupied and there were many persons standing on both sides of the hall.

The first great outburst came when Mr. Carlisle overruled objections from the floor to the nomination of trustees. Somebody cried out: "Is this a Tammany meeting?" and other men and women stood up and shouted remarks to the chairman. They made angry gestures. Mr. Carlisle hammered with the gavel, but it was several minutes before the meeting could be resumed. The chairman assured the meeting that every one would have a chance to voice his grievances.

More Protests Are Made.

Order was maintained for only a short time when another man arose and objected to the reëlection of the fourteen trustees for one year, or until their successors are chosen, on the ground that the stockholders had not yet seen the annual report. Mr. Carlisle overruled him.

Then a woman insisted that she be heard then and there. She started: "I move this meeting be adjourned until the request——"

Ignoring her further protests, Mr. Carlisle announced that George G. Cortelyou, president of the company, had the floor. This announcement evoked applause from the 1,000 men and women present, but the woman who had moved for the adjournment continued to insist that she be allowed to speak.

"We've never been given an opportunity to be heard," she said. "The minutes are read and then we are huddled off to a luncheon."

Cortelyou Assails Higher Taxes.

The business of the trustees was put aside for the time being and Mr. Cortelyou read his report. He said sales of electricity had increased 5.27 per cent, but revenues had not gained in proportion. Gas sales increased 0.66 per cent. Steam sales were the largest in the history of the company, showing an increase of 4.52 per cent. This he attributed to the many cold days last year.

"In previous reports the burden of taxes which must be collected in utility rates has been discussed," Mr. Cortelyou said. "For 1934 the operating taxes of this group of companies amounted to 17.98 cents of each dollar of revenue from sales of gas, electricity, and steam. There was an increase in taxes of 12 per cent from 1933, and of 880 per cent from 1914. Such taxes are grossly out of proportion to those imposed on other industries. Since taxes have to be collected through our bills to customers, there is public clamor that rates are too high, whereas the tax burdens on the rates have been too high."

All directors were reëlected. Adjournment to March 11 was taken on the proposal to consolidate all of the companies in the group into a single corporation.

DOLLAR WEAKER AGAINST CHIEF FOREIGN MONEYS

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The dollar was slightly softer against leading European currencies in quiet foreign exchange markets today. The British pound rose ¼ cent to close at $4.86¾, slightly above par, and the French franc was ⅜ point stronger at 6.62⅞ cents.

Against the franc the dollar was worth $1,007, compared with $1.0013 on Saturday. The gold value of the dollar against francs was 59.10 cents, compared with 59.14 cents on Saturday and par of 59.06.

Belgas rose 2 points to 23.46 cents, Swiss francs 3 points to 32.53 cents, and guilders 5 points to 67.90 cents. Scandinavian currencies were up 1 to 3 points and German marks improved 4 points at 40.24 cents. Canadian dollars remained at par.

In London the price of bar gold dropped 1½ pence to 143 shillings 9½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.95.

The New York Federal Reserve bank reported the receipt of $528,100 gold from Holland.

USE OF CHECKS SHOWS BIG GAIN IN MIDDLE WEST

Business activity in the seventh federal reserve district as measured by checks drawn against individual deposit accounts during the week ended Dec. 20 rose 23.1 per cent over the preceding week. Clearings for the week totaled $924,428,000, against $751,098,000.

Clearings of 39 cities in the district were $923,175,000, compared with $850,571,000 in the corresponding week of last year, an increase of 8.5 per cent.

In Chicago total clearings for the week amounted to $536,292,000, against $516,042,000 a year ago. Detroit reported $160,729,000, against $145,076,000; Milwaukee, $52,399,000, against $50,457,000, and Indianapolis, $34,047,000, against $28,074,000.

Argentine Official Won't Tell Packer Income Tax

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Feb. 25.—The senate committee investigating meat trade profits met a snag today when the income tax commissioner refused to reveal the packers' income tax payments on the ground that under the law he is not allowed to impart such information. The attorney general of the nation supported the commissioner's view.

Consumers Co. Hearing Postponed Until Today

BALDWIN LOCOMOTIVE SEEKS TO REORGANIZE; OMITS BOND INTEREST

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The Baldwin Locomotive works, one of the oldest and largest builders of locomotives in the United States, today filed a petition in federal district court seeking reorganization under section 77-B of the federal act providing for reorganization of corporations.

With this action came the announcement that the corporation could not pay $313,158 in interest due March 1 on $10,428,600 of five year 6 per cent consolidated mortgage bonds in the hands of the public. The announcement stated payment could not be made "without endangering the ability of the company to continue current operations."

Judge Oliver B. Dickinson signed an order allowing the corporation to retain possession of its property until March 22. He then will hold a hearing to determine whether to allow the concern to continue permanent possession or whether he will appoint court trustees to take over the business.

William Clark Mason of counsel for the corporation said that none of the subsidiaries is affected by the petition. The assets of the Baldwin works, he said, are $59,089,945 and the liabilities $22,141,381 as of Jan. 31, 1935.

NEW YORK MART STARTS TOBACCO FUTURES TRADE

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Tobacco futures went on the block with a bang today as traders crowded the new ring on the floor of the New York Produce exchange. The first sale was made by Jerome Lewine, president of Commodity Exchange, Inc., to Wallace Brindley of E. A. Pierce & Co. at a price of 24.40 cents a pound for a contract of May burley tobacco.

Trading was preceded by opening addresses of Samuel Knighton, president of the exchange; James Clifton Stone, chairman of its tobacco trade advisory board, and James Lovatelli, chairman of the committee on tobacco. The grain rings were temporarily deserted, as practically the entire floor membership helped to get the new market off to an active start.

Trading is conducted in two contracts, one for burley and one for flue-cured tobacco. The unit is 10,000 pounds, and price changes are limited to 3 cents a pound for any one session. Price fluctuations are in one-hundredths of a cent a pound, and trading hours are between 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m.

CHICAGO GROUP FIGHTS FEDERAL CONTROL OF COAL

The Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday that it has started a movement to oppose passage at Washington, D. C., of legislation to make the soft coal industry a public utility controled by the government.

Chicago coal dealers maintain, the announcement said, that the legislation would result in the loss of the sales of millions of tons of soft coal in Illinois annually as well as increasing the cost to the consumer. This would result from the establishment of a national commission to handle the industry, George W. Young, president of the association, said.

If the federal government took control of an industry which should be owned and operated by private interests, it was declared, the action would be a constant threat to other industries.

Curb Granted Postponement to Tomorrow of SEC Quiz

The investigation into the affairs of the Chicago Curb exchange by agents of the Securities and Exchange commission was continued yesterday until 10 a. m. tomorrow morning at the request of Claude A. Roth, attorney for the Curb. The investigation originally was announced as covering market movements of certain shares traded on the exchange, but was broadened to include the application of the exchange from exemption from registration under the SEC.

Money Flows from N. Y. to Other Cities

Money continued to flow from New York to other cities last week, the weekly federal reserve member bank reports covering operations in 91 leading cities of the country indicates.

Gross deposits of New York institutions fell 33 million dollars, while individual deposits dropped 21 millions. Chicago had respective increases of 21 and 17 millions, while the 89 cities showed gains of 18 and 11 millions. Total gross deposits gained 6 millions and individual deposits rose 7 millions.

The government drew down 49 millions of its war loan account with New York banks and a million in interior cities. Chicago banks reported no change. Interbank deposits increased 49 millions through rises of 37 millions in New York, 4 million here and 8 millions elsewhere.

Loans and Investments Shrink.

A further increase in idle funds was shown in a decline of 30 millions in total loans and investments. Chief sufferer was the brokers' loan account, which fell 20 millions. Other collateralized advances declined 13 millions.

Business loans advanced 7 millions and commercial acceptances gained 9 millions. Holding of direct government obligations rose 19 millions and fully guaranteed federal loans increased 12 millions. Holding of other than government securities slumped 44 millions.

The 89 cities—New York and Chicago excluded—reported an upturn of 24 millions in loans and investments, a rise of 2 millions each in acceptances and business loans, and gains of 16 and 17 millions, respectively, in direct and fully guaranteed government obligations. Declines of 7 millions each were shown in security loans and the portfolio of securities other than governments.

Quebec Prepares to Force Higher Newsprint Prices

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 25.—The government of the province of Quebec is preparing to wield the legislative big stick over newsprint companies in an effort to force them to ask American publishers to pay a higher price for newsprint supplies. The main weapon to be used by the government is water power rights and royalties upon the development of the electricity therefrom.

FEBRUARY'S OUTPUT OF AUTOMOBILES MAY EXCEED PREDICTIONS

Production of motor cars this month promises to attain the 340,000 units predicted earlier in February and may even be higher if certain obstacles are removed, Automotive Industries reports. The journal says that March assemblies should easily top 400,000 units and may reach 425,000. It says that indications are April is likely to be the peak month this year, with a mild recession in output during the following two months.

"The widespread distribution of retail sales, with sizable increases registered in almost all sections of the country, is a notable and encouraging development," the paper says. "Only in one or two districts, such as the citrus fruit area in Florida where severe weather has done great damage, have sales failed to respond to the buying urge. Retail demand has been especially good in the Mississippi valley and the south."

The journal states that possible labor trouble constitutes the only threat to a continuation of the expansion of automotive production during the next month.

SEC HEAD HERE PLANS POLICING SECURITY TRADE

E. E. Barthell Jr., newly appointed head of the Securities and Exchange commission branch office in Chicago, yesterday pictured the work of his staf as policing the securities business. All matters of policy and registration of new securities will be handled in Washington. The local office, however, may advise on the latter type of business.

"We need on our staf several 'smelters'—people who discover the off-color dealings. An investigator, as I see it, is one who runs down clews, but we are charged with finding the clews as well."

The office will be placed in operation March 1 at 231 South La Salle street with about 15 employés. Mr. Barthell expects the number to increase to 50 by the end of the year, since there is much to be done over the wide area including 11 states. The original force will include attorneys, accountants, and "smellers."

Mr. Barthell reiterated the objectives of the commission outlined here recently by Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the commission. It seeks to protect and encourage new financing and legitimate business, he said, while offcolor dealings will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

STEEL INDUSTRY STARTS WEEK AT 47.9 PCT. RATE

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—The steel mills of the United States started the week today at 47.9 per cent of capacity, or 1.2 points less than on last Monday, according to telegraphic and telephonic reports to the American Iron and Steel institute.

Last Monday the rate was 49.1 per cent, a month ago it was 52½ per cent, and in the corresponding 1934 period it was 45.7 per cent. In the corresponding week a year ago the rate was an increase of 2.1 points over the immediately preceding week.

With prices for almost all iron and steel products extended for the second quarter and automobile and tin plate activities continuing at a high rate, leading steel executives predict a further increase in demand and a continuing forward surge in the manufacturing steel production rate.

A YEAR HENCE

Given two lists of securities of equal market value today, what will their respective positions be a year from now?

It requires no gift of prophecy to predict that the list which has been put together by unbiased specialists and continuously and vigorously supervised by them thereafter will occupy a substantially better position than the one which has not.

CROP CONTROL IS THREAT TO U. S. MARKETS

Consumers, Growers Are Resentful.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

In repeating its attempt to control crops this year the federal government is taking a long chance on nature. Should a third consecutive crop failure or even lower than normal yields materialize this year the artificial curtailment program of the AAA might well prove a boomerang. Already apprehension is expressed that the nation's wheat crop this year will share the fate of its two predecessors. Not since 1932 has the country produced enough wheat to supply domestic needs, although in the past the United States ranked as a great wheat exporting nation.

Leading private crop authorities assert that unless abnormally heavy rainfall is received in the next few months in the southwest wheat area the chances of a normal crop are exceedingly remote. B. W. Snow, Chicago crop expert, has repeatedly warned of what he describes as alarming conditions in the wheat belt.

Helps Foreign Producers.

Another crop failure means further inroads into the American market by foreign agricultural products. The country has already lost its foreign grain markets and it is no longer a question of selling to foreigners, but of retaining the home market. Today the United States is an important purchaser of the principal grains in foreign markets. It is not improbable that the government's crop reduction program abetted by fickle nature will force American consumers to enter foreign markets on an even larger scale.

The country is now experiencing the effects of the government's curtailment operations in the live stock field. Meat prices are skyrocketing and consumers are beginning to turn to other foods. Nor are the producers themselves satisfied. Meeting in Chicago last week the United States Live Stock association, representing 60,000 stockraisers, voted to reject proposals for a processing tax on cattle such as is now in effect on hogs. High pork prices have driven away prospective consumers and beef would suffer in the same manner if a tax were added to the present prices, the stockmen were warned.

Brings In Canadian Stock.

The high level of cattle prices has brought Canadian cattle into the Chicago market for the first time in six years. In one week recently New York received a half million pounds of beef and pork from six foreign countries.

There appears to be little doubt that the consuming section of the population resents the new high level of meat prices which has not been offset by compensating increases in consumer income. And producers also are resentful. Producers who sold their cattle last summer at sacrificial prices when the government was removing the "surplus" now feel that they were cheated.

If the grain producer cuts acreage and then gets only a small yield on what remains he is likely to be in much the same frame of mind as the live stock man. Meanwhile the government will have succeeded in providing a market for foreign farm products.

Letter Trade 'Treaty' Drawn with Belgium

Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—[Special.]—A reciprocal trade agreement has practically been concluded with Belgium, but will take the form of an exchange of letters rather than a treaty, due to obstacles that have made the understanding much less far reaching than had been originally hoped for on both sides.

The letters are expected to be signed and exchanged soon, after which members of the Belgian economic mission, headed by Pierre Forthomme, who came here six weeks ago to conduct the negotiations, will sail for home.

May Make Treaty Later.

The understanding will embody a number of provisions, including detailed schedules, and will be susceptible of enlargement later as opportunity may offer. Eventually, it may be possible to reduce the agreement to treaty form, but this is not a prospect for several months, at least.

Details of the understanding, which occupied the attention of M. Forthomme and Acting Secretary of State Phillips at two conferences today, have not been disclosed. They cover a number of agricultural and manufactured products which enter into the trade of the two countries both ways and include a substantial reduction on the Belgian duties on American automobiles. The exchange question was said not to enter into the understanding.

U. S.-GERMAN TRADE FAILS

BERLIN, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Trade relations between the United States and Germany have taken a turn toward complete collapse, it was revealed today in official figures just made available.

Within one year American sales to Germany have dropped from $15,700,000 in January, 1934, to $2,600,000 last December. Similarly, German sales to the United States show a steady, although less marked decline, dropping from almost $6,500,000 in January, 1934, to about $5,500,000 in December.

While during the years from 1926 to 1928 the United States sold on the average goods for more than $473,500,000 to Germany, sales for 1934 totaled only $107,000,000. German exports to the United States dropped from a high of $236,000,000 in 1929 to a low of $69,000,000 during 1934.

American Investments Hurt.

Unless barriers on both sides are removed soon, American business investments in Germany amounting to millions of dollars may prove a total loss or at least may become so "frozen" that American parent concerns might for all practical purposes consider them nonexistent.

Such profits as American plants operating in Germany still make are now transferable to reichsmark profits which can be used in Germany only. A stockholder living in America can neither draw his interest nor withdraw his capital from Germany.

The more desperate Germany's need for foreign exchange is becoming the more American trade suffers.

This derth of foreign exchange has compelled Schacht to revert to the ancient system of barter. Of all the countries trading with Germany, the United States probably fares worst under this policy. In the first place Schacht will authorize no barter arrangement of American goods against German if the German commodity is one that America would buy anyway.

Pepper Crash Interests Agree on Marketing Plan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 25.—Efforts of the London pepper market to solve the problems arising from the recent pepper pool failure have led to an agreement by all interests to coöperate with the dealers and shippers in a plan to dispose of the huge stocks thrown on the market.

YELLOW CAB CO. TO PAY MILLION FOR NEW CARS

1,000 Go in Service on July 1.

The Yellow Cab company will let contracts soon for 1,000 new taxicabs at a cost estimated in excess of one million dollars. Bids are being received now, and the new cabs will be placed in service July 1, Thomas B. Hogan, president of the company, said yesterday.

THOMAS B. HOGAN.

The new equipment is the first to be purchased since 1931, and will be used to replace older cabs. No addition will be made to the 2,166 taxis in operation at present. All cabs now in service have several more years of usefulness, Hogan said, but the company is following its policy of making replacements in advance of their actual need.

Use Heavier Cars Here.

The new cabs will continue the company's policy of providing heavier equipment than that in use in most other cities. Although lighter cabs would cost less and be less expensive in operation, the company feels that Chicagoans would not patronize the inferior service.

"Chicago cab riders always have demanded better service than anywhere else in the United States," said Hogan. "They won't put up with those which are used in other cities.

"This fact has complicated our problem in letting the contract. We must have an especially attractive article at the best price possible. Handling the same people day in and day out, we are compelled to continue giving them the same type of service—the same size, weight, and comfort in a cab—if we are to keep their business. This is true despite the fact that our rates have been cut to a level with other cities which do not furnish the same type of service."

Purchase for Cash.

The strong financial position of the company makes possible a cash purchase. Through depreciation charges, sizable reserves have been built up, and it is regarded likely that the company will buy another 1,100 cabs in 1936 to renew its entire fleet during the next year and a half or two years.

A long list of bids has appeared. Whereas only one or two companies formerly engaged in taxicab production, a number of automobile companies have entered the field in the last few years.

"PENNSY" TO AIR CONDITION ALL THROUGH TRAINS

Beginning with this summer all through trains on the Pennsylvania railroad operating between Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Dayton, Indianapolis, Columbus, Toledo and eastern terminals will be completely air conditioned, the road announced yesterday. To make this possible there will be large increases in air conditioning equipment which will bring the total to 837 cars.

The Pennsylvania now has 272 air-conditioned cars and 78 more will get this equipment during the spring. In addition the Pullman company, will raise its quota of air-conditioned cars assigned to the Pennsylvania to 537.

Our business is banking. It is our belief that we serve the customer best by remaining solely in that field. We confine our counsel to financial matters.

STOCKS DRIFT; TRADERS AWAIT CAPITAL EVENTS

Utilities Firm, but Other Groups Weaken.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 25.—Clouds of uncertainty hovered over the stock market today as traders contented themselves with occupying benches on the sidelines to await developments in the national capital, making for a dull and aimless session with the price trend pointing gradually downward. Utilities and a few specialties were able to move higher but even their performance was not convincing nor did it inspire bullish confidence in the rest of the list. Total transactions amounted to 744,200 shares.

The speculative fraternity was especially concerned by news from Washington, many attributing the market's hesitancy to the difficulties encountered by the administration leaders in connection with the public works program and the possibility that other snags might be encountered by the New Deal régime. Another factor deemed a cause for concern is the fate of the NRA.

Report Codes Restrict Profits.

One by one the annual reports of corporations covering the last year are beginning to come in and almost without exception those reports tell of larger sales. It is pointed out, however, that the margin of profit is smaller because of higher costs under the codes.

What little interest there was in the day's trading was centered mainly in the public utility and rail sections of the list. The tide moved a little in favor of the utilities, being helped at least a little by the recent court decision in a TVA case.

The price changes in the utility division of the list ranged from a major fraction in American Telephone to over a point in Consolidated Gas, despite the latter company's annual earnings report showing a large reduction in the amount available for dividend disbursements.

Traders Pessimistic Over Rails.

Meanwhile, the pessimism with which the rails have come to be viewed thickened. Although in the main the losses were only fractional they were sufficient to bring new low price levels for the year in Atchison, Baltimore and Ohio preferred, Erie and others.

United States Steel, after meeting with heavy offerings early in the session, came back strong to regain most of its loss, being no worse than fractionally lower at the finish. Other steel shares reflected the further curtailing of operations in the industry.

Price changes were more or less nominal among the oils, chemicals, foods, tobaccos, motors, and metals. Rail equipments suffered, although the Baldwin issues were able to rally a little.

A number of senior issues were notably weak.

PAID PRESIDENT, PRESS AGENT FOR EXCHANGE ASKED

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Suggestions that the New York Stock exchange employ a paid president and a press agent were put forward today at an open meeting of members and their office partners, called by the nominating committee to receive recommendations for the offices to be filled at the annual election on May 13. A president, eleven regular members of the governing committee, and eight others who, drawn from the ranks of office partners, and to be known as "governing members," will be elected in May.

No one was suggested to the nominating commitee to supplant Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, but thirteen potential candidates for the governing committee were named, eight of whom were office partners.

New York, Feb. 25.—[Special.]—Bond prices were generally lower today in rather inactive trading. The second and speculative grades were exceptionally weak and losses ranging from 1 to 4 points were frequent in that group. Gilt edge bonds, however, held most firm in limited activity. Transactions totaled $12,239,000 compared with $13,446,000 last Thursday, the last previous five hour session.

United States government obligations were irregularly lower. The non-gold clause bonds were off 2-32 to 11-32 point, while the gold clause obligations were up 2-32 to 13-32 point. The Home Owners Loan 2¾s were the most active of this group, closing at a net loss of 7-32 point. Some of the treasury issues established new high records in the early trading.

Railroad Issues Decline.

In the domestic corporation group, the railroad obligations were the weakest. Issues displaying the most weakness included those of the New York Central, the Milwaukee, Chicago and North Western, Nickel Plate, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern railway, Pere Marquette, New Haven, Boston and Maine, and Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh. Santa Fe and Wheeling and Lake Erie issues, however, were exceptions, fractional advances having been made in them.

Others yielding nearly that much included obligations of the Erie, Illinois Central, Southern Pacific, Studebaker, Warner Brothers, and Great Northern. Minor losses were shown by obligations of the Chesapeake and Ohio, Burlington, Union Pacific, Inland Steel, and Pennsylvania.

Utilities Resist Selling.

The utility obligations, which have been under heavy selling pressure recently, showed some resistance, although this group was generally lower. Some of these issues to show gains for the day were Utah Power and Light 5s, the American Telephone and Telegraph loans, and Western Union 5s of '51. The foreign bonds also displayed a slightly lower trend and were featureless.

Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Investors' Guide: How do you consider Youngstown Sheet and Tube bonds? I have confidence in your information.—K. M. H.

Answer: Youngstown Sheet and Tube company ranks as the fifth largest domestic steel2 producer. Output is not, however, as diversified as that of other large steel producers, about 57 per cent of finishing capacity being devoted to production of tubular steel products. The largest single source of business is the oil and natural gas industry. Demand for pipe has not been especially active in recent years.

Second largest source of business is the automobile production. Pickup in automobile production during the second quarter of 1934 enabled the company to cover its interest charges 2.09 times that period, but losses in the first and third quarter of 1934 were responsible for the company's earning only 44 per cent of interest charges during the first nine months of last year.

Interest charges run about $4,500,000 a year. In 1934 the company lost $2,589,000 after all charges, against losses of $8,598,000, $12,522,000, and $7,041,000 for 1933, 1932, and 1931, respectively. In 1930 the company earned fixed charges 2.92 times.

Despite heavy losses the company has maintained a strong current position. On June 30, 1934, cash assets of about $14,500,000 compared with total current liabilities of $5,773,000. Working capital was $55,873,000 and funded debt, consisting of the 5s, due 1978, and the 5s, due 1970, equally secured, was $57,300,000.

The bonds are a business man's risk.

Allied Mills.

Investors' Guide: Please give me a report on Allied Mills.—W. P. E.

Answer: Operations of Allied Mills, Inc., fall into four classifications: live stock feeds, soy bean products, field seeds, and distillery products.

General improvement in business conditions, higher commodity prices and benefit from distillery operations have resulted in improved earnings. For the year ended June 30, 1934, net income was $888,000, or $1 a share, against net of $362,000, or 43 cents a share, for the preceding year. Net income in the June 30, 1932, year was $210,000, against net of $22,000 for the year ended June 30, 1931.

On Jan. 2, 1935, it was revealed that earnings for the six months to Dec. 31, 1934, were substantially better than in the corresponding 1933 period.

Nonpayment of dividends since July 1, 1930, has enabled the company to maintain a fair current position despite heavy plant expenditures. Current assets on June 30, 1934, totaled $3,337,000 and current liabilities were $1,343,000. There is no funded debt.

The 886,888 shares of no par stock are somewhat speculative at present.

GRAINS REGAIN EARLY DECLINES IN QUIET TRADE

Weather Conditions Have Small Influence.

Grains moved listlessly on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, ruling lower most of the session but rallying before the close to bring prices back to levels existing Saturday. Trade was light throughout the session and devoid of feature. At no time did volume assume even normal proportions.

Some selling occurred early, based on heavy snows throughout much of the plains region, which should benefit growing wheat, but traders feared to press this too far as reports continued of heavy dust storms, which have an adverse effect.

Weather News Freakish.

Weather news was an anomaly. Terrific dust storms late last week, followed by high temperatures, then heavy winds and temperatures near zero in places caused considerable crop damage. One report from Kansas City described the situation by saying "several million acres of wheat in Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Colorado and Texas went to the happy hunting ground."

"Wheat had been hanging on by an eyelash and consequently damage was extremely heavy," this report continued. "A short crop seems certain and the end is not in sight."

B. W. Snow, crop expert, said reports are unanimous that the storms have precipitated a serious crop situation. "From Washington it was reported that a considerable area in the affected states has been so completely subjected to erosion that its value for crop purposes is destroyed," he said.

Market Is Not Disturbed.

The market, however, failed to be disturbed. Prices indicated that traders felt little relief was afforded the drouth areas. Closing prices on May futures of principal grains follow:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .97⅛	$ .97	$ .98⅜
Corn	.84⅞	.84⅝	.89
Oats	.50⅞	.50⅝	.53⅛
Rye	.64⅛	.64	.67⅛

Wheat in Liverpool closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher, Winnipeg rose a quarter cent, Buenos Aires eased a small fraction and Rotterdam declined ⅝ cent to 1⅛ cents. Oriental demand for Australian wheat has been fairly well sustained, while only a fair inquiry has been evidenced for Canadian stocks.

Visible supplies of wheat suffered another cut last week, dropping more than 3,000,000 bushels. This brought the total to 61 million bushels, compared with 103 millions at this time last year, 147 millions two years ago and 202 millions in 1932.

Conditions in other pits duplicated those in wheat. Visible supplies of corn dropped more than a million bushels against a rise at this time last year.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Offerings of fresh eggs were liberal yesterday, while the demand was not aggressive and prices were reduced ½ to 1c per doz to effect sales. Receipts were 10,378 cases. Butter was weak and 1 to 1¼c per pound lower. Receipts were 12,205 tubs. Potatoes were steady, with receipts of 152 cars and 306 cars on team track. Live poultry sold at unchanged prices. Receipts were 14 trucks.

MEN

WE NEED MEN IN CHICAGO BUT CAN'T USE MEN INTERESTED IN A RELIEF INCOME. WE ARE MORE INTERESTED IN MEN WHO DO NOT ANSWER ADS. IF YOU INSIST ON A JOB THAT PAYS THEM AN INCOME IN EXCESS OF $45 A WEEK.

You will investigate new ideas, new products, patented, as important as pasteurizing of milk, cellophane, chlorine of water—offering a permanent and profitable connection for years to come.

Electrical units, air conditioning units, and concealed heating are some of our products.

We will establish the men selected in a BUSINESS OF THEIR OWN, finance their accounts, consign merchandise, pay the rent, light, heat, stenographer, etc.; place them where the business is and pay them weekly without one cent investment on their part. The combined total cash capital of two men, Bell and Hill, for four weeks ending Dec. 31st was $1,753.07, or an average for a week for each man of $292.30.

This large corporation operates all over the world and is preparing to expand. WE NEED GOOD MEN, but they must be hard workers, sincere, and have good references. The appeal of one of our products is powerful—beyond your belief—sells itself.

APPLY TUESDAY, 11 A. M., ONLY.

SUITE 111,
HOTEL SHERMAN

IF YOU NEED WORK

we have made places in our organization for 15 men, and we are particularly anxious to talk to those who have had some connection with the building or allied trades and who can readily grasp the operation of an electrical unit. The immediate opportunities in Chicago and promotion department with a percentage and bonus that will make a very livable income for the right men. Apply ready to give reference and go to work today.
